Fire Dept. Issues OKd

CONGLOMERATION of construction equipment is near triangular intersection of Illinois Rt. 72, Busse Road, and Oakton Street where the state plans to make major improvements. Contracting and Material Co., Evanston, has a $5 million contract to alter intersection and widen Illinois Rt. 83, also known as Busse Road, from two to six lanes in Elk Grove Village.

The hiring of four additional firemen and the awarding of a contract for a $45,000 fire truck was approved Tuesday by the Elk Grove Village Board.

An ordinance increasing the authorized strength of the department from 23 to 27 men received unanimous approval as did the purchase of a pumper truck from Mack Trucks, Inc., Chicago, for $44,940.

Fire Chief Allen Hulett said Wednesday the four new openings in the department will probably be filled beginning in July. Another man will be added during that time to fill a vacancy.

The department presently has 22 full-time firemen, but had been authorized 23 until Tuesday's action, Hulett explained.

THE BOARD TOOK a similar action last week regarding the police department when it increased the number of sworn personnel from 27 to 31.

Average salary of the new firemen is expected to be about $8,000, Hulett said, adding that they will undergo a 30-day intensified training program 10 hours a day, 5½ days a week.

The program is administered by personnel within and outside of the department.

In addition to the 27 firemen, the village has 15 volunteer firemen who serve as a backup force. Hulett said the department expects to add eight to 10 more volunteers soon.

THE NEW PUMPER truck, a 1,250-gallon-per-minute unit, will give the department 10 pieces of equipment. The department presently has three pumpers, an ambulance, a back-up ambulance, a civil defense vehicle, a snorkel, rescue squad, and the chief's car.

Hulett said the purchase of a 100-foot aerial ladder fire truck expected to cost $60,000 is scheduled this summer. Bids are expected to be awarded in about a month, he said.

The new fire fighting equipment will be for the new fire station at Biesterfeld and Wellington roads.

Delivery of the diesel powered fire truck, purchased Tuesday, is expected to be in 10 to 12 months. Elk Grove Village firemen will pick up the truck at the company's plant in Allentown, Pa.

THE BOARD ALSO awarded a $30,441 contract to Thomas Construction Co., Elk Grove Village, the low bidder, for construction of pump houses at Well No. 6, Greenleaf Avenue and Illinois Rt. 83, and Well No. 7, west of Illinois Rt. 53 near Nerge Road.

Trustee Ronald Chernick was critical of bid procedure in the past and said it cost the village $2,000. However, he said he would "vote for it because we need it."

Trustee George Coney abstained as other trustees voted in the affirmative.

In other action, the board voted to:

—Purchase 75 two-inch diameter parkway trees at $30 a tree from Berthold Nursery and Garden Center, Elk Grove Village.

—Passed a resolution increasing fees for permits and inspections for sanitary sewer connections with the Metropolitan Sanitary District from $125 to $225.

—Authorized the village attorney to prepare an amendment to the municipal code to provide for establishing 20 mile per hour zones adjacent to parks and playgrounds.

—Retained Elk Grove Engineering Co. to perform engineering services for the 1969-70 street maintenance program.

Housing Resurrected

SPRINGFIELD — The open housing light was resurrected yesterday in the Senate when the Republican majority voted 28-2 to send a series of bills to the committee most likely to kill them.

After an hour of debate, the measures which already passed the House were sent to the Registration and Miscellaneous Committee — perennial graveyard for such bills.

No Wage-Price Control

WASHINGTON — The White House has announced that President Nixon has no intention of adopting wage and price controls as an alternative to curb inflation if Congress refuses to extend the 10 per cent surtax.

Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy earlier had stated that wage-price controls were under consideration as alternative measures.

U.S. Is Back In Favor

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — After six years Cambodia has resumed diplomatic relations with the United States.

However, along with the agreement, the Cambodian government has demanded $8 million in reparations for damages caused by American planes using defoliants to search for Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

North Viets Repelled

SAIGON — About 100 North Vietnamese troops broke through the outer perimeter of a U.S. Army artillery base briefly yesterday and were driven out after the defenders lowered their artillery pieces to ground level and fired point-blank.

Fourteen Americans were killed, while the enemy lost at least 27 in the action at the 198th Infantry Brigade Artillery base, 340 miles north-northeast of Saigon, U.S. spokesmen said.

Peking, Soviets Clash

HONG KONG — Peking claimed yesterday Soviet troops provoked a border clash Tuesday and sent an armored column knifing into Communist China near the Lop Nor missile testing site, but the Russian version of the incident put the blame on the Chinese.

Red China, claiming that the Russians probed near one of her major oil fields, filed a protest with the Soviet embassy in Peking, and the Soviet foreign ministry delivered a note rejecting the Chinese protest.

Policemen Acquitted

CHICAGO — A federal court jury yesterday found three Chicago policemen innocent in the beating of a newsman during the Democratic National Convention week disorders.

The jury acquitted the trio on the charge that they deprived a Chicago Daily News reporter of his civil rights by beating him. U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry said he was "in harmony" with the jury's decision.

Primary Bill In House

SPRINGFIELD — A Senate bill to move Illinois' primary date from the second Tuesday in June to the second Tuesday in April was sent to the House floor yesterday on a 17-3 vote.

The House Elections Committee recommended the House pass the measure. However, the full House already has turned down a House bill to do the same thing.

Rats Are Scarce

A survey for rat infestation in Elk Grove Village concludes that the community has "only a light rat condition."

A survey for rat infestation in Elk Grove Associates, Chicago rodent control consultants, was presented to the village board Tuesday.

It was made in conjunction with the local board of health following the sighting of rats by residents on Elk Grove Boulevard between Victoria and Crest.

The report states that investigators saw only two burrows attributable to Norway rats on the banks of drainage ditches. Several muskrat openings were found. However, there were no other findings of rodents.

THE REPORT concludes:

—That the light rat condition is transitory, indicating that rats have moved through the area, but have not heavily established themselves.

—That there has been a tendency to exaggerate the number of rats seen.

—That some complainants have confused muskrats with rats in the vicinity of water.

—That a massive exterminating effort is not presently warranted.

The survey recommends that breaks in concrete around storm sewers and drainage ditches which serve as a natural refuge be repaired and that an effort to apprise residents of the difference in appearance of Norway Rats and muskrats be made.

Also recommended is that a village rodent control facility be set up.

The report, while stating overall exterior sanitation in the residential part of the village is "very good," noted that Busse Woods and the industrial park areas are considered encouraging to rats.

"WHILE OUR inspection did not uncover any conditions in the Elk Grove residential area that could be considered particularly encouraging to rats, both the open Forest Preserve District to the west and north, and the industrial complex to the immediate east are open to question.

"Our quick tour of the factory area uncovered several lots used for dumping and overgrown with weeds. And, as a natural wildlife refuge, the Forest Preserve District must be considered as a constant potential."

Registration—Set for Today

Teens in need of summer work may register today and tomorrow with Job Mart, sponsored by the Elk Grove Teen Council.

Registration is at Grantwood School, 225 Elk Grove Blvd. from 12 to 4 p.m. Beginning next Tuesday registration will be at the park district office, 490 Biesterfeld Road.

Registration fee is 75 cents.

Also, beginning Monday, residents in need of teens for yardwork, baby sitting, painting, and other household chores should call 437-0439.

Last year 200 teens took part in the referral program, formerly sponsored by Community Service.

Three Democrat committeemen in the four-township area insisted Wednesday their candidate for 13th District congressman remains a question.

A reliable news source Tuesday night said Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie is a unanimous pick among the district's eight

Pahl Reimbursed

Two Elk Grove Village Trustees Tuesday objected to the village footing a $55 bill to pay for expenses incurred by the village president while testifying on legislation in Springfield.

Trustees George Coney and Tom Ullmann raised the objection when it was time to approve the accounts payable warrant.

Village Pres. Jack Pahl, who also is chairman of the Cook County Council of Governments (COG), said he was in Springfield to testify on legislation which would affect the village and that he should be reimbursed.

Ullmann said the payment would be compensation which is not provided for in state statutes.

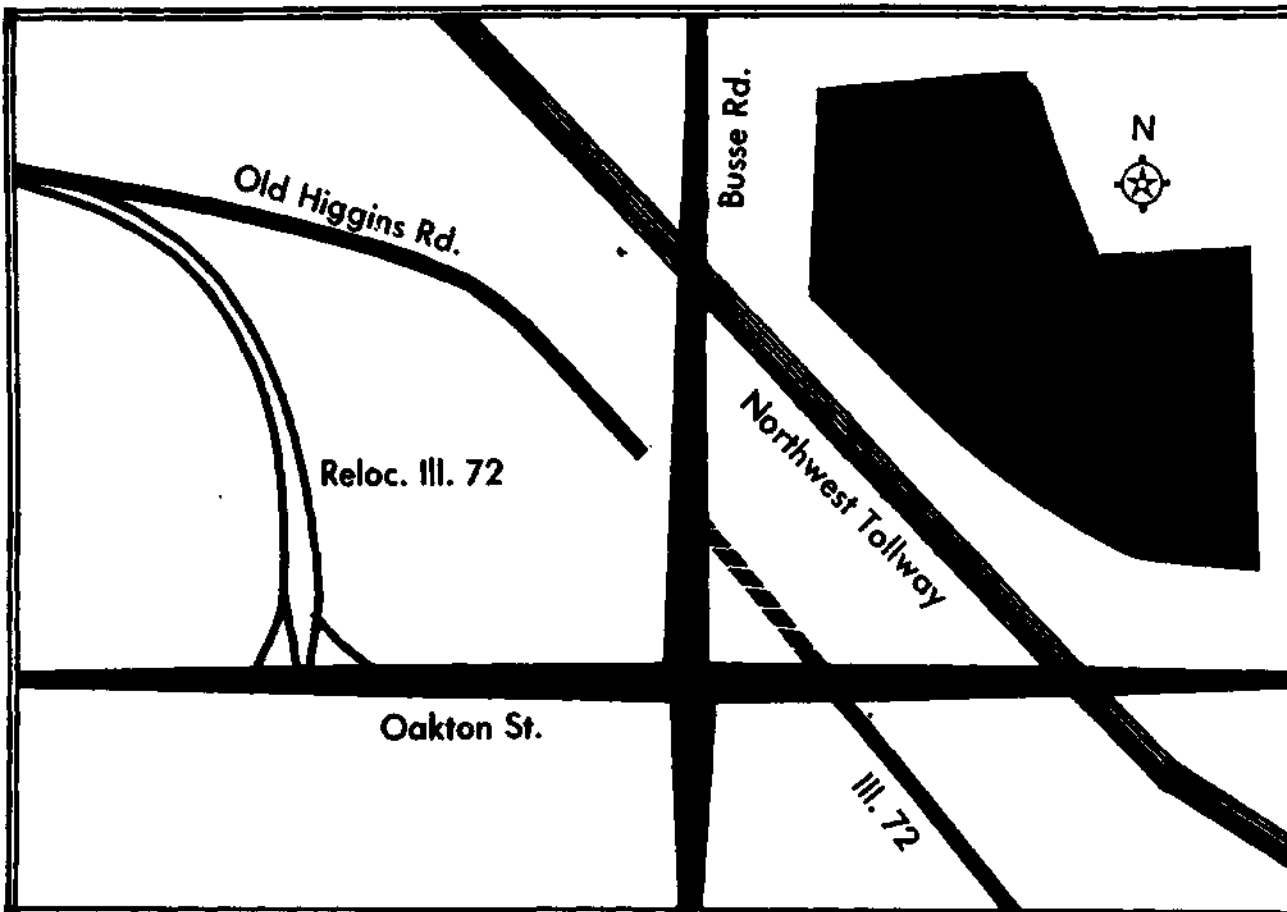

"It's not compensation," said Pahl, "it's reimbursement."

Ullmann countered, saying, "It's semantics."

Coney and Ullmann voted to amend the warrant to delete the bill. They lost 4-2.

Trustee Charles Zettek said Pahl is paid $2,400 a year, not with the assumption this would preclude his being reimbursed for expenses.

He said it was unfair to ask any trustee or the village president to pay out-of-pocket expenses when representing the village.

DRAWING illustrates how triangular intersection in north Elk Grove Village will change when completed in fall of 1970. Present intersection of Illinois Rt. 72, Busse Road and Oakton Street will be eliminated. According to one engineer, relocated section of Route 72 should be open in two months.

Demo Candidacy to Warman?

committeemen. None of the four area committeemen were at home Tuesday night for comment.

Following a Sunday screening session, the committeemen were to go back to their organizations for direction on selecting a candidate. Another meeting was set for June 19 for committeemen to decide their candidates.

The Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization met Tuesday night. Democrats in Palatine Township were to meet last night and Schaumburg Township is meeting Friday night.

James McCabe, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said his organization had authorized him to select a candidate even before initial screening began. McCabe said he knows who he will vote for, but will wait until the June 19 meeting to disclose his decision.

PETE GERLING, Palatine Township Democratic committeeman, said he has the field of 10 candidates narrowed down to "three or four." He specifically cited his preferences as Warman, Raymond S. True of Roselle and Milton Rakove, a political science professor. He said his party's executive board is also familiar with these candidates.

Elk Grove Township Democrat Committeeman Chester Chesney said his group is leaving the choice up to him. He favors two men — Warman and Rakove.

The Schaumburg township organization could not be reached for comment.

According to party leaders at the May 26 screening session, the question of a Democratic primary fight would depend on whether committeemen can agree on one candidate. Chesney said Wednesday he believes the committeemen will resolve the selection to only one man because there is little time and money and only six months before the next April election.

THE ELK GROVE Township committeeman said his fellow party leaders wanted an open primary but the regular organization wanted "to save all its ammunition for the general election."

"All organizations in the district are quite low on funds," Chesney said. "There are not as many fat cats when you're out of power as when you're in."

New Trier Township Committeeman Lynn Williams said Tuesday night that there is, among committeemen, "general indication of a favorable attitude toward Warman."

Williams also insisted, though, the question of a candidate and primary race is still open.

According to Williams, Warman's views on issues show: opposition to the Vietnam war to the point of unilateral withdrawal, if necessary, and opposition to excessive military spending and the ABM.

Warman blamed excessive military spending for inflation by pouring billions into the economy without putting any counterpart goods or services into the market to be bought with the money distributed, according to Williams.

"He also pointed out his record of independent voting in the state legislature and indicated his freedom of domination by machine politics," Williams said.

THE MAVERICK New Trier Democrat agreed with an analysis Warman is "not a Daley Democrat."

"It seemed to me that the positions he stated are very similar to those of Sen. Kennedy and Sen. McGovern."

Warman, 42, an attorney, is in his third term in the Illinois legislature, representing the 4th District. He serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees. He was named one of the best freshman legislators for his work in 1965 and 1966.

In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislators's award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

BILL GAPPERT, president of the Elk Grove Township Young Republicans, likes world travel and believes planning and organization are the keys to success, no matter what goals you hope to attain.

He Likes Aussies

by BRAD BREKKE
He's six-foot tall, balding, and he prefers kangaroos.
Bill Gappert, president of the Young Republicans of Elk Grove Township, which now has 25 members, is an easy going fellow who believes world travel is broadening, and he's flown half-way around the world to prove it.
"I toured the states as a boy . . . San Francisco is still my favorite place . . . and now I'm touring the world."
"A few years ago I went to Hawaii, Tahiti and Australia. Last year I went to Europe, but I didn't enjoy it as much as Australia. It's too Americanized. So a few months ago I went back to Australia for a month."
"It's still in the distant future, but I'd like to make my next trek to the British Isles and tour the country by motorcycle," he said.

GAPPERT, 33 and single, is a purchasing agent for Fuze-On Products, 1620 W. Central Road, Mount Prospect. He lives in an unincorporated area near Arlington Heights with his parents.
A man who believes planning and organization are the keys to success, Gappert said he methodically plans both his work and his leisure time activities.
"I don't have any political ambitions, but I do want to stay and grow with my company. A man once told me if you think like a peanut, you'll be a peanut. I believe him. You have to think big."
Gappert wears a small kangaroo button in his lapel, instead of the traditional GOP elephant.
WHEN ASKED about it, he said, "I got it in Australia. It doesn't mean anything, but I believe in being an individual, so I wear it. Of course there's a limit to being an individual, too. I don't think it should go to the point of leading demonstrations against police or the war in Vietnam."
Gappert, who lived on the northwest side of Chicago until he was 11, graduated from Arlington High School in 1954 and earned a degree in geology from Colorado College in 1959. After graduation, he served a six month hitch in the Army and came back to work for Fuze-On, where he has been ever since.
he is now interested in learning to sail.
A golf and ski enthusiast, Gappert says "I'm going to take sailing lessons soon and after that, I hope to get a boat. Only trouble is finding a place to moor it. I checked on several places in Chicago and

Baptist Church Bible School Set

The Cumberland Baptist Church of Mount Prospect will hold its annual summer vacation Bible school, "Let's Go with Christ," beginning June 16 through June 29.
The program is open to all children in the community in kindergarten through eighth grade. Bible school will meet daily from 9 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. and the activities will include Bible studies, singing, games, arts and crafts, and morning snacks.
THE HIGHLIGHT of the five-day school will be a presentation by the children on Sunday, June 22 at 7 p.m. The programs, under the direction of Mrs. Vivian McKay and Mrs. Carol Wagner, and all activities will be supervised by trained adults.
For further information regarding registration call the church offices, 1500 E. Central Road, at 326-3242.

NEA In Politics

In one more year, teachers in United States will have a political arm to lean on.
Dr. Donald Thomas, superintendent of School Dist. 59, told members of the Elk Grove Township Democratic organization that the National Education Association (NEA) will develop a political action arm and back candidates for office. Thomas, a director of the NEA, is part of a task force aimed at developing political action groups. Thomas told Elk Grove Democrats that his job on the task force is to develop the organization of a political arm of the NEA.
A recent three-day session in Washington, D.C., led NEA directors to follow guide lines already established by political arms of the AFL-CIO and the American Medical Association.
"TEACHERS HAVE never been effective on a national political scene. We feel it is time that a political arm be available to back candidates to support our goals," Thomas said.
The superintendent said money for the political group would be solicited from teachers across the country. The action group cannot be legally tied to the NEA as a professional organization. But NEA will control teacher's in politics through a board of directors. Thomas explained that teachers' although public employees, are exempt from the Hatch Act and so can participate politically.

"There are one million teachers not affiliated with any teachers organization," Thomas said. "Imagine what would have happened if those one million teachers had each donated one dollar and one million dollars would have gone in support of Hubert Humphrey."

Thomas told local Democrats that organized teachers could have made Hubert Humphrey president.

The political action group of the NEA will engage in politics at the national level. Its organization will also be available to some local candidates on an individual basis. To date, the organization will consist of a director and four lobbyists and a nationwide membership.
Thomas said the political action move may be approved by NEA directors at the Philadelphia convention this summer.
At the local level an organization such as the Illinois Citizens Committee, would be changed to a political action group by next year. The Illinois Citizens Committee has as one of its most active members Robert Haskell, principal of Elk Grove High School.
Thomas said teachers helped to elect local State representative Eugenia Chapman, teachers helped elect a new governor in Utah and teachers are just starting to get their candidates elected.

Dist. 59 Meeting Place is Changed

The School Dist. 59 Board of Education meeting will be held at Grove Junior High School, 777 Elk Grove Blvd., Monday night instead of the original plan to meet at the Administration Center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Road.
Board officials announced the change in place because of an anticipated large turnout at Monday's meeting.
As previously scheduled, a meeting to conduct preliminary business will be held at the Administration Center at 8 p.m. and then the group will move to Grove Junior High School for the remainder of the agenda.

Miss Gascon Will Attend Program

Miss Eileen V. Gascon of Elk Grove Village, a guidance counselor at Forest View High School, has been selected to attend a six-week summer guidance program at the University of Louisville in Kentucky.
The University of Louisville program is one of three such programs sponsored this year by the General Electric Foundation. The other two will take place at Boston University and the University of South Carolina.
A total of 135 fellowship winners, chosen from more than 800 applicants, will attend the three programs, each of which offers six hours of graduate credit. All expenses are paid by the foundation.

Flag Day Banquet Set

Marion Wade, chairman of Service-master Industries, will speak at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at a Flag Day Banquet sponsored by the Christian Businessmen's Committee of Chicago in the Holiday Inn, 1000 Busse Road, Elk Grove Village.
Sonny Fleming, former television and radio personality, will entertain.
For reservations call Jack Heintz, 392-0043, or the committee, CE 6-2464.

Opening of Disney Park Pool Is Delayed

Opening of Disney Pool at Lively School in Elk Grove Village has been delayed, said Jack Claes, director of parks and recreation for the park district.
Poor weather and construction delays have caused the opening of the pool to be postponed from June 16 to June 23, he said.
Lions Park pool will, however, open Saturday at 1 p.m. as scheduled, he said.

Miss Gosse Wins Award

Sharon Gosse, of 116 Parkchester Road, Elk Grove Village, recently received the 1968-69 girls' recreation award at Elk Grove High School.
Sharon, a junior, is the daughter of Mrs. Leslie Gosse.

2 singles crown last Wednesday at the Ocala, Fla. site. Von Boeckmann, who prepped at Arlington High School, is trying for the No. 1 singles title. The two also are entered in the doubles competition. See Monday's sports section for results on this meet.

Debate Aid Issue

State aid to nonpublic schools, one of the hottest issues facing the legislature this session, will be debated at the Wheeling Township Republican Organization meeting at 8:15 tonight.

The meeting will be in the VFW Hall, Yale and Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

Debating the issue will be State Rep. Edward Copeland, D-Chicago, chief sponsor of a house bill granting aid to nonpublic schools, and Mrs. Peggy Norton, state PTA legislative chairman and the PTA's lobbyist in Springfield.

COPELAND IS A two-term Republican legislator from Chicago's 10th District and a lawyer who was graduated from Carleton College and the Northwestern University law school. His bill HB 1116, is one of two now in the Senate Education committee after having passed the House.

HB 1116 provides for grants of $60 per elementary student and $90 per high school student, payable to private schools meeting certain standards.

Mrs. Norton, a Chicagoan, has been in Springfield all session testifying at committee hearings maintaining the PTA's strong stand against nonpublic school aid. Her organization's arguments center around the state's financial bind and its responsibility to meet the public school needs first.

MRS. NORTON HAS appeared in this area as a speaker at League of Women Voters' legislative workshops and at PTA programs focusing on legislative issues.

The fate of Copeland's bill and the other nonpublic school aid bill, HB 2390, is rated by Senate observers as "uncertain." If either bill clears the Senate Education Committee, it will be voted on by the entire Senate within the next two weeks. Voters on both sides of the issue are working hard to reach as many legislators as possible in that short time.

Yearbook Dedicated To Principal Haskell

"Montage '69," the yearbook at Elk Grove High School, has been dedicated to Robert Haskell, principal.

Lynn Uhrhammer, co-editor of the book, recently made the presentation of the yearbook to the principal, "for his continued devotion to his work and for a job well done."

Rev. Butler To Talk

Rev. Schuyler Butler, pastor of the Sheridan Drive Baptist Church in Muskegon, Mich., will speak Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. at the Elk Grove Baptist Church, 19W625 Devon Ave.

Music, a nursery for youngsters, and refreshments will be provided after the evening service.

Forestry Camp

Eugene W. Lerch of 817 S. Princeton Lane, Schaumburg, is one of 69 forestry students at Southern Illinois University who have been taking axes to classes this spring.

The classes are part of the forestry department's spring camp program conducted at SIU's outdoor laboratory facilities near Little Grass Lake which are designed to acquaint the students with the practical aspects of what they have been discussing in the classroom.

To Open Businesses

Two new business enterprises have filed their notices with the secretary of state's offices, and plan to open business in the community.

Prospect Enterprises, Inc., 16 W. Northwest Highway, Mount Prospect, will deal in real estate. Owners of the corporation are Enzo J. and Grace M. Frediani.

Roto Enterprises, Inc., 625 Pratt, Elk Grove, will be a general construction firm. The owners are listed as Robert W. Jornd and Thomas L. Malecki.

Elected President

Hank Greenholdt, of 24 Wildwood, Elk Grove Village, has been elected president of the Elk Grove Village Jaycees.

Other new officers are Richard Shaver, vice president; Ralph Hogan, secretary; Dick Rieken, treasurer, and Nick Burke, Gordon Kane, Jud Rees, directors. Jerry Aleksey will serve as state director.

Installation is scheduled for July 11.

Hanrahan Asks Legislators for More Staffers

Cook County School Supt. Robert P. Hanrahan button-holed legislators in Springfield Tuesday to let them know how badly his office is out of date.

Backup for his argument is a management study that says the country superintendent has not grown with the times. Hanrahan asked support for H.B. 1952-1953, which would give his office additional staff financed by the state.

Currently Hanrahan has a professional staff of 12. The staff has regulatory and service responsibilities to 147 school districts enrolling 45 per cent of the state's total student population and staffed with 42 per cent of the public school teachers in Illinois.

"It is humanly impossible to be effective with the small staff we have," Hanrahan told the legislators.

HANRAHAN is also seeking legislative authority to provide cooperative services requested and funded by local school districts.

He is mustering support for his legislative requests, despite a setback received Monday when House members rejected a bill to allow the county superintendent to be elected by suburban voters only.

The defeat came as no surprise to legislative observers.

Hanrahan believes, however, that "it is ridiculous for voters in the City of Chicago to help elect a county superintendent whose work is confined to suburban areas."

"THIS COOK COUNTY superintendent of schools election process is a clear example," Hanrahan insisted, "of the antiquated, cumbersome and highly confused state structure in education."

The county superintendent has legal jurisdiction over the Chicago schools, but only a few minor regulatory services. The management study just concluded recommended those services be delegated directly to the city school superintendent.

MSD Bill Is OK'd

Legislation granting the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) authority to issue $380 million in nonreferendum bonds has been voted out of Senate committee with a "do pass."

The Senate Municipal Corporations Committee Tuesday gave the bill a 12-3 vote for a favorable recommendation on the Senate floor.

Schaumburg Pres. Robert Atcher testified on behalf of MSD bills Tuesday.

A package of bills revamping much of the MSD's financial procedures, including the nonreferendum bond issue, has already passed the Illinois House.

The bills will now go to the Senate floor for final consideration. House Bill 1504, calling for the bond issue, is said to provide needed construction funds for the Salt Creek and O'Hare water reclamation plants.

The Lawrence Voyles, Washington, spent four days at Crystal Falls, Mich. recently Mr. Voyles was going to show his children, Sheila, Larry and Michael, how to fish. Young Larry was the only one to catch a fish on the whole vacation. It measured 14 inches.

Ray and Ann Fleming, N. Washington, have three graduations in the family this week. Raymond received his bachelor of Arts degree from Loyola University on the same day Kevin graduated from Conant High School Saturday their son-in-law, Michael Carney of Evanston Street, received his bachelor of science degree from Northern Illinois in DeKalb.

Friday evening Jeffrey Vickman, son of Irma and Lucille of Milan Lane, appeared in a Hebrew adaptation of the play "Fiddler on the Roof" at Beth Tikvah Congregation. The occasion was his graduation from Beth Tikvah Hebrew School.

Recuperating from recent surgery in Wesley Memorial Hospital, Chicago, is Mark Barnett, father of Mrs. Steven Shere of Flagstaff.

AMONG GUESTS of Steve and Ann Shere for a cookout Saturday were the Edward Angstris, Campbell Lane, Paul Therman, Chippendale, Chuck Grosses, Illinois, and the Stewart Fishers of Chicago. During the afternoon, Danny Fisher was missing, but an hour later he was found safe and sound, at the police station.

Gary Shore, son of Sam and Edna Shore of Lakeview, will stay away from brass washers for some time to come. While looking at one, some how it became stuck on his finger. After a hasty trip to the hospital, the washer was removed.

Memorial weekend was a busy one for many Alcoa residents. At the home of Bernard and Cookie LeVine, 35 gathered around the grill on Friday. Next door, at the home of Marietta and Phil Rice, neighbors Bob and Millie Graft and children and new neighbors, Bill and Maryanne Jordan, formerly of Niles, and their daughter, Michelle, became better acquainted.

Getting ready to move in a few weeks to a larger home in the area are Allen and Renee Grobart and their three children. They have resided on Washington for over 10 years.

Leaving their four children with their grandmother, Mrs. Lillian Miller, Bernard and Harriett Miller of Washington drove to Rochelle for the weekend. Joining them were the Lawrence Graffs of Newport and the Joseph Splanskys of Palatine.

BILL COWIN of Bode spent three days at Antigo, Wis., on a combined business and fishing trip.

Friday Jeff Cowin celebrated his ninth birthday with his brothers and sisters.

Last week Dick and Lynn Weisz, N. Olive, lost their boat due to fire. The only good thing was that the boat was on the driveway of their home, not in a lake with the family as passengers.

Friday the Weisz family took to the water without a boat. They drove to Chicago and spent the day at the Oak Street beach.

Attending the Early Risers bowling banquet at Villa Olivia in Bartlett on Wednesday evening were Jean Walters, Marie Liebach, Marie Forti, Del Schwartz, Lois Maltgren, Pat Idle, Jane Flaxman, Gay Kemmerling and Donna Adamson.

Tuesday evening Alan Dratell of Hassell Circle was installed as president of the Society of Technical Writers and Publishers.

Guild: Fraud Suit Unchanged

Recent apprehension of Orin Mensik is not expected to play a significant role in the more than $1 million fraud suit involving the Village of Hoffman Estates, according to Ronald J. Guild, attorney for the Teamsters Pension Fund.

"I do not expect this to have any effect on the Pension Fund's complaint," Guild, of the Chicago law firm Teitelbaum, Wolfberg and Guild, told the Herald this week.

Mensik had been a principal in the now-defunct City Savings and Loan Association, original financiers of Howie-in-the-Hills subdivision, now involved in a foreclosure proceedings.

As mortgagees, the Teamsters are charging fraud in regard to three special assessments for water, sewer and other facilities in the tract.

GUILD ALSO SAID he recognizes that Edward C. Hofert, newly appointed village attorney, is entering the litigation, and for this reason, the case may take additional time in coming to litigation.

"However we intend to proceed in accordance with our original intentions," Guild said.

Approve Pay Increases

Salary increases for 10 supervisory employees were approved by the Hoffman Estates Village Board Monday.

In the action, which is retroactive to June 1, Police Chief John O'Connell will now receive $14,400 per year, and Wallace Bolm, superintendent of public works, $11,200 annually.

Kenneth Dean, superintendent of streets, will get $10,000 and Mrs. Laura Reedy, village administrative assistant, will now receive $8,400 per year.

COMPENSATION FOR Dan Murphy, building inspector, was increased to $10,600; a salary of $9,000 was announced for a second building inspector identified only as Ewald.

Louis Melcher, an electrical inspector will receive an annual salary of $1,000 plus $4 for each inspection completed.

Heinz Brauner, manager of Hoffman Estates Community Pool, will draw $170 per week for his seasonal work and his assistant, Robert Anleson, will receive $110 per week during the swim season.

The face that's launched a thousand trips.

She Attends Reunion At Stephens

Mrs. Harold Liesenfelt, 290 Baxter Lane, was among Stephens College Alumnae College on the Columbia, Mo. attending the college's recent reunion and alumnae college on the Columbia, Mo. campus.

More than 250 graduates of the four-year college for women representing 37 states attended class reunions, a reception at the home of President and Mrs. Seymour A. Smith and sessions of Alumnae College, a three-day program of talks, discussions and activities focusing on "People in Crisis."

THE PROGRAM followed the Stephens Commencement exercises at which 97 Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Fine Arts degrees were conferred as well as 716 Associate in Arts degrees to students completing the college's two year program.

The reunion and study program were sponsored by the 35,000-member Stephens Alumnae Association, said to be the largest such organization of any private women's college in the nation.

Twinbrook YMCA Ranks High

The Twinbrook YMCA area with 1,256 members is part of a national organization that is bigger than one would think.

"The YMCA, which came into the world only 125 years ago this year with fewer than a dozen young men as members, now ranks with 'Fortune' magazines' 500 biggest companies," Bob Williams, executive manager of Twinbrook YMCA, said.

Twinbrook YMCA serves Bloomingdale, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Medinah, Roselle and Schaumburg.

A comparative study of Fortune magazine's 1968 directory of the 500 largest companies and the 1968 YMCA Yearbook made by the 'Y' National Council Bulletin, reveals several surprising figures.

The YMCA in 1967 had more members than any U. S. industry had stockholders.

THE YMCA had a higher income than U. S. Steel, Chrysler, and General Telephone Electronics.

THE YMCA had a higher income than Pillsbury or Continental Baking.

With nearly six million members, the 'Y' outranks General Motors' 1,355 thousand stock holders and Standard Oil of New Jersey's 778 thousand "Comparing members and stockholders is not really comparing apples and oranges," Williams said.

"Members of the 'Y' share in the association, and stockholders share in the company's business."

The 545,900 'Y' volunteers can be compared with industrial employees.

General Motors with 779,194 employees outranks the 'Y' but second place Ford Motor Co. is behind with 383,323 employees. "And the 'Y' volunteers believe in it so much they work voluntarily," Williams said.

IN PAID employees, the 'Y' ranks 165th with more employees than Bristol-Myers, Sinclair Oil, Pullman and 335 other firms.

"Only 11 industries have larger incomes than the YMCA, yet the 'Y' is selling intangibles. It could be that the 'Y' offers something people need more than automobiles, electronic gadgets and detergents, to name a few of the products the 'Y' outsells," Williams said.

"The YMCA is a big organization. It's come a long way from the little group of friends George Williams organized in London in 1844. And it's still growing," Williams said.

OK Beauty School

Rezoning for a beauty school on Palatine Road was granted by the Palatine Village Board Monday night.

It represents the first successful attempt at bringing light industry and office buildings to the stretch from Oak St. to the Jack-in-the-Box Restaurant on Palatine Road.

The school will offer vocational training in hair styling to about 50 students. It will take a full-time student about nine months to complete the course consisting of 1,500 class hours. Tuition will be $500 per pupil, according to Mrs. John Sandor, school manager.

She said the firm currently is operating similar facilities in Arlington Heights, La Grange and Aurora.

THE SCHOOL has been seeking necessary rezoning from Palatine officials for several weeks now, but the board first wanted to iron out possible traffic problems and discuss a plan for future development along that stretch of Palatine Road.

In addition, village officials wondered if the park district might not be interested in acquiring the land to expand its existing 12-acre park.

Since rezoning was deferred in May, a committee from the board, park district officials, and the local plan commission have met twice. The possibility of closing East Park Drive located between the Jack-in-the-Box and the proposed site of one beauty school was discussed but no definite decision was reached.

If there is no expense involved, park district officials said they would be agreeable to closing the drive, but they weren't interested in purchasing more land in the area, according to Trustee Clay Brown.

"WITH THE increasing use of the park, a traffic problem will exist no matter what is built there," Trustee Terry Leighty said.

Widening of Palatine Road has been proposed, but a time schedule has not been set yet.

WITNESSING WHEELING President Ted C. Scanlon's signature to a proclamation banning women's "embellishments" and clean-shaven men are Walter Diens, vice president of the Diamond Jubilee Committee celebrating Wheeling's 75th anniversary, and Mrs. Alvin Nelson, head of the committee's women's participation division.

'Y' Camp Posts Filled

All staff positions for the Countryside YMCA summer camping program have been filled.

Many exceptionally qualified young men and women have joined the original eight staff members chosen earlier this year, 'Y' officials said.

Senior positions of unit directors were granted to Stephen Evans and Pamela Siler, both of Palatine. Evans currently is a teacher at Conant High School and brings to Camp Countryside a varied camping experience. He holds WSI and Canoe Instructor certificates as well as possessing training in biology and guitar.

Miss Siler is a recent college graduate and has spent two years as a counselor at the Countryside Center for the Handicapped. In addition, she has extensive training in physical education, music and crafts.

OTHER SENIOR staff members who will serve as group counselors are Geraldine Swensen and Tom Varde of Palatine, Randy Rose of Barrington, Bob Henkels of Northbrook, and Linda Dellino of Arlington Heights.

Miss Swensen presently attends Northern Illinois University and will share her aquatic and gymnastic skills with the campers.

Varde is a senior at Palatine High School and will assist with camp crafts, painting and song leading.

Miss Rose, a student at the University of Kentucky, will put her knowledge of weather, birds, insects, and stars to good use at camp.

Henkels, heading for college in the fall, has many interesting campcraft and other projects he is anxious to teach to interested campers.

MISS DELLINO, a student at Harper Junior College, is majoring in psychology and sociology and hopes to put her skills in working with people and especially children to work at Camp Countryside.

Camp Countryside is still seeking qualified adult volunteers to assist with various portions of the total camp program. Persons interested in sharing their skills with interested children in grades 1 through 6 should contact the YMCA at 359-2400.

Orchard Hills

The Allen Schmidts, Art Webers and the Stewart Tesnows spent the Memorial Day weekend camping at the 4-H Fairgrounds near Ottawa.

Sunday the Frank Van De Warkers, Cedar Street, celebrated Elaine's second birthday with guests for dinner and the day they were Elaine's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van De Warker Sr. and Mrs. Helen Jacobsen, all of Chicago.

Herb Gegenhuber, Pine Street, returned home May 21 from Europe. He spent one week attending the International Confectioners Show in Dusseldorf, Germany, then visited relatives in Austria for two weeks.

On May 28, the Gegenhubers' son, Matt, graduated from Wheeling High School. The family celebrated with him at the Holiday Inn in Mount Prospect, with a buffet dinner.

HOUSEGUEST THIS weekend at the Gegenhuber home was Mrs. Sandy Mitchell of Kitchener, Ontario, Canada. Sunday the Gegenhubers and their houseguest and Mr. and Mrs. Enrico Rivera of Arlington Heights attended a cocktail party and reception at the National Confection Convention held at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. Mark Gegenhuber was a guest of Willie Oakley and his family for the weekend, camping near Stevens Point, Wis.

The Bill Chellman family, Hickory Street, spent Memorial Day weekend at their cottage in Rhineland, Wis.

Congratulations and best wishes went to Ann and Bill Chellman on their 17th wedding anniversary May 31.

May 21 Mrs. Rome Marak and Cathy, Elm Street, and Dorothy's sister-in-law, Mrs. Leonard Marak, Palatine, drove to Richmond, Ind. They returned home the next day, bringing Mrs. Leonard Marak's daughter, Mrs. Larry Fontaine and daughters back for a visit.

On May 24, Rome, Dorothy and Cathy drove to Milwaukee to attend a party for their nephew, Ralph Anderson, in honor of his graduation from the University of Wisconsin at Whitewater, at the home of Dorothy's brother, Marcel Peronto of Milwaukee. They returned home the next day.

THE BOB KRULL family, Ash Street, spent the weekend camping at Rock Cut State Park, near Rockford.

Memorial Day guests of the Jack Bouchonvilles, Ash Street, were Maxine's brother and family, the Marvin Schmitts of Ames, Iowa, and her sister and family, the Murph Gosczenis of Evanston.

On Sunday, Jeanie Bouchonville saw a performance of "Peter Pan" at Mill Run Playhouse.

The George Miller family, Ash Street, attended open house Sunday at the First National Bank of Chicago.

The Dan Koch family, Ash Street, had a picnic Memorial Day at Deer Grove. In the afternoon, they and Carol's mother, Mrs. Hazel Horky, entertained Hazel's daughter and family, the Tony Bodors of Arlington Heights, and Dan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Koch of Chicago.

The Norm Eberts and their daughter, Donna Martin, and Kenny, Ash Street, spent the weekend at their summer home on Lake Itolcomb, Wis.

Sympathy is extended to the Donald Hennessy family, Ash Street, on the death of Mary Kay's grandmother, Mrs. Nora Sullivan, Chicago, on May 19.

WEEKEND GUESTS AT the Hennessy home were Mary Ann and Bob Huegel, Chicago, and Ron and Shari Gatlley of Winnetka, in celebration of Mary Kay's birthday, May 23.

On Memorial Day, the Bill Stobie family, Ash Street, joined a family gathering at the home of Eleanore's sister and family, the Edward Elliotts of Mundelein.

May 31 the Ben Hardys, Walnut Street, were hosts to a family picnic. Guests for the day were Beulah's sisters, Mrs. Adell Luchs and Mrs. Margaret Quarnstrom, both of Evanston, her sister and family, the Ray Lewises of Palatine, also the Ronald Quarnstrom family of Arlington Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Luaders, Springfield, and Vicki's guest, Jan Palmer of Northbrook.

Blazers for The Safety Staff

Blazers instead of policemen's uniforms will identify the public safety staff at Harper Junior College's new campus.

Recommended by the U. S. Department of Justice to improve the "Police" image, the uniforms of Harper's security personnel will consist of three-button maroon blazers with gold trousers, taking advantage of the Harper College colors. Completing the outfit will be black chukka boots.

Capt Paul J. Pitt, supervisor of public safety for the college, says the blue uniform traditionally associated with law enforcement officers was borrowed from the army after the Civil War.

"DEL MONTE, CALIF., and two in three communities in Ohio have been using the blazer-type uniforms in their police departments with good results," Pitt said.

During the past semester, 15 students maintained the college public safety program. Nine were part-time law enforcement students at Harper with special civic and college interests.

Last semester, two women worked in the law enforcement department.

Linda Landers of Barrington Hills, who as just completed her first year at the college, will be operating the computer for the program in addition to her duties as radio operator.

PATRICIA OLSON, a part-time liberal arts major from Mount Prospect, takes patrol duties and works part-time between her Harper classes.

Harper's two-year law enforcement program leads to an associate in applied science degree. Police cadet programs and practical work in local and state police agencies provide an unusual opportunity for students to gain experience first-hand.

Objectives of the Law Enforcement program are fourfold:

—The preparation of students for employment in law enforcement.

—THE INSTRUCTION of students seeking a baccalaureate degree in police science and administration.

—Opportunity for those in the profession to advance.

—The instruction in law enforcement and the administration of justice as a cultural part of a student's higher education.

The public safety department at the new Harper campus will be responsible for campus security, fire safety, traffic control, accident investigation, building inspections, traffic studies as well as traffic regulations and traffic signs, and the maintenance and scheduling of automobiles in the college motor vehicle pool.

THERE IS AN urgent demand for well-prepared individuals in law enforcement throughout the country. Persons trained in the professional skills required of the modern police officer as well as having a sound background in the social sciences and general education.

For further information about Harper's law enforcement curriculum, call the office of admissions at 437-7000.

Jack Bastable Gets Diploma Tonight

'An All-American Kid' Ends Prep Career

THERE ARE VERY few great athletes. So when one of them ends his career, he's showered with honors.

Last Sunday between the Yankee-White Sox doubleheader, New Yorkers overthrew Yankee Stadium to honor an all-time great — Mickey Mantle.

Another athlete, who fits into the category of "a great high school performer," will be officially hanging up his high school spikes and tennis shoes tonight.

And although he isn't being honored for his many sports exploits, it will be a big day for him for he will be graduating from Wheeling High School. Inscribed on his diploma will be this name: John Michael Bastable.

Even though he'll be heading off to college to perform his feats, his contributions to area sports will be long remembered by both the Paddock area and ChicagoLand as well.

When a great sports figure bows out it's usually good to talk to those who they played against — their peers — so that they can pass judgment on his career. But in high school sports, as opposed to the college and professional levels, one's peers might not yet have matured enough to judge their own.

But the Mid-Suburban League coaches, who had to figure out how to stop Bastable throughout the school year, are astute judges indeed. So Paddock Publications contacted 25 coaches, as well as F. E. "Bus" Dembee, Wheeling's athletic director, to get their thoughts about this most awesome of Wildcats.

All seemed to be using a thesaurus as they poured out an unbelievable amount of praise to such a young man of 17 years. But not even once was there any mention of Jack in a negative way which is some kind of tribute.

So many plaudits were pronounced that if all were used they would have easily filled the entire sports page.

These are just a few of the accolades arranged in the categories of sports which Jack played and they coached.

FOOTBALL. Jack Liljeberg (Wheeling) — "He was easy to work with and, of course, had just loads of ability. He was a well rounded kid who was better than most but didn't get the big head."

Don Schnake (Elk Grove) — "He just seems to typify so well what athletes ought to be and I hate to see him go — even though he kills you every time he plays. That kind doesn't come around too often."

Bob Wallner (Arlington) — "I think he's a great team man and probably typifies Wheeling's spirit. He's been a leader for years and has given them a good example to follow."

BASKETBALL. Norm Jones (Palatine) — "He's like Rick Smith — just has been out there making the difference. He gave everybody a run for their money. I'd be glad to go over and give him a hand."

Walkin' the Sidelines

by PAUL LOGAN

Don Arneson (Prospect) — "I thought his hustle and desire were just outstanding. I also had an opportunity to work with him in a teaching capacity (driver education). I was more impressed with his politeness. He's going to make a fine young man."

BASEBALL. Ron DeBolt (Wheeling) — "I can proudly say he's the best high school baseball player I ever saw. He was a real all-around player for the all-around qualities: arm, running, hitting and hustle."

Hal Sprehe (Forest View) — "When I think of Bastable graduating I mainly think that maybe my pitchers will now have a chance to get their confidence back."

Steve Chernicky (Hersey) — "He's by far one of the finest ballplayers to come out of this area. He was one of the most coachable athletes I have had the opportunity to work with. It was a lot easier going with him (last year as Wheeling's head coach) than against him."

Many of the coaches used the word "competitive" to describe this Arlington Heights product. Others responded this way:

Liljeberg: "An All-American kid." Larry Pohlman (Prospect): "Consistent." Roger Steingraber (Hersey): "Completely dedicated." Ken Arneson (Forest View): "A whirling dervish." Ormsbee: "Greatness and humbleness."

One man who wasn't included in this group was Mike Owens, who will be leaving Wheeling's head basketball job for one at Northwestern University. He said this of his former player:

"As I've told many people, he is the finest all-around high school athlete I've ever known. He could be a great athlete in either of those three sports — all he'd have to do is adapt himself to any one of them."

"The biggest thing I can say about him (and Owens wasn't the only coach to state this) is that when my three year old son gets to high school age, if he's like Jack Bastable, I'm going to be satisfied."

And the man of the hour feels this same closeness toward Owens.

"He probably had more influence on me than anybody else... that's in all sports," Bastable emphasized. "His leadership, the example he set and just the way he lives in good enough to inspire any kids."

He has a favorite expression: "to pay the price," and he sure has paid the price and he still does."

And the same thing can be said of Bastable — he has paid the price. "The price" being plenty of hard work as Owens recalls.

Never in the three years when I called him over to the sideline to tell him what he needed to improve upon did I ever get a sour face from him. He looked you right in the eyes and said, "Yes, Sir!" and worked his fool head off to improve."

This extra effort paid off with such laurels as being all-state in football his senior year as well as receiving plenty of well deserved recognition from the Chicago press in all sports.

But individual honors and praise don't mean as much to him as accepting them as a member of a team. Bastable confided, But — when asked to recall his greatest individual thrill as a prep — he admitted to one very special one.

"I would have to say the football game against Arlington... we beat them 17-14," he recalled. "That was my biggest individual thrill."

It also was a great thrill for the Wildcat crowd as he booted a 37-yard field goal and scored two touchdowns — the last one coming with less than two minutes left in the game to turn the tide.

Such performances prompted between 50 and 60 universities, including Notre Dame, USC and UCLA, to seek his wares. But Jack chose the University of Missouri.

"One of the major reasons why I went to Missouri was for the calibre of baseball played there," he explained. But he also admitted to being a devout Cardinal fan which also could have influenced his decision.

"The deal was that I would have to go the first year for spring football practices," Jack explained, "but I would be eligible to play baseball for the next three years without attending spring football practice."

Joining Jack at Missouri will be two Palatine track stars — Mark Visk, the state's top two-miler, and Jim Verburg, a top sprinter in Illinois.

These were some of the other thoughts of this handsome student-athlete.

HIS BEST SPORT — "Actually in high school I didn't necessarily excel in one or the other. As far as accomplishments go I would say football. But mainly I don't really believe I would have the size to play past college football."

OTHER SPORTS — "I don't see why the rules force you to be in just one particular sport each season. I don't feel it's right. I was kind of a little disappointed that I could only play one sport a season. I would have liked to have played tennis and ran a little track besides playing baseball."

FUTURE PLANS — "I'm pretty undecided (about a major) and I will be taking liberal arts then, maybe in a couple of years, I'll decide on something... maybe business. I still have the idea of (pro) ball in the back of my mind."

BATTING LEFTHANDED — (The last few games of the season he experimented with switch-hitting and registered five hits from the left side) "That's the first time I tried it other than in kind of a sandlot game in my sophomore year when the score was something like 23-2. I feel that if I can develop this right now I'll have a definite advantage. Coach DeBolt gave me a big break on that. He said that if his coach had let him do that he might have made it as a pro."

HIS FAVORITE PROS — "I would say Mickey Mantle is one of my all-time favorites. And everybody's right now is Joe Namath... and then there's Denny McLain. (slight pause) But I would probably put the Mick No. 1."

Tonight as this 'B' student and 'A' plus athlete receives his diploma, some of those who have watched him perform, especially in baseball, might have the idea cross their minds to propose that his No. 14 baseball jersey be retired.

Something like this is very rare in high school sports but Jack's kind are very rare, also.

Had the Opportunities

Cougars Got Few Breaks

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Conant High's baseball team closed out with an 8-12 record but it could very well have been 12-8.

"We played in seven one-run games," Conant coach Dick Redinger said. "If we had gotten a run here, a hit there and a few less mistakes we could have had a much better record."

The Cougars lost all seven of the one-run decisions and lost a pair by two runs. Meaning, nine of Conant's 12 losses were by a margin of two runs or less.

INEXPERIENCE COST the Cougars a good portion of the close games. On more than one occasion only one senior was in the starting lineup. The Cougars committed 47 errors during the season, and many were in crucial situations. The pitchers gave up a total of 74 runs but only 43 were earned.

Conant landed two players on the All-Mid-Suburban League team. Wally Wiener, the leading Cougar hitter among regulars, batted .339 and pitcher John Furio, who was a victim of a number of the close games and had a 5-5 record, made the All-Conference contingent.

Wiener tied for the team lead in runs with nine, led in at bats with 56, hits with 19 and stolen bases with six. Furio pitched 10 of Conant's 20 games, fanned 75 batters in 61 innings and had an earned run average of 2.05.

MIKE ARKUS HIT from start to finish and closed out with a .288 batting average. Arkus made 123 putouts and had two assists without making a single error at first base.

Gil Lopesilveto played most of the season at second base and batted .260 with 13 hits, a team-lead-tying nine runs and had just three errors in 44 chances. Rich Payson played second also and hit .237.

Kirk Wyatt and Larry Celeste split the Missouri Inks Verburg

Jim Verburg, who took first places in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash and anchored the 800-yard relay in the Mid-Suburban League conference meet, has signed a partial scholarship with the University of Missouri.

Verburg, the best sprinter in the area this season, had times of 9.9 in the 100 and 21.9 in the 220. The smooth striding speedster ran for Palatine High's track team which is coached by Joe Johnson.

duties at shortstop. Wyatt hit .222 on the basis of 12 hits in 54 at bats. Celeste hit .200.

Bill Donovan, who started the season in the outfield, came in to play creditable ball at third base. Donovan hit .273 and received some support in the All-Conference voting.

WEINER WAS the leading outfielding performer; he played center. Furio saw some outfield duty while hitting .219. Donovan had action in the field and Jim Button hit .189 but had eight runs batted in while handling some outfield chores.

Dave Kellermeyer batted a fine .264 and led the team in runs batted in with 10 while doing an outstanding job behind the plate.

MacDonald had some hard luck while pitching since he only won one game and lost five but had a team-leading earned run average of 1.54. Button had an ERA of 1.66 with a record of 1-0.

"I THOUGHT WE had a better team than our record shows," said Redinger who will be Conant's head basketball coach next season. The statistics bear this out.

The Cougars had a team batting average of .236 which is about average for high school clubs. Conant collected 119 hits, just shy of six per game. The team scored 65 runs, 3.2 per game.

Conant had a rare distinction among high school teams by receiving more walks than strikeouts. The Cougar fanned 105 times but walked 111. Conant was not

Buffalo Grove L.L. Action

The Sox of the Major League and the Astros of Minor League (North) continued their winning ways through the fourth week of competition. The Sox edged out two one-run squeakers, while the Astros coasted to two top-sided wins. Each team sports six wins, no loss records.

In the Minor League South division the Athletics gained undisputed possession of first place by surviving a tie against the Angels while the co-leader Senators dropped their second game of the season. In the Farm League, the Seals assumed the role of the leader with a three win, no loss record while the Gators dropped their first of the season for a 4-1 record.

In Major League games the Sox edged the Yankees 5-4 on a four-run fifth inning. Down 4-1 going in, the Sox loaded the bases setting the stage for Jerry Mason's three-run triple. Moments later he stole home for the winning run. Bill Boyle and Mason shared the pitching honors.

Two days later, the Sox won their third straight one-run game 1-0 over the Dodgers. The lone run was scored on consecutive hits by Tom Stonerook and Mike Halinski. Ron Czarney got the shut out for the Sox while Ron Kephlinger suffered the loss. In the only other Major League game, the Indians won their first of the season at the expense of the Tigers 7-3.

In the Minor League North division, the Astros overwhelmed the Giants 35-3 and 23 hits. The Astros assault was led by Dave Rice with three doubles, a homer and six RBI's and Wayne Geimer with four for four and five RBI's.

Rice and Andy Farriss collaborated on a three-hitter. In their second game of the week the Astros made it six wins without a loss by defeating the Cards 6-1 on a two-hitter pitched by Rice and Geimer, and offensive punch by Farriss who had a two-run homer.

In other north division games, the Orioles evened their seasons record at two wins, two losses with wins over the Pirates and Giants. The Orioles were assisted in their top-sided 23-5 win over the Pirates featuring 16 balls.

The Orioles proved it was no fluke however, when they came back three days later to defeat the Giants 9-5. Mike Ledna was credited with both Oriole wins.

In the Minor League South division, the Senators lost their hold on first place in a 7-4 loss to the Twins, but rebounded with an 11-6 win over the Angels. The Angels had suffered an earlier loss to the Mets 10-3. In spite of their two earlier losses, the Angels gave the division leading Athletics a scare they won't soon forget. The Angels, trailing the "A's" 4-2 midway through the game, scored 10 runs including two grand slam home runs by Steve Pfister and Jay Lenahan to take a commanding 12-4 lead. The "A's" pitching ace, Mike Marshall, came on to shut out the Angels the rest of the way while they rallied to tie the score at 12-12 in a riotous finish.

The Gators of the Farm League were dropped from the list of undefeated at the hands of the Rhinos 9-1. Meanwhile the Seals took the League lead with a 17-9 win over the Hippos and 11-7 over the Badgers. Jim Hansen led the Seals with two triples, a double, and a single against the Rhinos and a three run homer against the Badgers. Bob Rowland had a grand slam for the Seals in the Badger game. In the only other Farm League game the Bears and Gophers battled to a 4-4 tie. Standings after May 30 games are:

Arlington CDTA Meet Site

Arlington High School has been named as one of 13 sites in the Chicago area to hold preliminary tournaments for the Chicago District Tennis Association's annual search for entries in the girls and boys United States Lawn Tennis Association Championships to be held later this summer.

The preliminary meet for girls, which will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 16-18, will advance its finalists to the CDTA meet slated for June 19-21 at Exmoor Country Club in Highland Park. The four semi-finalists in that meet will then be recommended by the CDTA for play in the USLTA Championships.

Gold and silver medals from the USLTA will be awarded to the winner and runner-up at the preliminaries and cups will be awarded in the CDTA finals.

The entry fee is $2, made payable to the Chicago District Tennis Association, and should be sent to Tom Pitchford, Arlington High School, Arlington Heights 60004. The entry blank (above) must be filled out and turned in to Pitchford, the tournament chairman, by tomorrow for girls and by Friday, June 20, for boys.

The boys preliminary tournament will be June 23-25. Age divisions for both boys and girls are 18, 16, 14 and 12. Any questions should be directed to Tom Pitchford, 253-0200.

A VETERAN PERFORMER on the Northern Illinois University baseball scene was Rich Hoppe of Arlington Heights, recipient of three varsity awards. Hoppe, who prepped at Arlington High School and was a regular on the Arlington Legion team that finished fifth in the nation, started and ended the season at shortstop for Northern but also played some right and left field. He hit only .216 but his most important contribution was in stabilizing a young Huskie squad, which compiled a 16-19 record in facing the toughest schedule in school history.

Father's Day Celebrating Begins

In honor of Father's Day, Sunday, and in cooperation with Wittek Golf Range Supply, a section of the Randhurst mall will be converted into a Miniature Golf Course today, Friday and Saturday.

Wittek Golf Range Supply Company, Inc. located in Chicago, is the largest manufacturer and distributor of driving range and miniature course equipment in the world. They have provided Randhurst with custom designed equipment for the miniature golf course on the mall, that will make the game interesting and challenging.

There is no admission charge for boys and girls accompanied by Dad to "Putt With Pop" on the Randhurst mall. The hours are from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., today and Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Yanks 006 428-12-15
Braves 021 042-8-8
Highlights — Behind the strong arm of Mammie, who fanned 10 Braves and also smashed a homer and a double, the Yanks pounded out 15 hits good for their down run. Also carrying big bats for the Yanks were Andy Swanson, Gary LeChair and Dennis Bursio with doubles, and Bob Brury, who went four-for-four.

Dodgers 006 302-4-5
Sox 001 324-6-7
Highlights — The Sox exploded in the fourth for the big run to take the win, sparked by run scoring doubles by Steve Cary, Jeff Derring and Bob Strauss. Bucky Hinch was the winning pitcher; Mark Knutell.

Cubs 030 100-4-2
Twins 210 012-5-8
Highlights — Doubles by Carl Robinson with one run aboard and Rich Siebert helped the Twins chalk up their second win of the year and gave Ted Bonham the mound win. Bonham did his part, too, fanning an even dozen Cubs. For the Twins, Dan Furan led off the first with a four bag blast to start a two-run inning. Rich Liska was the losing Cub hurler.

Highlights — A double by Alan Bergman in the fifth and Mark Krause's two run homer in the fifth propelled the Cards to their third win of the year. Bergman was the winner; Krause's double with two on and Terry Smith's double with one aboard.

Falcons 372 005-12-15
Twins 001 000-3-8
Highlights — A pair of two bag blasts by Bill Strom worth four runs and a two-run triple by Rick Krause brought Bill Bohstedt the mound win and tagged John Bresina with the loss. Gene Anderson also had a fine day at the plate for the Falcons, going four-for-four.

Cats 531 434-16-13
Jets 200 000-2-5-6
Highlights — Although a total of 23 runs were scored, winning pitcher John Bresina and loser Ted Bahler had fine days on the mound. Bresina fanning 13 and Bahler nine. The Cats were helped along at the plate by Bruce Koeling's double with two on and Terry Smith's double with one aboard.

Chargers 210 000-3-4
Falcons 402 122-12-9
Highlights — The Falcons tied off on Charger pitcher Curt Ogurek in the first inning for four runs and went on from there to claim the win 12-3, to tag Ogurek with the mound loss. Gene Anderson was the winning pitcher, fanning five. He was helped out by Bill Strom who doubled in the sixth with one on.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS TRAVELING TEAM
Belvidere 299 001-2-1
Prospect Heights 013 100-3-6

Highlights — Behind Rick Krawtzel's blazing mound performance in which he struck out 12 batters, the Prospect Heights Traveling Team claimed a 6-3 win. Big bats for the Heights team were John Brown with a three-for-four day, and George Solomon, who went two-for-four and drove in two runs.

MINOR LEAGUE
Expos 13
Giants 5
Highlights — Kevin Temeay and Bob Camp, both got triples for the winning Expos, as Bill Campbell collected the mound win.

Greyhounds 12
Orioles 0
Highlights — Tim Carroll and Bob Haber combined to hurl a masterful two-hitter against the Orioles, helped out by Steve Ludwigsen's double. Rick Scholt was the loser.

Giants Athletics 11
Highlights — Ken Long went the distance to pick up the mound win, as teammate Jeff Stevenson banged out three hits and scored three times.

Indians 26
Muskie 7
Highlights — Tim Rich, the winning pitcher, Bobby Schachner and Tanny Thompson were all three-for-four and each hit for extra bases.

Cougars 4
Highlights — For the Expos Richard Muller smacked a homer and a triple and Kevin Temeay doubled a pair of triples to give Bob Campbell the mound win. John Guenz tagged a triple for the Cougars and teammate Brian Smith collected, slugged a double and a triple. Tom Neary was the loser.

Giants 0
Highlights — The Pirates pulled off a perfect double play in the first and then went on to pound out nine hits, led by Marc Rotundo's one-bagger. Marty Gelder's triples and doubles by Ken Jones, Mike Dudley and Maurice Chung, who got two. The losing chucker was Steve Hoffman.

Phillies 37
Muskie 1
Highlights — The winning Phillies collected many walks off Phillips pitching and scored 13 times in the third. Terry Reid hurled a one-hitter for the Muskie, while teammate Tim Forrester got five hits, including a grand slam home run.

Phillies 13
Expos 20
Highlights — The Expos slammed across 20 runs in the first three innings and then scored the rest of the way, with Bill Campbell picking up the win. Terry Reid was the losing hurler, but he did hit a triple in his own cause. Jack Hewitt also hit a triple for the Expos.

Reds 4
Highlights — Tom Rich blasted an inside the park home run, and teammates Kevin Martins, Tanny Thompson, Bob Hanson and Mark Batocchi tagged doubles to give Bob Schachner the mound win. Battaglia also slammed a triple for the Indians.

The Way We See It

State Wheel-Spinning

To paraphrase the old song, the days are dwindling down to a precious few for the Illinois General Assembly.

The refrain is becoming all too familiar in Springfield, as both House and Senate struggle to meet their constitutional deadline to adjourn by June 30.

It is likely they're not going to make it and equally certain that Governor Ogilvie is going to have to call legislators back into special session to face up to some of the big problems of the state.

Much of the problem — as has the legislators deluge themselves been lamented here before — is that with a flood of trivial bills, with 4,200 different pieces of legislation filed in this session.

The problem is especially crucial in the House, where 2,900 bills were put into the hopper. The representatives have twice had to extend their deadline to get bills out of committee and still might not make their second deadline.

Yet with all that work before them, the legislature seems unable to rise to the challenge, to clear away the trivia and give earnest consideration to the truly significant legislation.

Since the session began in January, only one act of any real impact has come out of the General Assembly, and that was the legislation setting up the machinery for the state Constitutional Convention.

Significantly wallowing in the legislative chambers has been the one prime piece of work filed this year: the massive revenue program of Gov. Richard Ogilvie.

With this state's problems so diverse and its revenue picture so bleak, it is almost unthinkable that more priority hasn't been given to considering the Ogilvie formula. Only this week did it escape the Senate revenue committee.

Ogilvie may have been exaggerating when he warned of severe cutbacks in educational and other state services if his program isn't passed. But there can be no exaggeration of the need for new solutions, and the legislators haven't left themselves with the time to give it the searching look it deserves.

A special session may be the only alternative left, if the formula isn't going to be worked out in haste and petty sniping.

Of the regular session, the legislators might console themselves with the fact that they did set up the Constitutional Convention, thereby creating the vehicle that might do away with their own chaos.

Lives Touched in This Ad

by JOAN KLUSMANN

Quero Mirar a sus Chevrolet. Several years ago in Miami I advertised an old Chevrolet for sale and was immediately swamped with phone calls, 99 per cent from Spanish speaking residents. It was the pre-Castro era, when Batista reigned supreme in Cuba, and the Cuban population in Miami was much smaller than it is today. The disproportionate ratio of inquiries was a complete mystery.

MANY VISITS, CONVERSATIONS and car inspections later, I learned that all taxis in Cuba were Chevrolets made in the same year mine was, and my callers hoped to export the car to sell to a cab company.

However, a peek at the steering wheel turned expressions of hopeful delight into disappointed frowns. My car, which boasted of little else, had an automatic shift, at that time banned from the island.

I ultimately did sell the car to a Cuban citizen — one who attended medical school at the University of Miami and needed transportation to get to classes — but in the meantime I spent a frantic few days, met scores of new people and learned customs of another land.

REMINISCENCES OF THE Chevrolet sale came flooding back last Thursday in Arlington Heights when I placed another ad — this time for baby equipment — in the Herald.

As I stepped over my threshold the phone was ringing, and it continued to do so for five frenzied days. While the callers represented various communities in the area, bulk of the inquiries came from Arlington Heights.

Trends emerged from the calls and visits. Play pens scored the highest in popularity, most probably because kids use them for a short time and more parents tempted to buy them second-hand. Also, as the weekend progressed, more and more fathers called for the pens with a sense of urgency in their voices. I pictured them babysitting and tearing to the want ads in desperation following a tour of duty with their creeping offspring.

GRANDMOTHERS MADE UP the second category, wanting to be prepared with cribs and high chairs when grandchildren visited Arlington Heights this summer.

The next group were the surprised parents, those who blithely gave away all their own equipment only to have another baby seven years later. The last group were the young parents who simply could not afford brand new and shiny baby furniture.

While our lives touched very briefly, the one thing we had in common at that particular moment prompted confidences and sharing of experiences.

The young couple who asked that I leave an old pink ribbon tied on the bassinet "for luck, that's what we want so much."

THE GRANDMOTHER WHO confessed that sending her daughter and grandchildren leave Arlington Heights was the saddest experience of her life. "But the opportunity was good and we had to urge them to take it and smile as they left."

The young woman who tucked her newborn under her arm and drove up herself late at night so she wouldn't miss the baby carriage her son could air himself in. She told of future plans for a transfer and move.

Perhaps it was just a coincidence but most of the young people who confided that second-hand furniture was a virtual necessity came from outside the village. They weren't ashamed to admit it, they looked at their infants with love shining from their eyes and were determined to provide them with the best they could afford at the present time. They had plans for refinishing and refurbishing chipped trays and strained plastic.

I hope we're not pricing them all out of the community.

Your YMCA Needs Help

As a governing and contributing member of the Countryside YMCA, I think it is very important that more of our citizens take a leadership and financial support responsibility to help the "Y" get well established with its organization and program. Every member that I have talked with, and a lot of other people I know who have not yet joined, have been very pleased with the progress the "Y" has made during its first year of service.

APPARENTLY A LOT of folks who are not members now, but who are eager to see the "Y" develop successfully, simply don't fully understand that their support NOW is of critical importance. I hope that these "quiet friends" of the "Y" will speak up and become a part of the team to make this voluntary project succeed.

I know how hard the members of the Countryside YMCA are fighting against the ever present apathetic or let George do it attitudes which exist in our community. The fact is that when the "Y" reaches the stage of being able to open its own attractive building facilities, a lot of people will turn up at the door to do something else has done all the hard work. We can write this behavior off as a simple characteristic of human nature, or we can accept the continuing challenge and responsibility to see that each of us does our part to help the "Y". Three kinds of "helping memberships" are available at the "Y". None of them carry program privileges. Only personal leadership and minimal financial support responsibilities. The three kinds of membership are, first, a governing member who is an individual who believes in the "Y" idea, casts votes to elect directors and decide issues, contributes annually to the current budget, and helps enroll others in the affairs of the "Y".

Second, the century member is an individual, organization or company who believes in the "Y" idea and makes a four year pledge of $100 to the current budget. Third, a sustaining member is an individual organization or company who believes in the "Y" and makes a four year pledge of any amount less than $100 annually.

I AM VERY PROUD of the fact that our family has accepted its responsibility to help the "Y" get started. For those who feel that they have not been asked to help, please accept this invitation from me to join, and consider yourself asked. To those who are members of the "Y", please join with me in this effort to ask others to help.

Nixon Should Release Report

Rumor can be far more damaging than unpleasant truth, and certainly a lot less constructive.

A sharp example of rumor being allowed to thrive is in the suppression of the so-called Blakey Report, touching on crime and politics in Illinois.

The report was prepared by Notre Dame Prof. Robert Blakey for the President's Commission on Crime in 1966 but neither former President Johnson nor President Nixon have seen fit to release its contents. Mr. Johnson even ignored a Senate resolution on March 4, 1968, to make the report public, and an aide to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell is quoted as saying the government doesn't think the report is of enough significance to release it.

The disturbing element in all this is that there have been published reports about the Blakey findings, the gravest of them saying it names judges and politicians in Illinois with syndicate connections. The issue has been further confused by Blakey saying those accounts of his report are somewhat distorted.

The only solution is to make this report public — to clear up the confusion, and to determine whether legal action might be warranted against the persons allegedly named. If at the same time the report is found to be unsubstantiated, then let it be so branded.

The Illinois Senate Executive Committee is currently considering a resolution urging release of the report, and sending a personal delegation to Atty. Gen. Mitchell. We encourage the senators to take the lead in applying the pressure to get the findings of the report into public light.

Between the Lines

Ranches, Bi-levels Still King Here

by MARY REIFSCHEIDER

The year of the many unit high rise apartment buildings invading Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg apparently won't be 1969.

To date, somewhere between 25,000 and 30,000 apartment units have been approved in the Outer Planets. McCormick and Heritage Center projects haven't been heard from this spring.

The economy's present high interest rates probably have something to do with these projects not getting started, but most of them have 18 to 24 months more to start before basic plans have to be resubmitted to the village board.

Seeing vacant fields instead of earth-moving equipment should bring a sigh of relief or reprieve to many residents in the two communities.

A LOT OF PEOPLE don't see any value in allowing apartments to be built in their single-family home communities. They don't want transients "uninterested in the community" moving into their communities creating additional burdens on the local schools, parks and roads.

The longer it takes the apartment units to be built, the better the chances that roads will be improved before the full impact of highrise dwellers adding to traffic congestion becomes reality.

At the slow rate the county and state are widening highways in the township, commuting to Chicago by car would be a nightmare if the apartments were built on schedule.

IT WILL BE interesting to look back in 10 years and see how many of the proposals for apartments became reality and how many of those built look as good as the plans.

With land prices being so high in the township ($25,000 an acre isn't unusual), not many can afford to purchase land for single family homes. But it's probably going to be a few years before apartment buildings rising from vacant prairies tower above the ranch and bi-level homes.

in the two communities, mostly within the past year. But with the spring building season well under way, none of the 1,200 to 3,000 unit giants have asked for building permits.

UNDER CONSTRUCTION now in Hoffman Estates are 763 units by International Development Corp. and about 200 units by Vaco Inc.

Molten Corp. who plans some 1,200 garden apartments and 900 high rise apartment units on the former Ficht Dale Golf Club property and Kaufman and Broad who want to construct 2,650 units near Barrington Road and the Tollway, have been hampered by lack of water and sewer facilities. Without cooperation of the Hoffman Estates Village Board, those projects could be delayed for quite some time.

In Schaumburg, Campanelli is completing 432 units, Morwell is completing about 270 units and International Villages has started work on 732 units. Giants like

'Fatty' Gave Town Atmosphere

by BOB ZANIC

One advantage our new towns lack is the quaintness found in the surroundings or inhabitants of the city.

This can only be created by the passage of time.

A city, as everyone knows, is made up of people. And it gets its flavor from the type of people who live there. I received a letter the other day that took me back in time to an old city and to the memory of a person, a "character," if you will, who lived all his life in that city.

EVERYONE CALLED HIM Fatty. How or when he got the name isn't important. He was about 35 when I first saw him. He was quite a dapper-looking man in his beige tropical suit with the wide lapels and his brown and white oxfords, wide, rainbow-swirled necktie and straw hat tilted jauntily on the back of his blond curly head.

Fatty not only loved to eat but to drink and laugh and smoke large brown cigars as well. For most of his life he earned his living as a businessman in another part of town. I heard that he owned a federal gambling stamp and had at least two or three brushes with the law each year, but he never spent a night looking up at a square moon.

He moved his business to our neighborhood, and though he had three competitors, he was able to make a good living, perhaps it was because he always gave more than he received and had a natural interest and liking for people. Fatty was always sponsoring some group or another.

Sports was another of his loves. Whenever he could get away from his business he would indulge himself in sports. Fatty loved parties. He was always throwing a party. He made it a rule that after every game, win or lose, there would be a party. He behaved like a director of recreation or a small-time impresario.

Like everyone else in this life, Fatty, too had his troubles, but no one ever heard him complain about them. Only once was it known that he had had an enemy. For some unknown reason a fellow had been jealous of Fatty. They mixed it toe-to-toe one night in a back alley and although the fellow was younger and stronger, he was no match for Fatty.

No one was really surprised to see Fatty smile as he extended his hand to his fallen foe. It is a cliché to say that this young fellow had become one of Fatty's best friends.

Known throughout the city, but known best of all in his neighborhood for his good deeds, he would occasionally get his picture in the papers. I have one of those pictures, a headshot, before me right now.

Fatty is wearing a white dinner jacket with a Colonel Sanders necktie. His hair is much grayer than I remembered but he still has the same old grin.

The letter said the picture had been taken about six months ago at his 53rd birthday. He looked like he weighed about 250 pounds.

When he died of cancer last week, the letter said Fatty weighed a little over 100.

Holderman's Mum on College Site

by MARY McHILPITT

Northwest suburbanites last week got their first good look at Dr. James B. Holderman of Elmhurst, the new executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE), a man who will play a key role in determining this area's chances for a new state senior college.

And suburbanites, assessing their chances of beating Lake County's bid for the next Chicago area state senior college, will find that Holderman wisely prefers to avoid making any predictions now on how he thinks the decision will go.

HE DID SUGGEST that an alternate to a Weston area campus might be the development of a science-oriented research institute supported by a consortium of Midwestern schools.

Harper Junior College officials heard Holderman, the speaker at their first graduation exercises, strongly endorse the community college concept.

In an interview with a Herald reporter this week, Holderman underscored his support for community colleges.

"I was thrilled at Harper's graduation to see women graduating who had four, five children in the audience. This is what the community college is for — to provide educational opportunities for those who haven't had them before," Holderman said.

Holderman said he is strongly in favor of community college emphasis on occupational and vocational training and will those areas feel they are in "a respectable profession."

Holderman said he believes it is imperative that the state's four-year schools work more closely with the community colleges who send them transfer students and begin preparing people for junior college teaching. He said the IBHE has understudy a report outlining how training of junior college teachers could be improved.

Affable, articulate and capable, Holderman, 33, is currently vice chancellor of the University of Illinois Chicago Circle campus. He probably will put a much different stamp on the IBHE than his predecessor, Dr. Lyman Glenny.

GLENNY, A PROFESSIONAL with firm views on the development of Illinois higher education, didn't hesitate to lock horns, with those who differed with him. Holderman, with an insider's understanding of both the state's higher education needs and the political processes that influence him, can be expected to use strategy rather than head-on determination in promoting the goals of the state's master plan for higher education.

Characteristically, in telling of his "busman's holiday" service as an Elmhurst school board member, Holderman chuckled and said he enjoys seeing the school administrators use the same tactics in dealing with the school board that he would try if he were on the other side of the table.

Holderman thinks his youth is an asset because of the pace he intends to set for himself in getting better acquainted with the state college system.

IN THE NEXT 30 days, Holderman will visit every four-year college in the state and many of the community colleges, speaking at two other junior college graduations, in addition to maintaining the job at the Circle campus until July 1.

There were some eyebrows raised when the IBHE tapped Holderman, a University of Illinois man who has close links to Gov. Richard Ogilvie, rather than some renowned outsider.

But James Worthy, an IBHE board member who helped interview applicants for the post told the Herald he had questioned Holderman about those factors and had been "fully satisfied" with his answers.

Holderman says he thinks he will tend to lean over backwards not to give preference to the University of Illinois and will have to watch himself not to make sure he's not being unfair as a result.

Holderman believes his access to the governor will be an asset when the IBHE seeks funds to help support the state colleges and universities.

"I TOLD THE interview committee — and I meant it — that my first loyalty is to the IBHE, not the governor or the University of Illinois," he said. He added that while as a political scientist, he thinks it is essential to understand the political factors involved in governmental decision making, he should be equally aware that the state board must not become labeled as partisan.

"I will work assiduously to prevent this," he said.

Holderman said he would make no prediction this week whether — or when — a decision will be made on the establishment of additional metropolitan area state schools recommended by Phase II of the master plan for higher education.

He said revenue and the student capacity of the state's present educational institutions, both public and non-public, will influence that decision.

"THE STATE BOARD has charged us by January, 1970, to come up with demographic data on the state's present and future student population and land availability," he pointed out.

We don't know yet what we will discover. I can only speculate that we will discover that we need additional schools.

But the time and location and type of school are yet to be determined," he added.

When asked if the decision will be based on politics or need, Holderman said, "All factors must be taken into account."

Pending federal approval of the site, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) exhibit has been tentatively set for next April 6 to May 6 at the Hawthorn Shopping Center.

Robert Waller, science curriculum coordinator for School Dist. 59, said last night the shopping center exhibit area had accepted the program for spring of next year.

"Now all we have to do is prove to NASA that we did make a real effort to

Harper To Pick Lawyers

A Chicago law firm — Ancel, Stonesifer and Glink of 111 W. Washington — apparently will defend Harper Junior College in the court case filed against the college by former Harper teachers Edward M. Kalish of Mount Prospect and Betty Neysk of Schaumburg.

The firm apparently will not be formally retained until tonight when the college board meets.

But Ronald M. Glink of the firm appeared in U. S. District Court Monday for the college and was granted a three-week delay in the time the college must file its answer to the Kalish-Enbysk suit.

This means the college's answer need not be filed until June 26. It was originally due this Thursday.

The firm will be listed as co-representing the college along with Frank Hines of Elk Grove Village, who handles Harper's other legal matters.

HINES TOLD THE Herald last week the college is planning to retain a Chicago legal firm to help with the upcoming litigation.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Thursday, June 12, the 163rd day of 1969 with 202 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1630 the first governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, John Winthrop, entered the harbor at Salem.

In 1924 President Calvin Coolidge received the presidential nomination to the Republican National Convention in Cleveland.

In 1963 a sniper killed Negro civil rights leader Medgar Evers in Jackson, Miss.

In 1967 the United States Supreme Court ruled that states could not outlaw interracial marriages.

A thought for the day: Plato said, "No evil can happen to a good man, either in life or after death."

find a completely noncommercial exhibit area," Waller said. "I'm in the process of rounding up that data now."

The leader in the drive to bring space hardware has been seeking a satisfactory site in the Northwest suburbs for several months.

"AT ONE POINT I had all but given up," he said.

If NASA accepts the site and the dates, more than $150,000 worth of equipment, rockets, space capsules and possibly astronauts will visit the Northwest suburbs.

The exhibit, which requires a minimum of 10,000 square feet of space and 17-foot ceilings, includes everything from the Gemini program through the planned lunar landing this summer.

Waller has lined up support of School Districts 211, 214 and 207, the elementary districts in the area and most parochial schools to meet the NASA requirement of at least 30,000 student attendance.

The exhibit will also be open to the public, and at least 100,000 persons are expected to attend. With moon specimens on exhibit for the first time, that figure could be considerably higher.

LOCAL COST of the program is very slight; the last time it was used, in Danbury, Conn., the price to local sponsors was $300. NASA pays the remainder.

The problem until now has been to find an area large enough, with sufficient public facilities and parking, in a completely noncommercial atmosphere. NASA will permit only nonprofit displays to be included in an area with their offering. "They won't tolerate sales, promotion or advertising to be related with their efforts, and even go so far as to prohibit admission charges," Waller said.

In March it was reported that "while Mission Control in Houston is pondering the higher mathematics of sending someone to the moon to bring back some rocks, School Dist. 59 in Arlington Heights is pondering the geography of the area to find a place where those rocks might be displayed for a month."

At this moment, all systems are "go" for both efforts.

VIEWING TE RACES from the balcony of the private Post and Paddock Club last Friday were Mr. and Mrs. William McCallister and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pace, guests of the Arlington Heights Infant Welfare Center. The annual party is the sole fund raiser of the group each year.

EARLY ARRIVALS for Infant Welfare's annual Post and Paddock party included the Brice Millers and the Donald L.

Normans of Arlington Heights. The party included an afternoon of racing, cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, dinner and dancing.

From the posh Post and Paddock Club at Arlington Park, members and friends of the Infant Welfare Society once again participated in the "sport of kings," sipped cocktails, dined and danced in the elegant private club.

The occasion was a party held last Friday afternoon and evening, the ninth annual Post and Paddock fund-raiser sponsored by the Arlington Heights Center of the Society. A popular early summer charity event, the benefit is one of the longest and most varied of parties, beginning at 2 p.m. with the races and ending well after midnight following gourmet foods and dancing.

Each year several hundred couples attend the party which raises more than $3000 for the Society. Proceeds go toward medical, educational and emotional help for needy children and their families.

The Arlington Heights Center received its charter in 1960 and currently has an active membership of 22 and an associate membership of 12. In addition to fund-raising, its members also volunteer their services at Infant Welfare stations where they assist doctors and nurses.

IN ENSEMBLES as bright as the silks worn by the jockeys, Mrs. Paul Knott, Mrs. Edward E. Carpenter and Mrs. Byn Witt sought to pick a winner at the Post and Paddock Party.

Daisies Set the Theme

A theme of daisies was used for the centerpieces and the name tags at Palatine's Junior Woman's Club annual spring banquet held last month at the Indian Lakes Country Club.

Katherine deJersey, professional astrologer and television and radio personality, presented her program of "How To Follow Your Lucky Stars."

The centerpieces and floral table favors were created by Mrs. Rudy Andrews, chairman of the hostess committee and her committee. Mrs. John Corken, Mrs. Clifford Dean, Mrs. James Doss, Mrs. David Dudek, Mrs. Richard LaVelle, Mrs. Lou Lundstedt, Mrs. Robert Nelson, Mrs. John O'Hara, Mrs. J. Peter Olzowy, Mrs. Charles Skillman and Mrs. Robert Yount.

History of the 1968-69 club year was read by Mrs. William Heise Jr., historian and parliamentarian, and a scrapbook of the year's activities was presented to Mrs. Ronald Dudek, outgoing president.

NEW OFFICERS for the 1969-70 year were then presented to the members: Mrs. Robert Bowles, president; Mrs. Al Lietz, vice president; Mrs. Robert Nelson, recording secretary; Mrs. James Doss, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Clark Sanford, treasurer.

Department and committee chairman for the year announced were American home, Mrs. Richard Batts; art and music, Mrs. Richard Rogers; international relations, Mrs. Richard Komarewicz; literature and drama, Mrs. David Dudek; service projects, Mrs. Carl Ran dall; allocations, Mrs. John Thompson; auditing, Mrs. Clark Sanford; courtesy, Mrs. Don Westergren; entertainment, Mrs. James Cramm; historian and parliamentarian, Mrs. Lou Lundstedt; hostess, Mrs. Paul Johnson; membership, Mrs. Al Lietz; program, Mrs. Stephen Duncan; publicity, Mrs. Philip Yunker; recreation, Mrs. Richard Rebillard; revisions, Mrs. Robert Greenless; and ways and means, Mrs. Rudy Andrews.

New members welcomed that evening were Mrs. John Burdick, Mrs. John Kohl, Mrs. Robert McAdams and Mrs. Thomas Stat.

Arlington to Iowa

Gary Henry Schauffler, son of the Henry J. Schaufflers, 22 Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights, chose a resourceful bride in Pamela Judson Wind, daughter of the Eugene Winds of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Pamela designed and made her princess style gown of silk organza over satin with sabrina neckline and long, fitted sleeves. The Venice lace that accented the lines of the dress also followed the rounded lines of the chapel train extending from the empire waistline in the back.

The three-tiered ballerina veil of imported silk illusion was loaned by the groom's sister, Mrs. Jack R. Bauman of Arlington Heights. The veil was held in place by a headpiece of tiny organza rose buds encircled with lace and pearls. Pamela carried a crescent of white roses, stephanotis and ivy as she was led down the aisle by her father.

THE 2 P.M. DOUBLE ring ceremony took place by candlelight at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Council Bluffs, Iowa on May 31. Presiding from an altar decked in white gladioli was the Reverend Raymond J. Ray.

The small wedding party included Miss Penny Kelley from Omaha, Neb. as matron of honor, who wore a greenstone peau de soie gown with short sleeves and sabrina neckline. The res, designed by the bride, was accented at the empire waistline with light green Venice lace which also trimmed the matching silk illusion headpiece. A nosegay of yellow roses and white carnations provided a soft accent.

Best man was John A. Lanning, the groom's former roommate from Des Moines, Iowa. Ushers were Jack R. Bauman, husband of the groom's brother in law, and Russell L. Moore, both from Arlington Heights.

GREETING 75 guests at the reception in St. Paul's Parish Center immediately following the ceremony was the bride's mother, in a foam green crepe sheath with matching lace coat. A small petal shaped beige hat, beige gloves and bag, and a corsage of yellow cymbidiums completed Mrs. Wind's ensemble.

The groom's mother chose a petal pink two-piece silk shantung costume with matching veiled hat, shoes and bag. Green cymbidiums complemented her outfit.

The couple honeymooned for three days while enroute to Jackson, Mich. where the groom is employed as an electrical engineer by Consumers Power Co., and the bride teaches home economics at Lake Vandercook High School.

The bride received her B.S. in May from Iowa State University where the groom also received his degree. Gary is a 1964 graduate of Prospect High School.

Mixing Business and Pleasure

Yen for Travel? Take a Job Abroad

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—American women with a hankering for travel abroad can spend the summer and fall in England this year without wrecking the family finances if they don't mind mixing business with pleasure.

Temporary jobs are available for experienced stenographers, secretaries, typists and other office workers through a "Holiday Work Program" sponsored by an American company.

We checked into work travel opportunities abroad in response to letters from readers of a previous column on working vacations in the United States.

The program abroad is run jointly by the Dictaphone Corporation's Dot Girls, which also provides temporary office help in the United States, and its London-based counterpart Office Services International (I.K.I.).

It runs until Oct. 31, the close of the British "holiday period" during which citizens from other countries are permitted to work temporarily in England.

Robert Lattanze, administrative manager of the firm's International Division, said applications already have been received from women across the country and some already are working in England.

One of the first applicants was Miss Margaret Joan Loos, 24 of Inwood, N.Y., a secretary who said she had never been outside the United States except for one trip to Nassau.

Miss Loos, who is planning to spend four months in England, said she was "really excited."

"The thing I like about the program is that I will really get to know the English people by working and living in London," she said. "Another advantage is that my free time and weekends won't be programmed as they are on tours. I'll be able to make my own plans and go where and when I like."

To qualify for the program, Lattanze said applicants must be skilled in office work and be a registered Dot Girl. There is no fee for registering with the service.

"She can then apply and we will assist her in obtaining a temporary work permit from the British Ministry of Labor," he said. He noted that work permits are issued only to British firms, take six to eight weeks to obtain and are valid for four months.

"Any girl can apply," he said. "The only restriction—and that's by English law—is that she must be over 19 years of age."

A U.S. passport will be needed to travel outside the United States.

Applicants must agree to spend a minimum of eight weeks in temporary assignment while in London. They also must pay their own travel fare and other expenses.

The company, however, will assist in making travel arrangements from the United States and for temporary accommodations in London until more permanent quarters are found. The program also provides help in arranging tours, for theater tickets, and offers guidelines for eating, dress and other helpful tips.

"During a girl's stay, she will be assured temporary assignments," Lattanze said, adding that "every effort will be made to match job requests with positions available."

He said job opportunities range from working for a member of Parliament to operating office equipment.

Each woman will receive literature on British office routine and terminology, places to go, things to see, restaurants suitable for her budget, maps and transportation information and facts on British currency.

Lattanze said British office routine is pretty much the same as in the United States but the Americans "will probably find their bosses in London a bit more formal and proper."

He said the normal working hours in London are from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with an hour for lunch and weekends off.

The pay scales there are lower than in the United States, he noted, but "if a girl manages her salary carefully and adheres to the British standard of living, her salary will cover normal living expenses."

A senior secretary can earn about $53 for a 35-hour week, a skilled typist about $48. The company advises girls to bring along a minimum of $150, in addition to buying a roundtrip transatlantic ticket, to cover initial expenses and incidentals.

The firm has arranged reasonably priced living quarters for Americans at a centrally-located hotel for young women. The rate for a single room with bath, plus continental breakfast, is $12.60 per week. For two women sharing a room it is $8.70 each per week. Obviously, they can choose their accommodations if they desire, it was noted.

Dot Girls has offices in principal cities in the United States, including Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Los Angeles, San Francisco, New York and Washington, D.C.

Engagements

Ann Brokaw
The engagement of Ann Brokaw to Michael J. Tobin, son of Dr. and Mrs. John E. Tobin Jr. of San Francisco, is announced by Miss Brokaw's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Brokaw of 457 Bennett Ave., Palatine.
A Nov. 29 wedding is planned.
Miss Brokaw, a graduate of Palatine High School and Mower Secretarial School, works for Mattel Toys, Inc. Her fiancé is studying for his master's degree in business at the University of Southern California and also works for TRW Systems.
Priscilla Read
Former Arlington Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scudder Read of Tampa, Fla., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Priscilla Weston Read, to John Leroy Parker of Chicago.
The couple will be married in July.
Miss Read has a bachelor's degree from Alma College in Michigan and a master's from Florida State University. She is a psychiatric social worker for the Family Guidance Clinic in Sharon, Pa.

Mr. Parker, son of the Dewitt Leroy Parkers of Memphis, has a bachelor's from Fish University, Nashville, and is working on a master's in business administration through the executive program at the University of Chicago. He is assistant to the financial vice president of Mangood Corp., Chicago.
Sharon Hivon
Mr. Earl Hivon, 352 Brentwood Drive, Palatine, announces the engagement of his daughter Sharon Jean to John Robert Seddon, son of the John F. Seddons of Barrington Hills.
The wedding will take place Aug. 30 in Arlington Heights Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Adult, Children's Drama Classes

A new semester in the continuing program of acting classes for children and the first in a series of classes for adults begin at Mill Run Playhouse on Monday, June 23.
The classes for children from 8 to 18 will be held for two hours daily Monday through Friday, June 23 through July 11. Each class will be limited to 5 students.
Creative drama techniques will be taught, with emphasis on improvisation, body and stage movement and voice and scene preparation. Students are invited to participate in other activities at Mill Run Playhouse. Previous students have played roles in children's theatre productions.
Classes are taught by Mrs. Doreen Bizar, a graduate of the school of speech, Northwestern University. Mrs. Bizar is also a teacher in the Skokie schools.
The program of acting classes for adults is new at Mill Run Playhouse. Bob Thompson, professor of speech and director of drama at Rosary College in River Forest, will conduct the classes. Thompson, a distinguished actor, has appeared in several Mill Run and Pheasant Run Playhouse productions including "Sabrina Fair." For his role in that play, he was nominated for the Joe Jefferson award.
The classes in professional acting techniques are specifically designed to help the working actor. The two hour classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday at 1 p.m.
Application forms for both adults and children are available at the Mill Run Playhouse in the Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles. Further information may be obtained by calling Ross Chapple, theatre manager, 774-3825.

Floral Hint for Gardeners

"Spray paint your Allium Gigantum for a beautiful decoration" was Mrs. Charles Pease's "hint of the month" at the May meeting of Plum Grove Garden Club. Allium is a member of the onion family that produces a large globular purple bloom atop a four to five foot stalk.
Hostess at the May meeting was Mrs. Jack Perkins, and in attendance were four prospective members — Mrs. Richard Hill, Mrs. Daniel Nikolich, Mrs. Richard Riffner and Mrs. Grover Simpson.
"Creative Landscaping and Design" was the theme of the meeting, with Mrs. Jack Kaplan of Glenview as guest speaker. Mrs. Kaplan is a member of the Illinois Landscape Contractors Association and had an exhibit at the recent Randhurst Flower Show.

"LANDSCAPING should fit the needs of and reflect the family that lives in the home," she stated. "Give dad his putting green, children their play area and mother her beautiful garden with patio privacy where it's wanted."

The Plum Grove gardeners have made plans to enter a float in the Fourth of July parade in Palatine. They will hear Mrs. R. Simms speak on "Flowers and Ceramics" at their June 23 meeting in the Inverness home of Mrs. Robert Wessberg.

25th AAUW Meeting

Mrs. Stephen Loska Jr., Des Plaines, newly elected president of the Northwest Suburban Branch of the American Association of University Women, will head a group of members attending the association's 25th biennial convention.

Among branch members attending the convention, which will be held at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago June 15-19, are: Mrs. G. E. Bailey and Mrs. B. Graham, both of Arlington Heights; Mrs. E. V. Carlson, Prospect Heights; and Mrs. C. D. Jenks, Mount Prospect.

Among the speakers at the national convention of the association, which has over 150,000 members, will be: Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer, Harvard University professor and former U. S. Ambassador to Japan; Dr. Marston Bates, professor of zoology, University of Michigan; and Gwendolyn Brooks, Pulitzer Prize winning poet.

Don't throw out that old piece of furniture just because it's a bit battered and worn. With an assist from an antiquing kit, the oldest and most battered pieces can be saved, according to the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. Best of all, you needn't worry about nicks and scars since they often enhance the beauty of an antiqued piece of furniture.

When you consider buying a side of beef, recognize that weights quoted usually are "hanging" weights—the weight before cutting, trimming and boning. The cutting loss—the excess fat and bone that's thrown away—can vary from 20 to 30 per cent or more. For example, if you buy a 300-pound side of beef and the cutting loss is 25 per cent, you would get only 225 pounds of usable meat cuts.

Good health practices include periodic checkups. Remember mild diabetes can occur without symptoms. Early detection can keep treatment to a minimum, according to authorities.

Fresh strawberries will keep in a cool place for three days. Frozen ones keep up to a year.

Line an outdoor grill with heavy duty aluminum foil. Build the fire on the foil. The liner reflects heat and distributes it evenly over grill surface, cooking food faster. It also catches drippings and makes quick work of clean-up.

Put on your do-it-yourself thinking cap this summer to save money next December, suggests a University of Nebraska Extension family specialist. Think of ways between now and then to make interesting Christmas presents. The reason: Business forecasters are predicting Yule gifts will cost a family from five to 20 per cent more than last December.

On Today's Fashion Scene

by United Press International

For seamstresses, there's a new all-bias pella developed to solve problems presented by knits and other lightweight fabrics, giving them body and shape-assurance without restricting their mobility or changing their supple characters. The development marks the first time that an interfacing particularly for knits has been available to home seamstresses, the manufacturer says.

For fall and winter, Julius Resnick created a silver lame evening knapsack for women who don't want their handbags to float away while dancing. For fall and winter of the year 2000: His entry was in a "bags of the future" exhibit sponsored by the National Handbag Association.

Go through that trunk in the attic at grandma's house. If you find a skinny fur scarf — preferably a dozen feet long — pull it out for wearing in the fashion season ahead. Such things are being brought back as fashion accents by pace-setting American designers.

Strings of beads and ropes of chains go to neckline length for fall and winter. You knot them, tuck them into or loop them around a belt. The more strands, the better.

Newest sports slacks for men are more colorful and employ novelty knits as well as handsome patterns. There are socks to match, harmonize or contrast with the new slacks, sport shirts and accessories. Some have cushion soles to pamper golfers and tennis players and many are in the stretch construction that fit smoothly, won't wrinkle and stay up.

When selecting gift slacks for dad, consider the shirts and sportcoats in his wardrobe. Pick from slacks of dressy fabrics to complement his blazers and sportcoats, or from casual wash 'n' wear permanent press slacks and walk shorts for active sportswear or for "just lounging."

They'll Escort Guests to the Proper Pew

Ushers, if properly instructed at the wedding rehearsal, will perform their duties with composure, greatly adding to the occasion. They should plan to be at the church at least one hour before the ceremony begins.

The front pews are reserved for the immediate families, with those at the left for the bride's family, and those at the right for the groom's family. Ushers should be told whom to seat in these pews.

AS EACH WOMAN arrives, an usher offers his arm and escorts her down the aisle, while her escort follows. A guest may mention that she is a friend of the bride or groom, so that the usher will seat her on the appropriate side.

Just before the processional starts, the groom's mother is escorted to her place in the right front pew, while the groom's father follows. The bride's mother is then escorted to her place in the left front pew. After she is seated, late arriving guests must take places at the side and back, since the bridal procession is ready to begin.

After the recessional, an usher escorts first the bride's mother and then the groom's mother from the church. Other family members and guests follow, leaving one pew at a time.

If an aisle carpet or lighted tapers are used for the ceremony, ushers will make sure that they are properly used.

Joins Summer Theater Bates Wins Award

Eugene Good of 506 E. Knob Hill Drive, Arlington Heights, has been selected a member of the performing company for Southern Illinois University's Summer Music Theater Repertory Company, which will produce four musicals during the 1969 season.

Good is a freshman theater major at SIU.

Jeffrey C. Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Bates of 1317 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights, was recently awarded the Edward M. Stimela Memorial Award in the annual presentation of academic awards at Colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y.

A sophomore concentrating in political science, Bates was judged to have done more for Colgate as a freshman than any other member of the class of '71.

He is an Alumni War Memorial Scholar, a Cobb Fellow, and a member of Phi Society. He was president of his freshman class and has served in the student senate and the university church board.

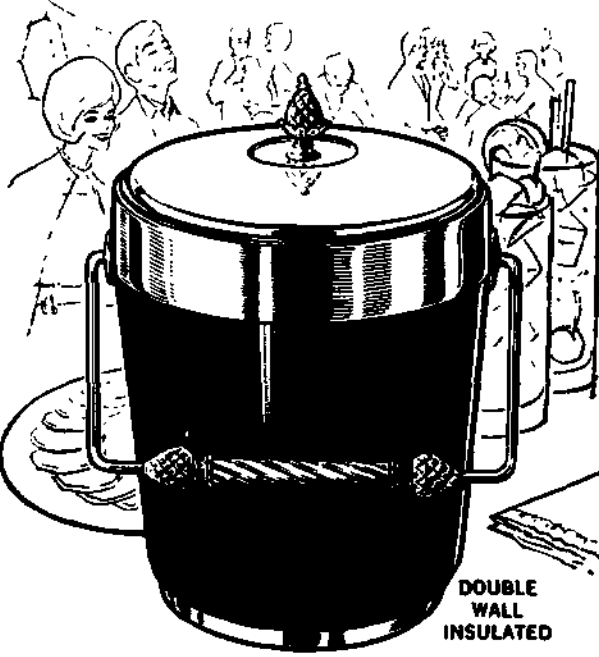

He was president of the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Scholarship Committee.

Bates is a 1967 graduate of Prospect High School.

Named To Blue Key

Jerry Hahnfeld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Hahnfeld of 505 W. Wing St., Arlington Heights, has been tapped for the Blue Key award at recent honors day activities at Carthage College, Kenosha, Wis.

Blue Key is an honorary organization for junior and senior men having good scholastic standing and displaying leadership qualities.

Les Brownlee To Speak At Lutheran General

WLS television newsmen Les Brownlee will discuss "The Hospital's Responsibility to the Community" at the Lutheran General Hospital Service Leagues' quarterly meeting.

Lutheran General Hospital is at 1775 Dempster St., Park Ridge. The meeting will be held June 17, at 8 p.m. on the hospital's tenth floor.

Brownlee has a bachelor's and master's degree in journalism from Northwestern University. He has managed a chain of newspapers in Texas, taught at Texas Southern University, and has been an associate editor of Ebony magazine. A former reporter for the Chicago Daily News and the old Chicago's American, Brownlee has also been news director of radio station WBEE.

WHILE WITH THE Daily News, he received a Chicago Newspaper Guild award for a series of articles on aid to dependent children.

For the past six years he has been vice chairman of the Illinois Commission on Human Relations.

Brownlee joined Channel 7 news in 1964, and is a frequent panel member on the Sunday Forum news program.

The Service League will also present scholarship awards to high school students and awards to male hospital volunteers.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS OUR MEN AND WOMEN OF THE WEEK

As announced last Friday over WEXI 92.7 FM, Arlington Heights, members of the graduating classes of high schools in this area were saluted as the YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN OF THE WEEK.

This salute went to the seniors of Prospect, Arlington Heights, Forest View, Elk Grove, Hersey, Wheeling, St. Viator, St. Patrick's Academy, Sacred Heart of Mary and Notre Dame of Niles High Schools.

They are the "Young Men and Women of the Week" not so much for what they have accomplished as for what they can do with their lives. Because they have chosen not to drop out of the educational process they can make a choice of colleges to continue in learning, or they can make use of skills already acquired to become useful citizens.

These young men and women can make their parents proud of them if they continue to work, save and learn. They can some day remake the world and help attain its goal of peace. Some of them may step upon the moon in conquering of space. They have an opportunity in joining the political process and through orderly means to right wrongs and erase poverty and prejudice.

WE INVITE YOUR NOMINATIONS FOR MAN OR WOMAN OF THE WEEK AS WELL AS YOUR SAVINGS. WRITE US OR TELL US ABOUT YOUR CHOICE AS YOU STOP IN TO ADD TO YOUR PASSBOOK OF SAVINGS FOR A NEW HOME, VACATION, RETIREMENT OR EDUCATION OF YOUR CHILDREN.

Americans Get Soviet Dose

by ROBERT BUCKHORN

LENNINGRAD, Russia (UPI) —The jettison's loudspeaker was blaring "Bill Bailey Won't You Please Come Home" when the Americans invaded Russia.

Down the ramp they came armed with wrap-around sun glasses, mini-skirts, chewing gum, and expectations of finding a secret policeman behind every samovar.

The invaders were the first group of American tourists to take advantage of a cut rate, all-inclusive tour of Russia arranged between the Kremlin and Overseas National Airways, a supplemental airline.

For the Kremlin, the agreement was an obvious bid for American dollars. For the tourists, it was, as one of them put it, "a chance to find out what this communist Mickey Mouse is all about."

The confrontation was a standoff. Take Sergei Salykov, the group's philosophical Russian guide, who lived up to the Hollywood movie conception of what a Russian should be.

Said Salykov, "Americans all the time think somebody watching them. It is not true, naturally, but I don't want to disappoint so maybe I should hire some people to watch you."

A girl bank clerk from the Bronx, N.Y., refused to be won over. Every night she moved the dresser in front of her hotel room door. "I almost strained myself," she said.

Language was another problem. One male tourist stopped a Russian woman in a restaurant. "Where," he said, "is the rest room?" Said she: "Describe what it is you do in this restroom."

According to Salykov, "You wouldn't believe some of the questions asked by Americans. Let me give you a for instance. One tourist wanted to know if we Russians got our vodka from wells in the ground."

"Another time, tourist say why don't you have many dogs in Russia? What can I say? As far as I know the number of dogs is natural. But I know tourists sometimes don't like this answer so I say is due to severe Russian winter. They say - Okay, I see now."

But the coin had its Russian side. In Sochi, a Soviet resort on the Black Sea, a Russian man was fascinated by an American girl's multi-colored eye make-up. Finally he couldn't stand it. "Do you dye your eyes?" he blurted out.

Then there was the Russian store clerk who left one American staring dumbly at his hand when he nonchalantly gave him two candy bars and a postcard to make up the change he owed.

Or the Russian who downed a bottle of vodka in a series of rapid fire toasts, and then motioned the American to come close. "What," he whispered, "did Barry Goldwater mean when he said 'Better dead than Red'?"

Some of the Americans insisted they were being followed. Their luggage was being searched, they said. One man even claimed he awoke in the middle of the night, peeked out between the heavy drapes which shrouded his Russian style bed, and saw a man pawing through his dirty laundry.

One tourist checked behind every picture in his room for an electronic bug. He found cracked plaster and cobwebs.

Others decided that the real spy was the guide, Salykov, and that his flair for comedy was actually a front for his real job—secret agent.

Salykov, however, stuck to his claim that he was just a hard-working tourist guide. "It is hard to make Americans happy," he complained. "When I say 'Everybody will not leave his sunglasses on the bus'—they say, 'See, bloody Russian dictatorship!' The same sentence in your country is democracy at work."

There was one incident of confirmed intrigue. In Leningrad, an American tourist stood gazing into a store window, a bundle of dark cloth tucked under his arm.

Suddenly, a man appeared, sidled up next to him and whispered hoarsely: "You want to sell cloth, Americanski?" The American looked appalled, mumbled "no," and hurried off.

He was the Rev. John J. Meehan, a Roman Catholic priest from Edison, N.J. Dressed in mufti, Father Meehan had just said Mass at one of the three Roman Catholic churches still operating inside Russia.

What the Soviet citizen had tried to buy was Father Meehan's cassock.

Said Father Meehan: "If I'd taken him up on it, can you just imagine the look on his face when he got home and unrolled it?"

Labor Fight Brews

WASHINGTON (UPI) —"If you build a better mousetrap, the NLRB won't let you use it."

With this and other similar slogans, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce last week began its latest drive to push a labor law reform package through Congress.

Topping the chamber's priority list for labor reforms are the elimination of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) and a change in the preamble of the National Labor Relations (Taft-Hartley) Act which it claims encourages unionism.

The chamber wants the NLRB replaced by a labor court.

The effort is not new—the chamber has been mounting similar drives each spring for the last several years—but for the first time the political climate with its conservative coalition as a base may be getting ready to accept the idea.

It was this drive and the threat of a change in climate that prompted AFL-CIO President George Meany—on the eve of last November's presidential election—to warn:

"For the first time in history 35 major business groups—the National Association of Manufacturers, the American Retail Federation and others—have united in a single campaign to destroy the National Labor Relations Act as we know it."

Meany said the alliance was out to destroy the act to give "big business a free hand" in its dealings with labor.

With the Congress still firmly in the hands of the Democrats, however, there is little likelihood that any major labor reform laws could win approval. But the chamber is willing to wait.

"New laws take years to achieve, especially in this field," said Anthony J. Obadal, who heads the chamber's latest reform drive. Obadal, who once served as a staff attorney for the NLRB, is the chamber's labor law expert.

Obadal said he did not expect any action on his reform package from this Congress but he didn't rule it out. "In 1958 we had a far more pro-labor Congress than we have now," he said.

This is precisely what worries organized labor. In 1958, a "friendly" Democratic Congress approved the Landrum-Griffin Act in an effort to curb the power of "union bosses" and restore democracy to labor organizations. Labor doesn't want another Landrum-Griffin.

Housing Resurrected

SPRINGFIELD The open housing fight was resurrected yesterday in the Senate when the Republican majority voted 26-2 to send a series of bills to the committee most likely to kill them.

After an hour of debate, the measures which already passed the House were sent to the Registration and Miscellaneous Committee — perennial graveyard for such bills.

No Wage-Price Control

WASHINGTON — The White House has announced that President Nixon has no intention of adopting wage and price controls as an alternative to curb inflation if Congress refuses to extend the 10 per cent surtax.

Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy earlier had stated that wage-price controls were under consideration as alternative measures.

U.S. Is Back In Favor

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — After six years Cambodia has resumed diplomatic relations with the United States.

However, along with the agreement, the Cambodian government has demanded $8.6 million in reparations for damages caused by American planes using defoliants to search for Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

North Viets Repelled

SAIGON — About 100 North Vietnamese troops broke through the outer perimeter of a U.S. Army artillery base briefly yesterday and were driven out after the defenders lowered their artillery pieces to ground level and fired point-blank.

Fourteen Americans were killed, while the enemy lost at least 27 in the action at the 196th Infantry Brigade Artillery base, 340 miles north-northeast of Saigon, U.S. spokesmen said.

Peking, Soviets Clash

HONG KONG — Peking claimed yesterday Soviet troops provoked a border clash Tuesday and sent an armored column knifing into Communist China near the Lop Nor missile testing site, but the Russian version of the incident put the blame on the Chinese.

Red China claiming that the Russians probed near one of her major oil fields, filed a protest with the Soviet embassy in Peking and the Soviet foreign ministry delivered a note rejecting the Chinese protest.

Policemen Acquitted

CHICAGO A federal court jury yesterday found three Chicago policemen innocent in the beating of a newsman during the Democratic National Convention week disorders.

The jury acquitted the trio on the charge that they deprived a Chicago Daily News reporter of his civil rights by beating him. U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry said he was "in harmony" with the jury's decision.

Primary Bill In House

SPRINGFIELD A Senate bill to move Illinois' primary date from the second Tuesday in June to the second Tuesday in April was sent to the House floor yesterday on a 17-3 vote.

The House Election Committee recommended the House pass the measure. However, the full House already has turned down a House bill to do the same thing.

Legislation that will enable Schaumburg to build a cultural center is now awaiting the signature of Gov. Richard Ogilvie.

The Illinois Senate unanimously approved the bill Tuesday that was introduced by state Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, which permits municipalities to establish and finance cultural centers.

The bill was approved by the House of Representatives last month.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher will send Governor Ogilvie a letter urging him to sign the legislation into law.

Schaumburg plans to build a cultural center as part of a new civic center that will be located on 40 acres fronting Schaumburg Road a half-mile south of Roselle Road on land donated to the village.

SCHAUMBURG intends to finance its cultural center through a clause in a village ordinance providing that apartment complexes must pay $100 per unit for the cultural center.

Atcher said Tuesday that Schaumburg would receive about $2 million from apartment builders, payable upon occupancy of the unit.

Tentative plans for the cultural center include two theaters, one for area guild productions and one for regional symphonies, ballets and similar productions.

The Harding Museum, currently without a home, may also be part of the center. The museum has an outstanding collection of European armor and a large collection of Frederic Remington western paintings.

The museum has been in storage since its Hyde Park home was razed for an expressway several years ago.

A citizen's committee in Schaumburg is studying the feasibility of relocating the museum in Schaumburg.

THE BILL, awaiting the governor's signature, provides that a community may acquire property by purchase, lease, as a gift (as Schaumburg), or through condemnation.

Revenue bonds may also be issued, which can be paid back solely by revenue derived from the center. If general obligation bonds are used to finance the center and taxes levied, voters' approval must be obtained in a referendum.

The bill specifically includes art exhibits, theater groups, museums and any other activity "enhancing the cultural and intellectual level of the community."

The bill was cosponsored by State Reps. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mount Prospect.

Schaumburg's citizens committee is headed by Mrs. Gordon Mullins. Atcher said building of the cultural center will probably start in two years.

Arlington Heights is also considering building a cultural center.

Democrats to Tap Warman?

Three Democrat committeemen in the four-township area insisted Wednesday their candidate for 13th District congressional remains a question.

A reliable news source Tuesday night said Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie is a unanimous pick among the district's eight committeemen. None of the four area committeemen were at home Tuesday night for comment.

Following a Sunday screening session, the committeemen were to go back to their organizations for direction on selecting a candidate. Another meeting was set for June 19 for committeemen to decide their candidates.

The Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization met Tuesday night. Democrats in Palatine Township were to meet last night and Schaumburg Township is meeting Friday night.

James McCabe, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said his organization had authorized him to select a candidate even before initial screening began. McCabe said he knows who he will vote for, but will wait until the June 19 meeting to disclose his decision.

PETE GERLING, Palatine Township Democrat committeeman, said he has the field of 10 candidates narrowed down to "three or four." He specifically cited his preferences as Warman, Raymond S. True of Roselle and Milton Rakove, a political science professor. He said his party's executive board is also familiar with these candidates.

Elk Grove Township Democrat Committeeman Chester Chesney said his group is leaving the choice up to him. He favors two men — Warman and Rakove.

The Schaumburg township organization could not be reached for comment.

According to party leaders at the May 26 screening session, the question of a Democrat primary fight would depend on whether committeemen can agree on one candidate. Chesney said Wednesday he believes the committeemen will resolve the selection to only one man because there is little time and money and only six months before the next April election.

THE ELK GROVE Township committeeman said his fellow-party leaders wanted an open primary but the regular organization wanted "to save all its ammunition for the general election."

"All organizations in the district are quite low on funds," Chesney said. "There are not as many fat cats when you're out of power as when you're in."

New Trier Township Committeeman Lynn Williams said Tuesday night that there is, among committeemen, "general indication of a favorable attitude toward Warman."

Williams also insisted, though, the question of a candidate and primary race is still open.

According to Williams, Warman's views on issues show: opposition to the Vietnam war to the point of unilateral withdrawal, if necessary, and opposition to excessive military spending and the ABM.

Warman blamed excessive military spending for inflation by pouring billions into the economy without putting any counterpart goods or services into the market to be bought with the money distributed, according to Williams.

"He also pointed out his record of independent voting in the state legislature and indicated his freedom of domination by machine politics," Williams said.

THE MAVERICK New Trier Democrat agreed with an analysis Warman is "not a Delcy Democrat."

"It seemed to me that the positions he stated are very similar to those of Sen. Kennedy and Sen. McGovern."

Warman, 42, an attorney, is in his third term in the Illinois legislature, representing the 4th District. He serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees. He was named one of the best freshman legislators for his work in 1965 and 1966.

HB 1241 Delayed

by MARY DRESSER

As a result of extensive pressure from unincorporated areas, House Bill 1241 will be held up in the Senate to await further consideration this fall.

HB 1241 set up the mechanics to allow municipalities to annex contiguous unincorporated areas by ordinance.

Property owners in unincorporated sections of Prospect Heights, Palatine, and Elk Grove, have been loud in their objections to HB 1241, contending the bill restricts their right to control the destiny of their own areas.

Opponents of the bill testified against it Tuesday.

Testimony for the bill was heard yesterday, but all indications are the Senate will ask for more time to consider the problem.

THE BILL WILL be referred to a senate subcommittee which will submit a final report to the senate committee in fall.

Meanwhile, the senate bill sponsor, Sen. Jack Knuepfer R-Elmhurst, will devote part of his summer to drafting an amendment to the bill that will satisfy irate property owners in unincorporated areas.

Need Cited For Complex

The proposed medical complex in Schaumburg is an "absolute necessity" for the community, says Ward Weaver, Schaumburg State Bank president who is helping with plans for the center.

The complex will be located north along Schaumburg Road near the Blackhawk School and serve residents of Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Roselle and Streamwood.

"If a person falls or has a heart attack, he has to go all the way to Elgin for care. The difference in time required for traveling could save a person's life," Weaver said.

Several industries planned for the Schaumburg area also make the need for nearby medical facilities urgent in the event of industrial accidents, Weaver said.

THE IDEA FOR THE center was formulated by Paul W. Brandel, Schaumburg State Bank board chairman, who donated a 51-acre site for the medical complex.

With both men working at the bank, it came naturally for Weaver to work on plans with Hiram Sibily, executive director of the Chicago Metropolitan Hospital Planning Association, Metwop said.

Weaver has served as director of a community hospital in Evanston. He predicts it will be four years before the Schaumburg project is completed.

"Knuepfer will make a serious attempt to find out how to amend the bill to satisfy the legitimate concern of the people while preserving the heart and thrust of the bill," says State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, House sponsor of the bill.

"We hoped to pass the bill in the senate, but we just couldn't do it," Schlickman said.

TUESDAY, A busload of approximately 33 people from the incorporated area, lead by Mrs. Marie Caylor, arrived in Springfield to protest the bill before the Senate Municipal Corporations committee.

Besides residents of unincorporated areas, other opponents of the bill included a representative of Baxter Laboratories, speaking on behalf of the company, and also the Illinois Manufacturers Association of Lake County.

Other opponents were Troy Kost, executive secretary of the Township Officials of Illinois, Leyden Township officials, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, and the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

"I think the committee considered the opposition to the bill quite strong," Mrs. Caylor said.

MRS. CAYLOR SAYS committee chairman, Arthur Swanson, and committee members Arthur Bidwell, Bernard Neistein, and 13th Dist. Sen. John Graham, all said "they had never received so many letters of opposition to a bill as this."

The group, lead by Mrs. Caylor, delivered a petition signed by 5,916 people opposing the bill to Senators Russell Arrington and Graham.

She says signatures were obtained from 114 different communities in the northern section of Illinois.

"This included people in municipalities whom we felt were being disenfranchised by the bill," Mrs. Caylor told the Herald.

THE BUS CARRYING opponents of the bill left from Randhurst Shopping Center Tuesday at 10 a.m. and arrived in Springfield at 2 p.m. They spoke against the bill and left Springfield that evening.

"We were unaware until we got there that the committee would listen only to opponents of the bill yesterday," Mrs. Caylor said Wednesday. "We wanted to be there to hear proponents. We had expected the Senate committee's report to be heard."

Schlickman, who no longer has active control of the bill because it has gone to the senate, under Knuepfer's direction, says he met agreeably with the bill opponents.

SCHLICKMAN STILL expects passage of the bill after the summer cooling-off period.

When asked about the effects of the bill on his candidacy for the 13th Dist. House of Representatives seat, Schlickman said:

"I hope my stand will never be related to the candidacy. My record is my total approach used toward legislation. That is the thing to be considered."

Sherry Mueller . . . tour guide in U.S.S.R.

Sherry to Russia

by SHERI DILL

The realization of a six-year ambition begins today for 25-year-old Sherry Mueller of Ontarioville when she leaves for a trip to the Soviet Union as a guide for 11 college students.

Guiding for the Experiment in International Living has been her goal since 1963, when she spent a summer in Germany under the guidance of the Experiment.

Miss Mueller is studying for her doctorate in international relations at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University in Medford, Mass., during the winter months.

This summer will be her third trip to the Soviet Union after going there in 1965 with a travel study group from American University in Washington, D. C., where she earned her B.A. and in 1967 as a student on an Experiment tour.

The Experiment in International Living was started in 1932 to further international understanding by having students live in foreign countries "as the natives do." Foreign students also visit the United States under the same plan.

THE MAJOR FEATURE of the trips is allowing visitors to live in foreign homes for a month before touring the country. This is not possible on Russian trips, however, because many Russian families cannot afford it, Miss Mueller said.

Instead, the students spend a month at the Kiev Medical Institute sports camp, where Russians vacation. Only one trip per summer to the Soviet Union is allowed, while other countries may have as many as 20 different groups.

The Experiment is restricted to college students who must have at least two years' study in the language of the country they will visit. About one-fourth of those who apply are accepted, Miss Mueller said.

She will travel first to the Experiment headquarters in Putney, Vt., for several days of training for tour leaders. The students will arrive Sunday in Putney, where they will undergo six hours of language training and tutoring in Russian history and affairs before the July 1 departure.

They will fly to Brussels, take a train to the sports camp for a month and then tour the major cities.

Miss Mueller described the Russians as a "very curious people. It's not difficult to meet them if you have the language. They can tell you are foreign by the way you dress and are very anxious to talk to you."

THE PEOPLE ARE always surprised to discover the students are from the United States, Sherry said. Few Americans can speak Russian, although Europeans usually can.

As an example of Russian curiosity, Sherry described an incident in which she got into a car thinking it was a taxi. "After driving for a half-hour, I found out it wasn't a taxi at all, but someone who picked me up just wanting to talk to a foreign visitor."

"The Russians are basically a happy people" she said. "Their life is much better."

Open Dist. 54 Project Bids

Low bidder for construction of a central structure joining four relocatable classrooms for a Dist. 54 administrative center is William Kuhlmann Construction Co. with a bid of $25,679.

Five firms submitted bids for the project. The low bidder is expected to be awarded a contract at the June 19 Dist. 54 board meeting. Bids were opened Tuesday.

Road Study Is Approved

A preliminary engineering study for the rebuilding of Plum Grove Road north of Golf Road in Schaumburg will be done by Suhr, Peterson, Peterson and Suhr, consultant engineers.

The village board Tuesday approved a resolution to use $3,000 in Motor Fuel Tax funds for the project.

The village will not rebuild the road, but when someone develops in the area, they will follow the plan, Edwin Denman, public works director, said.

The road will probably be widened to 24 feet. Estimated cost of the rebuilding is $30,000 or more.

"We have to do something about that road. It was a county road, but when the (Northwest) Tollway went in, Plum Grove wasn't continued over the Tollway. Now the county says it belongs to Schaumburg," Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

The Arthur Rubloff Schaumburg Industrial Park, soon to be developed, is adjacent to Plum Grove Road.

YWCA Will Hold Preschool Class

Tiny Tot classes for children in the Bartlett area will be held in the Immanuel United Church of Christ, 415 W. North Avenue beginning Sept. 17.

Sponsored by the Elgin Young Women's Christian Association, the sessions are open to boys and girls who will be four years of age by December 1969. They have had a physical examination within four months prior to enrollment and have received polio and measles shots.

THIS STATE LICENSED program combines play and learning experiences as the child develops social awareness through contact with his peers.

Classes are held each Wednesday from 9 to 11 a.m. and 12 to 2:30 p.m.

Children may register for either single or double sessions. Registrations will be accepted after July 1.

Additional information can be obtained by phoning the YW at 742-7300.

Lanz is Recognized

Arlington Heights Toastmasters Club recently announced that one of its members, Robert Lanz of Hoffman Estates, has been named Outstanding Toastmaster of the Year for the Chicago area.

Lanz was chosen from a group of more than 1,500 Toastmasters who belong to 64 different clubs. He is currently an assistant area governor for six northwest clubs with members in Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates and Streamwood.

Toastmaster Clubs are organized to help businessmen improve their public speaking ability and to develop leadership and executive potential.

Other construction bids were: Slezak Construction Co., $26,328; Meyer-Koss Inc., $27,300; Sundone Construction Co., $29,400; and P. J. Vesceky Builders, $31,100.

THE CENTRAL CORE unit joining the four relocatables together will be about 150 square feet. Together with the four relocatables, this will provide 6,650 square feet for school administrators three times as much room as Dist. 54 now has available.

The proposed administrative center will be located at the Helen Keller School site. At present administrative offices are in a model home at 103 Audubon Place in Hoffman Estates.

The four relocatable units for the administrative center were purchased for $10,000 each from Harper Junior College. They are scheduled to be moved to the Helen Keller site this summer.

Valley Lake Project OK'd

A planned unit development, to be known as Valley Lake, that will include 1,600 apartment units was approved by the Schaumburg Village Board Tuesday.

The planned development zoning was approved for about 70 acres formerly owned by Jack Slattery and known as National Landscaping Co. The developer is the Walter Zaremba Co. of Cleveland, Ohio. The property fronts Golf and Roselle roads.

Included in the zoning ordinance is the stipulation that 12 acres on the northwest corner of the tract near Pierce Road be donated to School Dist. 54. Tuesday, Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne Schaible said the district won't develop the school site for at least two years.

The development will be built over a four-year period, with a quarter of the units built each year.

THE BUILDINGS will vary in height with the lowest ones, four-story, built closest to the residential area of Hoffman Estates. The units will have 1.5 parking spaces each, with most of the parking above ground.

Less than 8 per cent of the units will have three bedrooms. Recreation facilities will be included in the development.

This will be the Zaremba firm's first project in the Chicago area. The company has built multiple-family units since the 1950s in Ohio, New York and Indiana.

NEA In Politics

In one more year, teachers in United States will have a political arm to lean on.

Dr. Donald Thomas, superintendent of School Dist. 59, told members of the Elk Grove Township Democratic organization that the National Education Association (NEA) will develop a political action arm and back candidates for office. Thomas, a director of the NEA, is part of a task force aimed at developing political action groups. Thomas told Elk Grove Democrats that his job on the task force is to develop the organization of a political arm of the NEA.

A recent three-day session in Washington, D.C., led NEA directors to follow guide lines already established by political arms of the AFL-CIO and the American Medical Association.

"TEACHERS HAVE never been effective on a national political scene. We feel it is time that a political arm be available to back candidates to support our goals," Thomas said.

The superintendent said money for the political group would be solicited from teachers across the country. The action group cannot be legally tied to the NEA as a professional organization. But NEA will control teacher's in politics through a board of directors. Thomas explained that teachers' although public employees, are exempt from the Hatch Act and so can participate politically.

"There are one million teachers not affiliated with any teachers organization," Thomas said. "Imagine what would have happened if those one million teachers had each donated one dollar and one million dollars would have gone in support of Hubert Humphrey."

Thomas told local Democrats that organized teachers could have made Hubert Humphrey president.

The political action group of the NEA will engage in politics at the national level. Its organization will also be available to some local candidates on an individual basis. To date, the organization will consist of a director and four lobbyists and a nationwide membership.

Thomas said the political action move may be approved by NEA directors at the Philadelphia convention this summer.

At the local level an organization such as the Illinois Citizens Committee, would be changed to a political action group by next year. The Illinois Citizens Committee has as one of its most active members Robert Haskell, principal of Elk Grove High School.

Plan New Fire Station

Schaumburg's second fire station may be patterned after one built in Mount Prospect at the corner of Golf and Busse roads.

Schaumburg plans to build a second station near Meacham and Golf roads, close to the industrial-shopping-apartment complexes.

Trustee Raymond Kessell, chairman of the fire study committee, said Tuesday that the Mount Prospect fire station is very close to what the committee wants built in Schaumburg.

He said the Mount Prospect station was

Puppet Shows Will Begin

The first in a series of summer puppet shows will be a "Fairy Tale Festival" on June 21 in the Schaumburg Township Public Library.

Miss Sally Dietzler, a Conant High son, a sophomore at Conant, will enact and Sleeping Beauty assisted by Mrs. Jo Monson of the Library's Children's Department and Sleeping Beauty assisted by Mrs. JO SHOWS WILL BE at 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. on June 21, July 5, July 19, Aug. 2 School graduate, and Miss Jennifer Ferguson Aug. 16. There is no charge, but children must obtain a ticket at the children's desk of the library. Tickets will be given only to children as space does not permit invitation of adults, Children's Librarian Mrs. Noreen Brandt said.

Meyer Resigns Trustee Post

Schaumburg Trustee Wilfred Meyer submitted his official resignation from the village board Tuesday. The letter asked that the resignation be effective June 20.

Meyer stated he was resigning "with great reluctance," and added that the "brief tenure brought me great satisfaction."

Meyer notified the board last month that a job transfer necessitated his resignation. He was elected to a four-year term in April.

Meyer and his family live in Timbercrest. He has been active in the Timbercrest Homeowners Association, Pathfinder District Boy Scouts and Schaumburg Township Republican Organization.

built with matching funds and has a shelter and Civil Defense office. If Schaumburg included Civil Defense space and shelter in the proposed station, the village would save about $95,000, Kessell said.

ROBERT CIMER, CD director, said approval of matching fund applications usually takes three to six months.

The village's only fire station is on Schaumburg Road in the Weathersfield subdivision. The village is served by a force of 30 volunteer firemen, although a full-time chief will be hired soon.

The Schaumburg State Bank has offered to finance the station and equipment.

Have Auto Burial Place

Schaumburg has found a place to dump abandoned cars, Police Chief Martin Conroy told trustees Tuesday.

He said the city of Elgin has a wrecking company that will accept the abandoned cars and will hold them until they are processed by law. The wrecking charge will

Plan to Lease Buttery Space

Schaumburg Township officials are planning to lease additional office space in The Buttery on Roselle Road. At present the township has a one-room office there.

Present plans are that the township will use office space in The Buttery while efforts continue to obtain legislation permitting the construction of a township administrative building. Enabling legislation has been stalled in the Illinois House.

Additional office space is needed to accommodate the township collector and assessor, according to Township Clerk Mrs. Kay Wojcik. The present collector, Albert Hartmann, has maintained his office in his home. Hartmann's term expires Dec. 31. Ralph Lysteria succeeds him.

ROBERT ROSS, owner of The Buttery, is planning to build an addition which will provide more office facilities. Construction will begin this summer. Township officials are contemplating the leasing of three office units.

The township presently pays $160 a month rent for its office in The Buttery, which is staffed by the township clerk and a part time employee.

Tax on Gasoline

Hoffman Estates officials intend to express their disapproval of pending legislation which they consider potentially detrimental to the village through letters being sent to local legislators and Gov. Richard Ogilvie this week.

In line with a recommendation made by Trustee Edward J. Hennessy, the village board agreed to oppose legislation designed to increase gasoline tax an additional two cents to provide revenue with which to subsidize the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA).

Board members will also advise legislators of their disapproval of proposed Motor Fuel Tax (MFT) revisions.

2 Appointments Approved

One appointment for the zoning board of appeals and one for the plans commission was approved by the Schaumburg Village Board Tuesday.

Both boards still have a vacancy each.

Ronald J. Shields, a Weathersfield resident, was appointed to the zoning board. Mayor Robert O. Atcher said this is Shields' first public appointment, but added that Shields is a frequent spectator at all types of public meetings.

SHIELDS is a claims adjuster for Economy Fire Insurance, a division of Kemper Insurance.

Harry Mamach, also a Weathersfield resident, was appointed to the plans commission. Mamach has been active in the defunct Weathersfield Homeowners Association and was an unsuccessful candidate for the School Dist. 54 board in April.

Mamach is employed as an efficiency expert.

ter than it was 50 years ago and they can see the difference. They don't realize the gap between their life and ours."

The Russian standard of living is low and clothing and food are expensive for the average family, Sherry said. "Cars are beyond the realm of the average person. I remember drawing a diagram of the apartment I lived in while I was at school for some people I met at the beach. It was almost beyond their comprehension that two college students would be living in a four-room apartment."

"Russia is much like the United States in its diversity of climate and people," she said. "They live a closed life, however. They never get both sides of the story, only what Pravda and the national television system put out. They seem to see everyone in white or black hats, not the gray that most Americans see."

Candidate Interviews

Hoffman Estates trustees will begin interviewing candidates for appointment to the planning, zoning, and zoning board of appeals June 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall.

According to Pres. Frederick E. Downey, 23 letters were mailed to prospective applicants this week accompanied by a resume form for completion and immediate return.

RECOMMENDATIONS regarding each of the three appointed groups will be discussed by Downey during Monday's village board meeting.

Trustees are expected to act rapidly in appointing members to these three arms of the village government since the prior planning and zoning board resigned en masse June 15.

Gain Delay of HB 1241

by MARY DRESSER

As a result of extensive pressure from unincorporated areas, House Bill 1241 will be held up in the Senate to await further consideration this fall.

HB 1241 set up the mechanics to allow municipalities to annex contiguous unincorporated areas by ordinance.

Property owners in unincorporated sections of Prospect Heights, Palatine, and Elk Grove, have been loud in their objections to HB 1241, contending the bill restricts their right to control the destiny of their own areas.

Opponents of the bill testified against it Tuesday.

Testimony for the bill was heard yesterday, but all indications are the Senate will ask for more time to consider the problem.

THE BILL WILL be referred to a senate subcommittee which will submit a final report to the senate committee in fall.

Meanwhile, the senate bill sponsor, Sen. Jack Kneuper R-Elmhurst, will devote part of his summer to drafting an amendment to the bill that will satisfy irate property owners in unincorporated areas.

"Kneuper will make a serious attempt to find out how to amend the bill to satisfy the legitimate concern of the people while preserving the heart and thrust of the bill," says State Rep. Eugene Schlickman,

House sponsor of the bill.

"We hoped to pass the bill in the senate, but we just couldn't do it" Schlickman said.

TUESDAY, A busload of approximately 33 people from the incorporated area, led by Mrs. Marie Caylor, arrived in Springfield to protest the bill before the Senate Municipal Corporations committee.

Besides residents of unincorporated areas, other opponents of the bill included a representative of Baxter Laboratories, speaking on behalf of the company, and also the Illinois Manufacturers Association of Lake County.

Other opponents were Troy Kost, executive secretary of the Township Officials of Illinois, Leyden Township officials, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, and the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

"I think the committee considered the opposition to the bill quite strong," Mrs. Caylor said.

MRS. CAYLOR SAYS committee chairman, Arthur Swanson, and committee members Arthur Bidwell, Bernard Neistein, and 13th Dist. Sen. John Graham, all said "they had never received so many letters of opposition to a bill as this."

The group, led by Mrs. Caylor, delivered a petition signed by 5,916 people opposing the bill to Senators Russell Arrington and Graham.

She says signatures were obtained from 114 different communities in the northern section of Illinois.

"This included people in municipalities whom we felt were being disenfranchised by the bill," Mrs. Caylor told the Herald.

THE BUS CARRYING opponents of the bill left from Randhurst Shopping Center Tuesday at 10 a.m. and arrived in Springfield at 2 p.m. They spoke against the bill and left Springfield that evening.

"We were unaware until we got there that the committee would listen only to opponents of the bill yesterday," Mrs. Caylor said Wednesday. "We wanted to be there to hear proponents. We had expected the Senate committee's report to be heard."

Schlickman, who no longer has active control of the bill because it has gone to the senate, under Kneuper's direction, says he met agreeably with the bill opponents.

SCHLICKMAN STILL expects passage of the bill after the summer cooling-off period.

When asked about the effects of the bill on his candidacy for the 13th Dist. House of Representatives seat, Schlickman said:

"I hope my stand will never be related to the candidacy. My record is my total approach used toward legislation. That is the thing to be considered."

Housing Resurrected

SPRINGFIELD — The open housing fight was resurrected yesterday in the Senate when the Republican majority voted 26-2 to send a series of bills to the committee most likely to kill them.

After an hour of debate, the measures which already passed the House were sent to the Registration and Miscellaneous Committee — perennial graveyard for such bills.

No Wage-Price Control

WASHINGTON — President Nixon will confer at 9 a.m. today with members of the House to consider alternative proposals to curb inflation if Congress does not extend the 10 per cent surtax, which appears will be the case.

It is believed that proposals under consideration are wage and price controls, although nothing is definite.

U.S. Is Back In Favor

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — After six years Cambodia has resumed diplomatic relations with the United States.

However, along with the agreement, the Cambodian government has demanded $8.6 million in reparations for damages caused by American planes using defuncts to search for Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

North Viets Repelled

SAIGON — About 100 North Vietnamese troops broke through the outer perimeter of a U.S. Army artillery base briefly yesterday and were driven out after the defenders lowered their artillery pieces to ground level and fired point-blank.

Fourteen Americans were killed, while the enemy lost at least 27 in the action at the 196th Infantry Brigade Artillery base, 340 miles north-northeast of Saigon, U.S. spokesmen said.

Peking, Soviets Clash

HONG KONG — Peking claimed yesterday Soviet troops provoked a border clash Tuesday and sent an armored column knifing into Communist China near the Lop Nor missile testing site, but the Russian version of the incident put the blame on the Chinese.

Red China, claiming that the Russians probed near one of her major oil fields, filed a protest with the Soviet embassy in Peking, and the Soviet foreign ministry delivered a note rejecting the Chinese protest.

Policemen Acquitted

CHICAGO — A federal court jury yesterday found three Chicago policemen innocent in the beating of a newsman during the Democratic National Convention week disorders.

The jury acquitted the trio on the charge that they deprived a Chicago Daily News reporter of his civil rights by beating him. U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry said he was "in harmony" with the jury's decision.

Primary Bill In House

SPRINGFIELD — A Senate bill to move Illinois' primary date from the second Tuesday in June to the second Tuesday in April was sent to the House floor yesterday on a 17-3 vote.

The House Elections Committee recommended the House pass the measure. However, the full House already has turned down a House bill to do the same thing.

Horcher on Board's Carpet

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher has been ordered to appear at Monday night's workshop session of the village board to explain his voiding of a ticket issued under the town's ordinance.

Last Monday the board began discussion of a three-page report by Horcher on the incident. The chief had refused to write a report on the ticket until ordered to do so by the board.

Discussion by the board moved from the chief's actions in voiding the trailer ticket to a wider subject, the chief's prerogative to void tickets at all.

NO DECISION on the matter was reached Monday. Hart tried to push through a motion declaring the chief had no authority to void tickets, but the motion was tabled. The board plans to consider the matter again next Monday.

Scanlon and Hart clashed during the meeting, both on the specific ticket-voiding incident and on the general topic of whether or not a chief can void tickets at all.

Basing his statements on a report from Village Atty. Paul Hamer, Hart told Scanlon repeatedly, "The police chief doesn't have the right to question the legality of an ordinance; he has no right to void tickets."

Cause of the controversy was a ticket written by a Wheeling patrolman for D. Wray Peal for having a recreational trailer parked in his driveway.

Horcher in his written report, indicated the ticket was voided after discussions among himself, Scanlon and C. E. Olsen, then village manager. Fines for the violation Peal was accused of range from $2 to $5.

Scanlon told Hart the trailer ordinance was under study at the time the ticket was issued. Police have to use "common sense" in enforcement, Scanlon said.

REFERRING to his time as a police magistrate, the village president told Hart, "In the 23,000-some cases I sat and judged in a courtroom, I learned that a judge compliments a police department when it can avoid a trivial thing."

Horcher's report said the three had learned that there were over 80 trailers in the village and "continued enforcement without further consideration by the board would have an adverse effect on the community."

Currently an ordinance prohibits trailers from being parked or stored within the village limits.

The chief set up a time period with Peal for loading and unloading the trailer, his report indicated.

"As to who specifically suggested that the citation be dismissed if the requirements and requests were met, I don't recall. I assume full responsibility for the action taken. The decision was concurred with by the three of us," Horcher is reported to have said.

Throughout the meeting, Scanlon defended the chief's stand, but Hart stuck to his original statement that the chief shouldn't have the prerogative to void a ticket.

HAMER HAD reported to the board that he was unable to locate either in the Wheeling Municipal Code or the Illinois Municipal Code any statutory authority which would allow the chief to void a village ordinance complaint.

Hart said a report from the police chief showing the enforcement of similar ordinances in other villages was completely irrelevant to the ticket-voiding issue.

"He (the chief) shouldn't set himself up as an attorney," Hart said emphasizing that voiding tickets based on citizen complaints is not at Horcher's discretion.

"I don't think the village should be singled out over other villages for putting our chief in a position others don't," Scanlon said about prohibiting the chief from using discretion.

Trustee Peter Egan reminded the village president, "We have an ordinance on the books, Mr. Scanlon, that says 'no trailers'."

Horcher, in his report, said the existing ordinance was written to prevent a trailer camp or to keep families from living in trailers within the village limits. He also reminded the board that the village manager had told the police that any new form of enforcement or any specific increase in enforcement of ordinances would not take place without specific identified intents and policy statements by the corporate authorities.

To Draw Ordinance

Wheeling Village Atty. Paul Hamer was directed to prepare an ordinance upgrading zoning on property at Strong and Milwaukee Avenues Monday.

The ordinance will affect the unoccupied gas station and antique store at the northwest corner of the intersection.

The final draft of the ordinance will come up for consideration by the village board at a later meeting.

Demo Candidacy to Warman?

Three Democrat committeemen in the four-township area insisted Wednesday their candidate for 13th District congressman remains a question.

A reliable news source Tuesday night said Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie is a unanimous pick among the district's eight committeemen. None of the four area committeemen were at home Tuesday night for comment.

Following a Sunday screening session, the committeemen were to go back to their organizations for direction on selecting a candidate. Another meeting was set for June 19 for committeemen to decide their candidates.

Board Will Receive Sex Education Ideas

Recommendations from the Citizens Review Committee on the family living and sex education program in Dist. 21 schools will be presented to the board of education at its meeting tonight. The school board will meet at 8:15 p.m. in the board room of the administrative center, 999 W. Dundee Road.

Robert Hopkins, president of the Concerned Parents Committee protesting the teaching of sex education in the district schools, is also scheduled to address the board.

SUPT. KENNETH GILL will present his policy recommendations for the district at the meeting, and Dist. 21 teacher Miss Marjorie Beu, is scheduled to present a recommendation that the district adopt the Contra-Conta method of teaching social studies in the schools.

This program was developed by the late Hilda Tabo of San Francisco State College and is presently being used in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 schools.

The Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization met Tuesday night. Democrats in Palatine Township were to meet last night and Schaumburg Township is meeting Friday night.

James McCabe, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said his organization had authorized him to select a candidate even before initial screening began. McCabe said he knows who he will vote for, but will wait until the June 19 meeting to disclose his decision.

PETE GERLING, Palatine Township Democratic committeeman, said he has the field of 10 candidates narrowed down to "three or four." He specifically cited his preferences as Warman, Raymond S. True of Roselle and Milton Rakove, a political science professor. He said his party's executive board is also familiar with these candidates.

Elk Grove Township Democrat Committee member Chester Chesney said his group is leaving the choice up to him. He favors two men — Warman and Rakove.

The Schaumburg township organization could not be reached for comment.

According to party leaders at the May 26 screening session, the question of a Democrat primary fight would depend on whether committeemen can agree on one candidate. Chesney said Wednesday he believes the committeemen will resolve the selection to only one man because there is little time and money and only six months before the next April election.

THE ELK GROVE Township Committee said his fellow party leaders wanted an open primary but the regular organization wanted "to save all its ammunition for the general election."

"All organizations in the district are quite low on funds," Chesney said. "There are not as many fat cats when you're out of power as when you're in."

New Trier Township Committeeman Lynn Williams said Tuesday night that there is, among committeemen, "general indication of a favorable attitude toward Warman."

Williams also insisted, though, the question of a candidate and primary race is still open.

According to Williams, Warman's views on issues show: opposition to the Vietnam war to the point of unilateral withdrawal, if necessary, and opposition to excessive military spending and the ABM.

Warman blamed excessive military spending for inflation by pouring billions into the economy without putting any counterpart goods or services into the market to be bought with the money distributed, according to Williams.

"He also pointed out his record of independent voting in the state legislature and indicated his freedom of domination by machine politics," Williams said.

THE MAVERICK New Trier Democrat agreed with an analysis Warman is "not a Daley Democrat."

"It seemed to me that the positions he stated are very similar to those of Sen. Kennedy and Sen. McGovern."

Warman, 42, an attorney, is in his third term in the Illinois legislature, representing the 4th District. He serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees. He was named one of the best freshman legislators for his work in 1965 and 1966.

In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislators' award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

Plan Action Against Dam

William B. Frazier's controversial dam lying just behind Buffalo Grove's Cambridge subdivision might become the victim of a restraining order. Village Pres. Donald Thompson disclosed Monday the village is considering seeking a restraining order to force Frazier to remove his dam. Frazier's dam stops Cambridge storm drainage water from flowing across his property. In doing so, however, the dam forces water to back up into University Drive in Cambridge.

Because of his dam, Frazier is the defendant in a suit filed by Richard Brown, developer of the subdivision, and three University Drive homeowners.

THOMPSON INDICATED at the village board meeting Monday that if negotiations on the Cambridge problem remain unsettled at tomorrow's pretrial meeting, the village would seek a restraining order against Frazier.

Thompson said that Richard Rysa, village attorney, had requested pictures of Cambridge flooding. However, Thompson did not say whether or not the pictures would be used in procuring the restraining order.

Students Take Trip

Third and fourth graders at Walt Whitman Elementary School toured O'Hare and Milwaukee Airports recently in connection with their social studies and science programs.

Whitman teachers Mrs. Madge White and Mrs. Charlene Yount and eight mothers guided 52 students on a tour through the weather bureau and customs department at O'Hare.

At Milwaukee all were made honorary air traffic controllers.

NEA In Politics

In one more year, teachers in United States will have a political arm to lean on. Dr. Donald Thomas, superintendent of School Dist. 59, told members of the Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization that the National Education Association (NEA) will develop a political action arm and back candidates for office. Thomas, a director of the NEA, is part of a task force aimed at developing political action groups. Thomas told Elk Grove Democrats that his job on the task force is to develop the organization of a political arm of the NEA.

A recent three-day session in Washington, D.C., led NEA directors to follow guide lines already established by political arms of the AFL-CIO and the American Medical Association.

"TEACHERS HAVE never been effective on a national political scene. We feel it is time that a political arm be available to back candidates to support our goals," Thomas said.

The superintendent said money for the political group would be solicited from teachers across the country. The action group cannot be legally tied to the NEA as a professional organization. But NEA will control teachers' in politics through a board of directors. Thomas explained that teachers' although public employees, are exempt from the Hatch Act and so can participate politically.

"There are one million teachers not affiliated with any teachers organization," Thomas said. "Imagine what would have happened if those one million teachers had each donated one dollar and one million dollars would have gone in support of Hubert Humphrey."

Thomas told local Democrats that organized teachers could have made Hubert Humphrey president.

The political action group of the NEA will engage in politics at the national level. Its organization will also be available to some local candidates on an individual basis. To date, the organization will consist of a director and four lobbyists and a nationwide membership.

Thomas said the political action move may be approved by NEA directors at the Philadelphia convention this summer.

At the local level an organization such as the Illinois Citizens Committee, would be changed to a political action group by next year. The Illinois Citizens Committee has as one of its most active members Robert Haskell, principal of Elk Grove High School.

Thomas said teachers helped to elect local State representative Eugene Chapman. Teachers helped elect a new governor in Utah and teachers are just starting to get their candidates elected.

Delay Trailer Law Session

Discussion of Wheeling's trailer ordinance was postponed at Monday's village board session. The board gave no date as to when discussion on the ordinance would be held.

The board directed the village attorney to prepare a rough draft of the ordinance which would allow recreational vehicles in the village. The draft will be based on recommendations from the village's zoning board.

THE PROPOSED ordinance would allow recreational trailers and boats to be parked on village streets for 48-hour periods. Smaller trailers could be kept in backyards, with screening while larger ones would have to be enclosed in a building.

High Praise for Policemen

A Wheeling resident has praised the village's police department for "protection to the full degree" in a letter to Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon.

In her letter, Mrs. Pat Carpenter of 501 McHenry Road, said, "Living in what you might call the rural area of Wheeling, but still within the village limits, you wonder sometimes if you have the same police protection the people in the center of town have."

Mrs. Carpenter told Scanlon that about 7:30 p.m. June 7 she had heard someone come up on her porch. Because her husband was not home, she called Wheeling Police, asking them to come circle her car.

"A MINUTE CAN be an eternity at a time like that, but it wasn't more than three minutes when I heard a noise in the back, only to look out and see it was the police," her letter said.

"They were not merely pulling through, but checking thoroughly all around the house. I could have cried from relief to see them. At the same time my neighbor wanted to know what was happening, and that someone had broken their window apparently trying to get into their house," Mrs. Carpenter wrote.

"ABOUT 20 MINUTES later one of our fine young officers came to the door to tell me they had caught the man — again relief. Sometime later my husband arrived home, and not two minutes after he pulled in the yard, a squad car pulled through our yard, apparently checking to make sure it was the right man in the right house," she said.

She concluded her letter to Scanlon saying that "My hat is off to these great bunch of guys that take care of us by day and especially the scary hours of the night. I am really proud of them and can't thank them enough."

SCANLON READ the letter at Monday's board meeting saying that he and the village trustees also felt this way about the police department.

Police Chief M. O. Horcher told the Herald the officers who answered Mrs. Carpenter's call were Sgt. John Hermes, Officer Bert Kaminsky, and Officer William Hoos.

Driver Is Charged With Recklessness

An Arlington Heights man was charged with reckless driving after his car struck several trees and houses Sunday evening on the north and south sides of Merle Lane in Wheeling, according to Wheeling Police.

Mitchell Roberts, 23, of 2315 E. Olive St., an employee of Ritzenthaler Bus Lines, was traveling north on Merle when his car left the road and hit trees by 608 and 600 Merle.

His car then crossed the street, hit the corner of the house at 583 Merle, bounced off the west side of the house at 587 Merle, and hit the garage.

DAMAGES TO THE garage and to the car in the garage have not been estimated, according to Mrs. George Chohanian, owner of the property.

Roberts' car traveled 261 feet from the point where it first left the road to the garage where it came to rest. Damage to Roberts' car was estimated at $600.

Roberts will appear July 8 in Arlington Heights District Court.

Kids At TMH Center Cook Up Tacos

by SUE CARSON

Whipping up culinary delights such as tacos and pizza is just one of the projects undertaken in the last year by the children in the Trainable Mentally Handicapped (TMH) program sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO).

A group of 40 youngsters, ranging in age from 5 to 13, attend classes five days a week on the top floor of the Prospect Heights Community Church. Classroom space has been provided by School Dist. 23. The TMH program is open to children living within the boundaries of high school districts 211 and 214.

"We're attempting to teach these children to get along in group situations and freely contribute their ideas and suggestions as valuable members of the class," said Mrs. Candy O'Gorman, one of the four special education teachers in the program.

SHE EXPLAINED THAT trainable mentally handicapped children can be taught to perform simple jobs such as janitorial or assembly line work in factories, but cannot take care of themselves.

"At the TMH Center, they learn to interact and make friends with other TMH children of their age," she said.

The children are divided by age into four classes: Songs, art lessons and educational games, such as teaching them to recognize and understand safety signs, are other aspects of the program. They also take short field trips, including a recent excursion to a local shopping center.

"But the cooking sessions are the most popular. All kids love to eat!" declared Mrs. O'Gorman.

A professional speech therapist works part time with the children to improve their speech and coordination.

Mrs. O'Gorman feels that the program is important for the TMH children. "They are generally excellent at working with their hands and will perform routine tasks without complaining. Nevertheless, they must learn to get along with others in society to be useful citizens, and we in the program are trying to help them learn to do this."

"They're a warm friendly group, and seem to make friends easily, perhaps because they can relate to their classmates with little difficulty, whereas they might feel strange in an average classroom situation," she added.

MRS. O'GORMAN SAID the TMH program has received enthusiastic support from parents. A new group, PATHS (Parents and Teachers of Handicapped Students) has been formed recently to support the program and act as a liaison organization between the parents and instructors.

In addition to the 40 students attending classes at the Prospect Heights church, 12 additional TMH children have classes at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect. Next fall the group will be consolidated, and have classes at the new Dwight D. Eisenhower Junior High School,

Present Field Day Awards

Award ribbons for the first Field Days at Edgar Allen Poe School in Arlington Heights were presented at a special awards assembly by Poe principal Donald Christ.

Receiving first place ribbons for shot put and the sixth grade 50-yard dash was Barry Schuster. Other dash winners were Marietta Chaney, sixth grade; Dough Nalrass and Kathy Dobbe, fifth grade; Janice Thompson and Tom Claeys, fourth grade.

In the 75-yard dash Dan McCotter and Cathy Vorreyer own firsts with Mike Fleming and Barbara Warner winning second. In fifth grade, Dave Castella and Cathy Zaring, first; Jim Weidner and Josephine Sacco, second. Fourth grade, Ray Langel and Jim Brendel received first and second.

IN THE HIGH JUMP, Eric Claeys and Doris Wiedner won first in the sixth grade; Jim Weidner and Cathy Zaring, first in fifth grade and Hal Livermore and Kyle Bower won first in fourth grade.

First place tug-of-war winners from sixth grade were Howard Yundt, Kelly Bauer and Ron Martin; girls, Anne Fritchie, Karen LaBrie and Susan Fischer. Fifth grade, Tim McGovern, Terry Roberts and Mark Engelthaler; girls, Cathy Zaring, Carol Perley, Nancy Keys and Nancy Lendenbach. Fourth grade, Ray Langel, Tim Martineau, Don Wilke, Tom Rogers and Guy Gorius; girls, Kyle Bower, Diane Tieberg, Carol Gilbert and Donna Keesling.

IN THE 30-YARD shuttle relay, team winners were: fourth grade, George Oslovich, Greg Lathan, Kirk Wylie and Kevin Richardson; girls, Denise Dunn, Cathy Miller, Sue Jordan and Cathy McRaynolds. Fifth grade, Mark Karalus, Dave Knee, Shawn Allen, Dave Castella; now under construction in Dist. 23. A new TMH Center in Palatine, scheduled to open in 1970, will provide instructional facilities for 300 children from the ages of 5 to 21.

Mrs. Velma Morton of the NSSEO, consultant to the TMH program, said the new center will enable her organization to provide more complete services than is currently the case.

"Right now, the children must go to a private school, such as the Clearbrook Center for the Retarded in Rolling Meadows or the Countryside Center for the Handicapped in Palatine after they reach the age of 14," Mrs. Morton explained.

"While these centers have done an excellent job, the new TMH center will enable school districts in the NSSEO to provide these services themselves," she concluded.

girls, Karen Hoeck, Pam Koif, Debbie Jensen and Chris Kile. Sixth grade, Marietta Chaney, Valerie Koif, Patty Hayes and Luanne Brendel; boys, Tom Litman, George Coe, Doug Jayes and Dan Clark.

The sixth graders held a 75-yard shuttle relay with the team of Barry Schuster, Mark Nicklas, Steve Wellbank and John

Mike Borst, Janine Valenza, Barbara Falk, Bob Wargo and Diana Loyal were among fellow graduates of St. Joseph the Worker who went to Springfield on May 28. During their 18-hour trip, they saw New Salem, Lincoln's tomb and home, and the restored Sangamon county court house. Touring the capitol building, they witnessed the House of Representatives in session, and met one of their representatives, Mrs. Eugenia Chapman.

ON MAY 28, Stephanie Borst was one of the adults accompanying Suzanne and seven friends on a day-long outing. The young ladies were first treated to a hair styling in Des Plaines. Following lunch at the Seven Eagles, they attended the matinee performance of the "Student Prince," starring Peter Palmer, at Mill Run Playhouse.

On the 27th, Linda Borst was fêted at a family dinner celebration of her 11th birthday. That evening she took part in the May crowning procession at St. Joseph the worker.

Terry and Ray Elzer, with Donna, Mike and Eileen, 428 S. Park, tried camping again this weekend. This time in the house trailer of Lois and Andy Macchia at Lake Wisconsin. Though the rains came, the two families were snug inside for the holiday.

RAY ELZER WAS honored at a family dinner for his May 29th birthday. Wishing him well were his parents, the William Elzers, mother-in-law Mrs. Elizabeth Goggin, brother-in-law, Jerry Goggin, and aunts, Margaret Nyquist and Frances Ryan.

Five-year-old Patrick Wargo, 401 S. Wolf Road, continues his recuperation at home after a four-day stay in Holy Family Hospital. The son of Alice and Bob Wargo was injured in a fall in his home.

Meadowbrook Lane welcomes Nick and Pat Marshall, and son, Joey, new residents of 408. The move was a short one, from 117 Deborah Lane.

Sympathy is extended to Robie Johanson and her family on the recent death of her father, Mr. Adolph Bartels of Buffalo Grove.

700 To Graduate at Wheeling

Approximately 700 seniors will receive their diplomas at the fourth Wheeling High School commencement at 8 p.m., today, at the WHS football field. In the event of rain, the occasion will be observed in the gymnasium.

The three commencement speakers, all seniors, Melody Peterson, James Martin, and Tony Stavros, will speak on their feelings regarding WHS and graduation. They were selected from a field of seniors competing for this honor.

Seven valedictorians will represent the 1969 graduating class. They are Judy L. Clark, Kay C. France, Cynthia K. Haney, Patricia Harrison, Richard A. Jackson, Joseph M. Mangi, and Ilse M. Tursch. The salutatorian is Thomas J. Nelson.

GARY HEDBERG, president of the Class of 1969, will present the commencement speakers. At the conclusion of the speeches, Thomas W. Shirley, principal of Wheeling High School, will preside over the graduating seniors to the school board. The response will be made by Arthur E. Aronson, president of Dist. 214 School Board.

Arthur E. Aronson and Dr. Edward H. Gilbert, superintendent of Dist. 214, will present the diplomas.

Navy ROTC Slated

A Naval Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (NJROTC) program will be implemented at Wheeling High School next fall. Official approval for the school to start the program was given this week by the U.S. Department of the Navy.

Wheeling High School will be the first in the area to implement the program. Only 35 NJROTC units are operating in the country at this time.

The program, which will be open to boys in the sophomore, junior and senior classes at Wheeling High School, will consist of one period of instruction each day during the school year. The students will receive one-half unit of academic credit for each year they successfully complete the program.

THE NAVAL JUNIOR ROTC lists as its five basic objectives in the program: To promote habits of orderliness and precision and to develop respect for constituted authority, to promote patriotism, to encourage a high degree of personal honor, self-reliance and individual discipline, to promote education for Civil Defense and to provide a means for students to become better informed citizens on matters of national security and to develop a knowledge and an appreciation of the Navy's role in the national defense structure.

The sophomore year program, Naval Science I, will consist of naval orientation, naval history, the importance of seapower and a discussion of the modern Navy.

The junior year program, Naval Science II, will include the study of oceanography, meteorology, navigation, seamanship, drills, commands and ceremonies.

The senior year program, Naval Science III, will include astronomy, navigation, electronics, leadership and moral guidance, drills, commands and ceremonies.

THE INSTRUCTORS in the program will be a retired, commissioned or non-commissioned officer whose qualifications have been approved by the Secretary of the Navy.

The Department of the Navy will provide a Naval JROTC cadet uniform to each boy participating in the program at no cost to the individual.

The Board of Education for High School Dist. 214 approved the implementation of the program in 1968 but the school's application for the program was not approved by the Naval Department until this week.

Housing Resurrected

SPRINGFIELD — The open housing fight was resurrected yesterday in the Senate when the Republican majority voted 26-2 to send a series of bills to the committee most likely to kill them.

After an hour of debate, the measures which already passed the House were sent to the Registration and Miscellaneous Committee — perennial graveyard for such bills.

No Wage-Price Control

WASHINGTON — President Nixon will confer at 9 a.m. today with members of the House to consider alternative proposals to curb inflation if Congress does not extend the 10 per cent surtax, which appears will be the case.

It is believed that proposals under consideration are wage and price controls, although nothing is definite.

U.S. Is Back In Favor

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — After six years Cambodia has resumed diplomatic relations with the United States.

However, along with the agreement, the Cambodian government has demanded $8.6 million in reparations for damages caused by American planes using defuncts to search for Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

North Viets Repelled

SAIGON — About 100 North Vietnamese troops broke through the outer perimeter of a U.S. Army artillery base briefly yesterday and were driven out after the defenders lowered their artillery pieces to ground level and fired point-blank.

Fourteen Americans were killed, while the enemy lost at least 27 in the action at the 196th Infantry Brigade Artillery base, 340 miles north-northeast of Saigon, U.S. spokesmen said.

Peking, Soviets Clash

HONG KONG — Peking claimed yesterday Soviet troops provoked a border clash Tuesday and sent an armored column knifing into Communist China near the Lop Nor missile testing site, but the Russian version of the incident put the blame on the Chinese.

Red China, claiming that the Russians probed near one of her major oil fields, filed a protest with the Soviet embassy in Peking, and the Soviet foreign ministry delivered a note rejecting the Chinese protest.

Policemen Acquitted

CHICAGO — A federal court jury yesterday found three Chicago policemen innocent in the beating of a newsman during the Democratic National Convention week disorders.

The jury acquitted the trio on the charge that they deprived a Chicago Daily News reporter of his civil rights by beating him. U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry said he was "in harmony" with the jury's decision.

Primary Bill In House

SPRINGFIELD — A Senate bill to move Illinois' primary date from the second Tuesday in June to the second Tuesday in April was sent to the House floor yesterday on a 17-3 vote.

The House Elections Committee recommended the House pass the measure. However, the full House already has turned down a House bill to do the same thing.

Gain Delay of HB 1241

by MARY DRESSER

As a result of extensive pressure from unincorporated areas, House Bill 1241 will be held up in the Senate to await further consideration this fall.

HB 1241 set up the mechanics to allow municipalities to annex contiguous unincorporated areas by ordinance.

Property owners in unincorporated sections of Prospect Heights, Palatine, and Elk Grove, have been loud in their objections to HB 1241, contending the bill restricts their right to control the destiny of their own areas.

Opponents of the bill testified against it Tuesday.

Testimony for the bill was heard yesterday, but all indications are the Senate will ask for more time to consider the problem.

THE BILL WILL be referred to a senate subcommittee which will submit a final report to the senate committee in fall.

Meanwhile, the senate bill sponsor, Sen. Jack Knuefer R-Elmhurst, will devote part of his summer to drafting an amendment to the bill that will satisfy irate property owners in unincorporated areas.

"Knuefer will make a serious attempt to find out how to amend the bill to satisfy the legitimate concern of the people while preserving the heart and thrust of the bill," says State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, House sponsor of the bill.

"We hoped to pass the bill in the senate, but we just couldn't do it," Schlickman said.

TUESDAY, A busload of approximately 33 people from the incorporated area, lead by Mrs. Marie Caylor, arrived in Springfield to protest the bill before the Senate Municipal Corporations committee.

Besides residents of unincorporated areas, other opponents of the bill included a representative of Baxter Laboratories, speaking on behalf of the company, and also the Illinois Manufacturers Association of Lake County.

Other opponents were Troy Kost, executive secretary of the Township Officials of Illinois, Leyden Township officials, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, and the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

"I think the committee considered the opposition to the bill quite strong," Mrs. Caylor said.

MRS. CAYLOR SAYS committee chairman, Arthur Swanson, and committee members Arthur Bidwell, Bernard Neistein, and 13th Dist. Sen. John Graham, all said "they had never received so many letters of opposition to a bill as this."

The group, lead by Mrs. Caylor, delivered a petition signed by 5,916 people opposing the bill to Senators Russell Arrington and Graham.

She says signatures were obtained from 114 different communities in the northern section of Illinois.

"This included people in municipalities whom we felt were being disenfranchised by the bill," Mrs. Caylor told the Herald.

THE BUS CARRYING opponents of the bill left from Randhurst Shopping Center Tuesday at 10 a.m. and arrived in Springfield at 2 p.m. They spoke against the bill and left Springfield that evening.

"We were unaware until we got there that the committee would listen only to opponents of the bill yesterday," Mrs. Caylor said Wednesday. "We wanted to be there to hear proponents. We had expected the Senate committee's report to be heard."

Schlickman, who no longer has active control of the bill because it has gone to the senate, under Knuefer's direction, says he met agreeably with the bill opponents.

SCHLICKMAN STILL expects passage of the bill after the summer cooling-off period.

When asked about the effects of the bill on his candidacy for the 13th Dist. House of Representatives seat, Schlickman said:

"I hope my stand will never be related to the candidacy. My record is my total approach used toward legislation. That is the thing to be considered."

Horcher on Board's Carpet

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher has been ordered to appear at Monday night's workshop session of the village board to explain his voiding of a ticket issued under the town's trailer ordinance.

Last Monday the board began discussion of a three-page report by Horcher on the incident. The chief had refused to write a report on the ticket until ordered to do so by the board.

Discussion by the board moved from the chief's actions in voiding the trailer ticket to a wider subject, the chief's prerogative to void tickets at all.

NO DECISION on the matter was reached Monday. Horcher tried to push through a motion declaring the chief had no authority to void tickets, but the motion was tabled. The board plans to consider the matter again next Monday.

Scanlon and Hart clashed during the meeting, both on the specific ticket-voiding incident and on the general topic of whether or not a chief can void tickets at all.

Basing his statements on a report from Village Atty. Paul Hamer, Horcher told Scanlon repeatedly, "The police chief doesn't have the right to question the legality of an ordinance; he has no right to void tickets."

Cause of the controversy was a ticket written by a Wheeling patrolman for D. Wray Peal for having a recreational trailer parked in his driveway.

Horcher in his written report, indicated the ticket was voided after discussions among himself, Scanlon and C. E. Olsen, then village manager. Fines for the violation Peal was accused of range from $2 to $5.

Scanlon told Hart the trailer ordinance was under study at the time the ticket was issued. Police have to use "common sense" in enforcement, Scanlon said.

REFERRING TO his time as a police magistrate, the village president told Hart, "In the 23,000-some cases I sat and judged in a courtroom, I learned that a judge compliments a police department when it can avoid a trivial thing."

Horcher's report said the three had learned that there were over 80 trailers in the village and "continued enforcement without further consideration by the board would have an adverse effect on the community."

Currently an ordinance prohibits trailers from being parked or stored within the village limits.

The chief set up a time period with Peal for loading and unloading the trailer, his report indicated.

"As to who specifically suggested that the citation be dismissed if the requirements and requests were met, I don't recall. I assume full responsibility for the action taken. The decision was concurred with by the three of us," Horcher is reported to have said.

Throughout the meeting, Scanlon defended the chief's stand, but Hart stuck to his original statement that the chief shouldn't have the prerogative to void a ticket.

HAMER HAD reported to the board that he was unable to locate either in the Wheeling Municipal Code of the Illinois Municipal Code any statutory authority which would allow the chief to void a village ordinance complaint.

Hart said a report from the police chief showing the enforcement of similar ordinances in other villages was completely irrelevant to the ticket-voiding issue.

"He (the chief) shouldn't set himself up as an attorney," Hart said emphasizing that voiding tickets based on citizen complaints is not at Horcher's discretion.

"I don't think the village should be singled out over other villages for putting our chief in a position others don't," Scanlon said about prohibiting the chief from using discretion.

Trustee Peter Egan reminded the village president, "We have an ordinance on the books, Mr. Scanlon, that says 'no trailers'."

Horcher, in his report, said the existing ordinance was written to prevent a trailer camp or to keep families from living in trailers within the village limits. He also reminded the board that the village manager had told the police that any new form of enforcement or any specific increase in enforcement of ordinances would not take place without specific identified intents and policy statements by the corporate authorities.

To Draw Ordinance

Wheeling Village Atty. Paul Hamer was directed to prepare an ordinance up grading zoning on property at Strong and Milwaukee Avenues Monday.

The ordinance will affect the unoccupied gas station and antique store at the northwest corner of the intersection.

The final draft of the ordinance will come up for consideration by the village board at a later meeting.

Demo Candidacy to Warman?

Three Democrat committeemen in the four-township area insisted Wednesday their candidate for 13th District congressman remains a question.

A reliable news source Tuesday night said Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie is a unanimous pick among the district's eight committeemen. None of the four area committeemen were at home Tuesday night for comment.

Following a Sunday screening session, the committeemen were to go back to their organizations for direction on selecting a candidate. Another meeting was set for June 19 for committeemen to decide their candidates.

Board Will Receive Sex Education Ideas

Recommendations from the Citizens Review Committee on the family living and sex education program in Dist. 21 schools will be presented to the board of education at its meeting tonight. The school board will meet at 8:15 p.m. in the board room of the administrative center, 999 W. Dundee Road.

Robert Hopkins, president of the Concerned Parents Committee protesting the teaching of sex education in the district schools, is also scheduled to address the board.

SUPT. KENNETH GILL will present his policy recommendations for the district at the meeting, and Dist. 21 teacher Miss Marjorie Beu, is scheduled to present a recommendation that the district adopt the Contra-Costa method of teaching social studies in the schools.

This program was developed by the late Hilda Tabo of San Francisco State College and is presently being used in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 schools.

The Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization met Tuesday night. Democrats in Palatine Township were to meet last night and Schaumburg Township is meeting Friday night.

James McCabe, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said his organization had authorized him to select a candidate even before initial screening began. McCabe said he knows who he will vote for, but will wait until the June 19 meeting to disclose his decision.

PETE GERLING, Palatine Township Democrat committeeman, said he has the field of 10 candidates narrowed down to "three or four." He specifically cited his preferences as Warman, Raymond S. True of Roselle and Milton Rakove, a political science professor. He said his party's executive board is also familiar with these candidates.

Elk Grove Township Democrat Committeeman Chester Chesney said his group is leaving the choice up to him. He favors two men — Warman and Rakove.

The Schaumburg township organization could not be reached for comment.

According to party leaders at the May 26 screening session, the question of a Democrat primary fight would depend on whether committeemen can agree on one candidate. Chesney said Wednesday he believes the committeemen will resolve the selection to only one man because there is little time and money and only six months before the next April election.

THE ELK GROVE Township committeeman said his fellow party leaders wanted an open primary but the regular organization wanted "to save all its ammunition for the general election."

"All organizations in the district are quite low on funds," Chesney said. "There are not as many fat cats when you're out of power as when you're in."

New Trier Township Committeeman Lynn Williams said Tuesday night that there is, among committeemen, "general indication of a favorable attitude toward Warman."

Williams also insisted, though, the question of a candidate and primary race is still open.

According to Williams, Warman's views on issues show: opposition to the Vietnam war to the point of unilateral withdrawal, if necessary, and opposition to excessive military spending and the ABM.

Warman blamed excessive military spending for inflation by pouring billions into the economy without putting any counterpart goods or services into the market to be bought with the money distributed, according to Williams.

"He also pointed out his record of independent voting in the state legislature and indicated his freedom of domination by machine politics," Williams said.

THE MAVERICK New Trier Democrat agreed with an analysis Warman is "not a Daley Democrat."

"It seemed to me that the positions he stated are very similar to those of Sen. Kennedy and Sen. McGovern."

Warman, 42, an attorney, is in his third term in the Illinois legislature, representing the 4th District. He serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees. He was named one of the best freshman legislators for his work in 1965 and 1966.

In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislators' award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

Plan Action Against Dam

William B. Frazier's controversial dam lying just behind Buffalo Grove's Cambridge subdivision might become the victim of a restraining order. Village Pres. Donald Thompson disclosed Monday the village is considering seeking a restraining order to force Frazier to remove his dam.

Frazier's dam stops Cambridge storm drainage water from flowing across his property. In doing so, however, the dam forces water to back up into University Drive in Cambridge.

Because of his dam, Frazier is the defendant in a suit filed by Richard Brown, developer of the subdivision, and three University Drive homeowners.

THOMPSON INDICATED at the village board meeting Monday that if negotiations on the Cambridge problem remain unsettled at tomorrow's pretrial meeting, the village would seek a restraining order against Frazier.

Thompson said that Richard Rysa, village attorney, had requested pictures of Cambridge flooding. However, Thompson did not say whether or not the pictures would be used in procuring the restraining order.

Students Take Trip

Third and fourth graders at Walt Whitman Elementary School toured O'Hare and Palwaukee Airports recently in connection with their social studies and science programs.

Whitman teachers Mrs. Madge White and Mrs. Charlene Yount and eight mothers guided 52 students on a tour through the weather bureau and customs department at O'Hare.

At Palwaukee all were made honorary air traffic controllers.

Kids At TMH Center Cook Up Tacos

by SUE CARSON

Whipping up culinary delights such as tacos and pizza is just one of the projects undertaken in the last year by the children in the Trainable Mentally Handicapped (TMH) program sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO).

A group of 40 youngsters, ranging in age from 5 to 13, attend classes five days a week on the top floor of the Prospect Heights Community Church. Classroom space has been provided by School District 23. The TMH program is open to children living within the boundaries of high school districts 211 and 214.

"We're attempting to teach these children to get along in group situations and freely contribute their ideas and suggestions as valuable members of the class," said Mrs. Cindy O'Gorman, one of the four special education teachers in the program.

SHE EXPLAINED THAT trainable mentally handicapped children can be taught to perform simple jobs such as janitorial or assembly line work in factories, but cannot take care of themselves.

"At the TMH Center, they learn to interact and make friends with other TMH children of their age," she said.

The children are divided by age into four classes. Songs, art lessons and educational games, such as teaching them to recognize and understand safety signs, are other aspects of the program. They also take short field trips, including a recent excursion to a local shopping center.

"But the cooking sessions are the most popular. All kids love to eat!" declared Mrs. O'Gorman.

A professional speech therapist works part time with the children to improve their speech and coordination.

Mrs. O'Gorman feels that the program is important for the TMH children. "They are generally excellent at working with their hands and will perform routine tasks without complaining. Nevertheless, they must learn to get along with others in society to be useful citizens, and we in the program are trying to help them learn to do this."

"They're a warm friendly group, and seem to make friends easily, perhaps because they can relate to their classmates with little difficulty, whereas they might feel strange in an average classroom situation," she added.

MRS. O'GORMAN SAID the TMH program has received enthusiastic support from parents. A new group, PATHS (Parents and Teachers of Handicapped Students) has been formed recently to support the program and act as a liaison organization between the parents and instructors.

In addition to the 40 students attending classes at the Prospect Heights church, 12 additional TMH children have classes at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect. Next fall the group will be consolidated, and have classes at the new Dwight D. Eisenhower Junior High School, now under construction in Dist. 23.

A new TMH Center in Palatine, scheduled to open in 1970, will provide instructional facilities for 300 children from the ages of 5 to 21.

Mrs. Velma Morton of the NSSEO, consultant to the TMH program, said the new center will enable her organization to provide more complete services than is currently the case.

"Right now, the children must go to a private school, such as the Clearbrook Center for the Retarded in Rolling Meadows, or the Countryside Center for the Handicapped in Palatine after they reach the age of 11," Mrs. Morton explained.

"While these centers have done an excellent job, the new TMH center will enable school districts in the NSSEO to provide these services themselves," she concluded.

NEA In Politics

In one more year, teachers in United States will have a political arm to lean on.

Dr. Donald Thomas, superintendent of School District 39, told members of the Elk Grove Township Democratic organization that the National Education Association (NEA) will develop a political action arm and back candidates for office. Thomas, a director of the NEA, is part of a task force aimed at developing political action groups. Thomas told Elk Grove Democrats that his job on the task force is to develop the organization of a political arm of the NEA.

A recent three-day session in Washington, D.C., led NEA directors to follow guide lines already established by political arms of the AFL-CIO and the American Medical Association.

"TEACHERS HAVE never been effective on a national political scene. We feel it is time that a political arm be available to back candidates to support our goals," Thomas said.

The superintendent said money for the political group would be solicited from teachers across the country. The action group cannot be legally tied to the NEA as a professional organization. But NEA will control teacher's in politics through a board of directors. Thomas explained that teachers' under public employees, are exempt from the Hatch Act and so can participate politically.

"There are one million teachers not affiliated with any teachers organization," Thomas said. "Imagine what would have happened if those one million teachers had each donated one dollar and one million dollars would have gone in support of Hubert Humphrey."

Thomas told local Democrats that organized teachers could have made Hubert Humphrey president.

The political action group of the NEA will engage in politics at the national level. Its organization will also be available to some local candidates on an individual basis. To date, the organization will consist of a director and four lobbyists and a nationwide membership.

Thomas said the political action move may be approved by NEA directors at the Philadelphia convention this summer.

At the local level an organization such as the Illinois Citizens Committee, would be changed to a political action group by next year. The Illinois Citizens Committee has as one of its most active members Robert Harkell, principal of Elk Grove High School.

Thomas said teachers helped to elect local State representative Eugenia Chapman, teachers helped elect a new governor in Utah and teachers are just starting to get their candidates elected.

Delay Trailer Law Session

Discussion of Wheeling's trailer ordinance was postponed at Monday's village board session. The board gave no date as to when discussion on the ordinance would be held.

The board directed the village attorney to prepare a rough draft of the ordinance which would allow recreational vehicles in the village. The draft will be based on recommendations from the village's zoning board.

THE PROPOSED ordinance would allow recreational trailers and boats to be parked on village streets for 36-hour periods. Smaller trailers could be kept in backyards with screening while larger ones would have to be enclosed in a building.

High Praise for Policemen

A Wheeling resident has praised the village's police department for "protection to the fullest degree" in a letter to Village Pres. Ted O. Scanlon.

In her letter, Mrs. Pat Carpenter of 501 McHenry Road said "Living in what you might call the rural area of Wheeling, but still within the village limits, you wonder sometimes if you have the same police protection the people in the center of town have."

Mrs. Carpenter told Scanlon that about 2:30 a.m. June 5 she had heard someone come up on her porch. Because her husband was not home, she called Wheeling Police, asking them to come circle her yard.

"A MINUTE CAN be an eternity at a time like that, but it wasn't more than three minutes when I heard a noise in the back only to look out and see it was the police," her letter said.

"They were not merely pulling through but checking thoroughly all around the house. I could have cried from relief to see them. At the same time my neighbor wanted to know what was happening, and that someone had broken their window apparently trying to get into their house," Mrs. Carpenter wrote.

"ABOUT 20 MINUTES later one of our fine young officers came to the door to tell me they had caught the man — again relieved. Sometime later my husband arrived home, and not two minutes after he pulled in the yard, a squad car pulled through our yard, apparently checking to make sure it was the right man in the right house," she said.

She concluded her letter to Scanlon saying that "My hat is off to those great bunch of guys that take care of us by day and especially the scary hours of the

700 To Graduate at Wheeling

Approximately 700 seniors will receive their diplomas at the fourth Wheeling High School commencement at 8 p.m., today, at the WHS football field in the event of rain, the occasion will be observed in the gymnasium.

The three commencement speakers, all seniors, Melody Peterson, James Martin, and Tony Stavros, will speak on their feelings regarding WHS and graduation. They were selected from a field of seniors competing for this honor.

Seven valedictorians will represent the 1969 graduating class. They are Judy L. Clark, Kay C. France, Cynthia K. Haney, Patricia Harrison, Richard A. Jackson, Joseph M. Mangi, and Ilse M. Tursch. The salutatorian is Thomas J. Nelson.

GARY HEDBERG, president of the Class of 1969, will present the commencement speakers. At the conclusion of the speeches, Thomas W. Shirley, principal of Wheeling High School, will present the graduating seniors to the school board. The response will be made by Arthur E. Aronson, president of Dist. 214 School Board.

Arthur E. Aronson and Dr. Edward H. Gilbert, superintendent of Dist. 214, will present the diplomas.

Navy ROTC Slated

A Naval Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (NJROTC) program will be implemented at Wheeling High School next fall. Official approval for the school to start the program was given this week by the U.S. Department of the Navy.

Wheeling High School will be the first in the area to implement the program. Only 55 NJROTC units are operating in the country at this time.

The program, which will be open to boys in the sophomore, junior and senior classes at Wheeling High School, will consist of one period of instruction each day during the school year. The students will receive one-half unit of academic credit for each year they successfully complete the program.

THE NAVAL JUNIOR ROTC lists as its five basic objectives in the program: To promote habits of orderliness and precision and to develop respect for constituted authority, to promote patriotism, to encourage a high degree of personal honor, self-reliance and individual discipline, to promote education for Civil Defense and to provide a means for students to become better informed citizens on matters of national security and to develop a knowledge and an appreciation of the Navy's role in the national defense structure.

The sophomore year program, Naval Science I, will consist of naval orientation, naval history, the importance of seapower and a discussion of the modern Navy.

The junior year program, Naval Science II, will include the study of oceanography, meteorology, navigation, seamanship, drills, commands and ceremonies.

The senior year program, Naval Science III, will include astronomy, navigation, electronics, leadership and moral guidance, drills, commands and ceremonies.

THE INSTRUCTORS in the program will be a retired, commissioned or non-commissioned officer whose qualifications have been approved by the Secretary of the Navy.

The Department of the Navy will provide a Naval JROTC cadet uniform to each boy participating in the program at no cost to the individual.

The Board of Education for High School District 214 approved the implementation of the program in 1968 but the school's application for the program was not approved by the Naval Department until this week.

Housing Resurrected

SPRINGFIELD — The open housing fight was resurrected yesterday in the Senate when the Republican majority voted 26-2 to send a series of bills to the committee most likely to kill them.

After an hour of debate, the measures which already passed the House were sent to the Registration and Miscellaneous Committee — perennial graveyard for such bills.

No Wage-Price Control

WASHINGTON — President Nixon will confer at 9 a.m. today with members of the House to consider alternative proposals to curb inflation if Congress does not extend the 10 per cent surtax, which appears will be the case.

It is believed that proposals under consideration are wage and price controls, although nothing is definite.

U.S. Is Back In Favor

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — After six years Cambodia has resumed diplomatic relations with the United States.

However, along with the agreement, the Cambodian government has demanded $8.6 million in reparations for damages caused by American planes using defoliant to search for Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

North Viets Repelled

SAIGON — About 100 North Vietnamese troops broke through the outer perimeter of a U.S. Army artillery base briefly yesterday and were driven out after the defenders lowered their artillery pieces to ground level and fired point-blank.

Fourteen Americans were killed, while the enemy lost at least 27 in the action at the 196th Infantry Brigade Artillery base, 340 miles north-northeast of Saigon, U.S. spokesmen said.

Peking, Soviets Clash

HONG KONG — Peking claimed yesterday Soviet troops provoked a border clash Tuesday and sent an armored column knifing into Communist China near the Lop Nor missile testing site, but the Russian version of the incident put the blame on the Chinese.

Red China, claiming that the Russians probed near one of her major oil fields, filed a protest with the Soviet embassy in Peking, and the Soviet foreign ministry delivered a note rejecting the Chinese protest.

Policemen Acquitted

CHICAGO — A federal court jury yesterday found three Chicago policemen innocent in the beating of a newsman during the Democratic National Convention week disorders.

The jury acquitted the trio on the charge that they deprived a Chicago Daily News reporter of his civil rights by beating him. U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry said he was "in harmony" with the jury's decision.

Primary Bill In House

SPRINGFIELD — A Senate bill to move Illinois' primary date from the second Tuesday in June to the second Tuesday in April was sent to the House floor yesterday on a 17-3 vote.

The House Elections Committee recommended the House pass the measure. However, the full House already has turned down a House bill to do the same thing.

Gain Delay of HB 1241

by MARY DRESSER

As a result of extensive pressure from unincorporated areas, House Bill 1241 will be held up in the Senate to await further consideration this fall.

HB 1241 set up the mechanics to allow municipalities to annex contiguous unincorporated areas by ordinance.

Property owners in unincorporated sections of Prospect Heights, Palatine, and Elk Grove, have been loud in their objections to HB 1241, contending the bill restricts their right to control the destiny of their own areas.

Opponents of the bill testified against it Tuesday.

Testimony for the bill was heard yesterday, but all indications are the Senate will ask for more time to consider the problem.

THE BILL WILL be referred to a senate subcommittee which will submit a final report to the senate committee in fall.

Meanwhile, the senate bill sponsor, Sen. Jack Knuepfer R-Elmhurst, will devote part of his summer to drafting an amendment to the bill that will satisfy irate property owners in unincorporated areas.

"Knuepfer will make a serious attempt to find out how to amend the bill to satisfy the legitimate concern of the people while preserving the heart and thrust of the bill," says State Rep. Eugene Schlickman,

House sponsor of the bill.

"We hoped to pass the bill in the senate, but we just couldn't do it," Schlickman said.

TUESDAY, A busload of approximately 33 people from the incorporated area, lead by Mrs. Marie Caylor, arrived in Springfield to protest the bill before the Senate Municipal Corporations committee.

Besides residents of unincorporated areas, other opponents of the bill included a representative of Baxter Laboratories, speaking on behalf of the company, and also the Illinois Manufacturers Association of Lake County.

Other opponents were Troy Kost, executive secretary of the Township Officials of Illinois, Leyden Township officials, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, and the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

"I think the committee considered the opposition to the bill quite strong," Mrs. Caylor said.

MRS. CAYLOR SAYS committee chairman, Arthur Swanson, and committee members Arthur Bidwell, Bernard Neistein, and 13th Dist. Sen. John Graham, all said "they had never received so many letters of opposition to a bill as this."

The group, lead by Mrs. Caylor, delivered a petition signed by 5,916 people opposing the bill to Senators Russell Arrington and Graham.

She says signatures were obtained from 114 different communities in the northern section of Illinois.

"This included people in municipalities whom we felt were being disenfranchised by the bill," Mrs. Caylor told the Herald.

THE BUS CARRYING opponents of the bill left from Randolph Shopping Center Tuesday at 10 a.m. and arrived in Springfield at 2 p.m. They spoke against the bill and left Springfield that evening.

"We were unaware until we got there that the committee would listen only to opponents of the bill yesterday," Mrs. Caylor said Wednesday. "We wanted to be there to hear proponents. We had expected the Senate committee's report to be heard."

Schlickman, who no longer has active control of the bill because it has gone to the senate, under Knuepfer's direction, says he met agreeably with the bill opponents.

SCHLICKMAN STILL expects passage of the bill after the summer cooling-off period.

When asked about the effects of the bill on his candidacy for the 13th Dist. House of Representatives seat, Schlickman said:

"I hope my stand will never be related to the candidacy. My record is my total approach used toward legislation. That is the thing to be considered."

Horcher on Board's Carpet

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher has been ordered to appear at Monday night's workshop session of the village board to explain his voiding of a ticket issued under the town's trailer ordinance.

Last Monday the board began discussion of a three-page report by Horcher on the incident. The chief had refused to write a report on the ticket until ordered to do so by the board.

Discussion by the board moved from the chief's actions in voiding the trailer ticket to a wider subject, the chief's prerogative to void tickets at all.

NO DECISION on the matter was reached Monday. Horcher tried to push through a motion declaring the chief had no authority to void tickets, but the motion was tabled. The board plans to consider the matter again next Monday.

Scanlon and Horcher clashed during the meeting, both on the specific ticket-voiding incident and on the general topic of whether or not a chief can void tickets at all.

Basing his statements on a report from Village Atty. Paul Hamer, Horcher told Scanlon repeatedly, "The police chief doesn't have the right to question the legality of an ordinance; he has no right to void tickets."

Cause of the controversy was a ticket written by a Wheeling patrolman for D. Wray Peal for having a recreational trailer parked in his driveway.

Horcher in his written report, indicated the ticket was voided after discussions among himself, Scanlon and C. E. Olsen, then village manager. Fines for the violation Peal was accused of range from $2 to $5.

Scanlon told Horcher the trailer ordinance was under study at the time the ticket was issued. Police have to use "common sense" in enforcement, Scanlon said.

REFERRING TO his time as a police magistrate, the village president told Horcher, "In the 23,000-some cases I sat and judged in a courtroom, I learned that a judge compliments a police department when it can avoid a trivial thing."

Horcher's report said the three had learned that there were over 80 trailers in the village and "continued enforcement without further consideration by the board would have an adverse effect on the community."

Currently an ordinance prohibits trailers from being parked or stored within the village limits.

The chief set up a time period with Peal for loading and unloading the trailer, his report indicated.

"As to who specifically suggested that the citation be dismissed if the requirements and requests were met, I don't recall. I assume full responsibility for the action taken. The decision was concurred with by the three of us," Horcher is reported to have said.

Throughout the meeting, Scanlon defended the chief's stand, but Horcher stuck to his original statement that the chief shouldn't have the prerogative to void a ticket.

HAMER HAD reported to the board that he was unable to locate either in the Wheeling Municipal Code of the Illinois Municipal Code any statutory authority which would allow the chief to void a village ordinance complaint.

Hart said a report from the police chief showing the enforcement of similar ordinances in other villages was completely irrelevant to the ticket-voiding issue.

"He (the chief) shouldn't set himself up as an attorney," Hart said emphasizing that voiding tickets based on citizen complaints is not at Horcher's discretion.

"I don't think the village should be singled out over other villages for putting our chief in a position others don't," Scanlon said about prohibiting the chief from using discretion.

Trustee Peter Egan reminded the village president, "We have an ordinance on the books, Mr. Scanlon, that says 'no trailers'."

Horcher, in his report, said the existing ordinance was written to prevent a trailer camp or to keep families from living in trailers within the village limits. He also reminded the board that the village manager had told the police that any new form of enforcement or any specific increase in enforcement of ordinances would not take place without specific identified intents and policy statements by the corporate authorities.

To Draw Ordinance

Wheeling Village Atty. Paul Hamer was directed to prepare an ordinance up grading zoning on property at Strong and Milwaukee Avenues Monday.

The ordinance will affect the unoccupied gas station and antique store at the northwest corner of the intersection.

The final draft of the ordinance will come up for consideration by the village board at a later meeting.

Demo Candidacy to Warman?

Three Democrat committeemen in the four-township area insisted Wednesday their candidate for 13th District congressman remains a question.

A reliable news source Tuesday night said Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie is a unanimous pick among the district's eight committeemen. None of the four area committeemen were at home Tuesday night for comment.

Following a Sunday screening session, the committeemen were to go back to their organizations for direction on selecting a candidate. Another meeting was set for June 19 for committeemen to decide their candidates.

Board Will Receive Sex Education Ideas

Recommendations from the Citizens Review Committee on the family living and sex education program in Dist. 21 schools will be presented to the board of education at its meeting tonight. The school board will meet at 8:15 p.m. in the board room of the administrative center, 999 W. Dundee Road.

Robert Hopkins, president of the Concerned Parents Committee protesting the teaching of sex education in the district schools, is also scheduled to address the board.

SUPT. KENNETH GILL will present his policy recommendations for the district at the meeting, and Dist. 21 teacher Miss Marjorie Beu, is scheduled to present a recommendation that the district adopt the Contra-Costa method of teaching social studies in the schools.

This program was developed by the late Hilda Taba of San Francisco State College and is presently being used in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 schools.

The Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization met Tuesday night. Democrats in Palatine Township were to meet last night and Schaumburg Township is meeting Friday night.

James McCabe, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said his organization had authorized him to select a candidate even before initial screening began. McCabe said he knows who he will vote for, but will wait until the June 19 meeting to disclose his decision.

PETE GERLING, Palatine Township Democratic committeeman, said he has the field of 10 candidates narrowed down to "three or four." He specifically cited his preferences as Warman, Raymond S. True of Roselle and Milton Rakove, a political science professor. He said his party's executive board is also familiar with these candidates.

Elk Grove Township Democrat committeeman Chester Chesney said his group is leaving the choice up to him. He favors two men — Warman and Rakove.

The Schaumburg township organization could not be reached for comment.

According to party leaders at the May 26 screening session, the question of a Democrat primary fight would depend on whether committeemen can agree on one candidate. Chesney said Wednesday he believes the committeemen will resolve the selection to only one man because there is little time and money and only six months before the next April election.

THE ELK GROVE Township committeeman said his fellow party leaders wanted an open primary but the regular organization wanted "to save all its ammunition for the general election."

"All organizations in the district are quite low on funds," Chesney said. "There are not as many fat cats when you're out of power as when you're in."

New Trier Township Committeeman Lynn Williams said Tuesday night that there is, among committeemen, "general indication of a favorable attitude toward Warman."

Williams also insisted, though, the question of a candidate and primary race is still open.

According to Williams, Warman's views on issues show: opposition to the Vietnam war to the point of unilateral withdrawal, if necessary, and opposition to excessive military spending and the ABM.

Warman blamed excessive military spending for inflation by pouring billions into the economy without putting any counterpart goods or services into the market to be bought with the money distributed, according to Williams.

"He also pointed out his record of independent voting in the state legislature and indicated his freedom of domination by machine politics," Williams said.

THE MAVERICK New Trier Democrat agreed with an analysis Warman is "not a Daley Democrat."

"It seemed to me that the positions he stated are very similar to those of Sen. Kennedy and Sen. McGovern."

Warman, 42, an attorney, is in his third term in the Illinois legislature, representing the 4th District. He serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees. He was named one of the best freshman legislators for his work in 1965 and 1966.

In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislators' award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

Plan Action Against Dam

William B. Frazier's controversial dam lying just behind Buffalo Grove's Cambridge subdivision might become the victim of a restraining order. Village Pres. Donald Thompson disclosed Monday the village is considering seeking a restraining order to force Frazier to remove his dam.

Frazier's dam stops Cambridge storm drainage water from flowing across his property. In doing so, however, the dam forces water to back up into University Drive in Cambridge.

Because of his dam, Frazier is the defendant in a suit filed by Richard Brown, developer of the subdivision, and three University Drive homeowners.

Students Take Trip

Third and fourth graders at Walt Whitman Elementary School toured O'Hare and Palwaukee Airports recently in connection with their social studies and science programs.

Whitman teachers Mrs. Madge White and Mrs. Charlene Yount and eight mothers guided 52 students on a tour through the weather bureau and customs department at O'Hare.

At Palwaukee all were made honorary air traffic controllers.

NEA In Politics

In one more year, teachers in United States will have a political arm to lean on.

Dr. Donald Thomas, superintendent of School Dist. 39, told members of the Elk Grove Township Democratic organization that the National Education Association (NEA) will develop a political action arm and back candidates for office. Thomas, a director of the NEA, is part of a task force aimed at developing political action groups. Thomas told Elk Grove Democrats that his job on the task force is to develop the organization of a political arm of the NEA.

A recent three-day session in Washington, D.C., led NEA directors to follow guidelines already established by political arms of the AFL-CIO and the American Medical Association.

"TEACHERS HAVE never been effective on a national political scene. We feel it is time that a political arm be available to back candidates to support our goals," Thomas said.

The superintendent said money for the political group would be solicited from teachers across the country. The action group cannot be legally tied to the NEA as a professional organization. But NEA will control teacher's in politics through a board of directors. Thomas explained that teachers' although public employees, are exempt from the Hatch Act and so can participate politically.

"There are one million teachers not affiliated with any teachers organization," Thomas said. "Imagine what would have happened if those one million teachers had each donated one dollar and one million dollars would have gone in support of Hubert Humphrey."

Thomas told local Democrats that organized teachers could have made Hubert Humphrey president.

The political action group of the NEA will engage in politics at the national level; its organization will also be available to some local candidates on an individual basis. To date, the organization will consist of a director and four lobbyists and a nationwide membership.

Thomas said the political action move may be approved by NEA directors at the Philadelphia convention this summer.

At the local level an organization such as the Illinois Citizens Committee, would be changed to a political action group by next year. The Illinois Citizens Committee has as one of its most active members Robert Haskell, principal of Elk Grove High School.

Thomas said teachers helped to elect local State representative Eugene Chapman. Teachers helped elect a new governor in Utah and teachers are just starting to get their candidates elected.

Kids At TMH Center Cook Up Tacos

by SUE CARSON

Whipping up culinary delights such as tacos and pizza is just one of the projects undertaken in the last year by the children in the Trainable Mentally Handicapped (TMH) program sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSFO).

A group of 40 youngsters, ranging in age from 5 to 13, attend classes five days a week on the top floor of the Prospect Heights Community Church. Classroom space has been provided by School Dist. 23. The TMH program is open to children living within the boundaries of high school districts 211 and 214.

"We're attempting to teach these children to get along in group situations and freely contribute their ideas and suggestions as valuable members of the class," said Mrs. Cindy O'Gorman, one of the four special education teachers in the program.

SHE EXPLAINED THAT trainable mentally handicapped children can be taught to perform simple jobs such as janitorial or assembly line work in factories, but cannot take care of themselves.

"At the TMH Center, they learn to interact and make friends with other TMH children of their age," she said.

The children are divided by age into four classes. Songs, art lessons and educational games, such as teaching them to recognize and understand safety signs, are other aspects of the program. They also take short field trips, including a recent excursion to a local shopping center.

"But the cooking sessions are the most popular. All kids love to eat!" declared Mrs. O'Gorman.

A professional speech therapist works part time with the children to improve their speech and coordination.

Mrs. O'Gorman feels that the program is important for the TMH children. "They are generally excellent at working with their hands and will perform routine tasks without complaining. Nevertheless, they must learn to get along with others in society to be useful citizens, and we in the program are trying to help them learn to do this."

"They're a warm friendly group, and seem to make friends easily, perhaps because they can relate to their classmates with little difficulty, whereas they might feel strange in an average classroom situation," she added.

MRS. O'GORMAN SAID the TMH program has received enthusiastic support from parents. A new group, PATHS (Parents and Teachers of Handicapped Students) has been formed recently to support the program and act as a liaison organization between the parents and instructors.

In addition to the 40 students attending classes at the Prospect Heights church, 12 additional TMH children have classes at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect. Next fall the group will be consolidated, and have classes at the new Dwight D. Eisenhower Junior High School, now under construction in Dist. 23.

A new TMH Center in Palatine, scheduled to open in 1970, will provide instructional facilities for 300 children from the ages of 5 to 21.

Mrs. Velma Morton of the NSSFO, consultant to the TMH program, said the new center will enable her organization to provide more complete services than is currently the case.

"Right now, the children must go to a private school, such as the Clearbrook Center for the Retarded in Rolling Meadows or the Countryside Center for the Handicapped in Palatine after they reach the age of 14," Mrs. Morton explained.

"While these centers have done an excellent job, the new TMH center will enable school districts in the NSSFO to provide these services themselves," she concluded.

Present Field Day Awards

Award ribbons for the first Field Days at Edgar Allen Poe School in Arlington Heights were presented at a special awards assembly by Poe principal Donald Ghrist.

Receiving first place ribbons for shot put and the sixth grade 50-yard dash was Barry Schuster. Other dash winners were Marietta Chaney, sixth grade; Doug Nattaras and Kathy Dobbe, fifth grade; Janice Thompson and Tom Claeys, fourth grade.

In the 75-yard dash Dan McCotter and Cathy Vorreyer own firsts with Mike Fleming and Barbara Warner winning second. In fifth grade, Dave Castella and Cathy Zaring, first; Jim Weidner and Josephine Sacco, second. Fourth grade, Ray Langel and Jim Brendel received first and second.

IN THE HIGH JUMP, Eric Claeys and Doris Wiedner won first in the sixth grade; Jim Weidner and Cathy Zaring, first in fifth grade and Hal Livermore and Kyle Bower won first in fourth grade.

First place tug-of-war winners from sixth grade were Howard Yundt, Kelly Bauer and Ron Martin; girls, Anne Fritchie, Karen LaBrie and Susan Fischer. Dialing Meadowbrook

Mike Borst, Janine Valenza, Barbara Falk, Bob Wargo and Diana Loyal were among fellow graduates of St. Joseph the Worker who went to Springfield on May 26. During their 18-hour trip, they saw New Salem, Lincoln's tomb and home, and the restored Sangamon county court house. The restored capitol building, they witnessed the House of Representatives in session, and met one of their representatives, Mrs. Eugenia Chapman.

ON MAY 28, Stephanie Borst was one of the adults accompanying Suzanne and seven friends on a day-long outing. The young ladies were first treated to a hair styling in Des Plaines. Following lunch at the Seven Eagles, they attended the matinee performance of the "Student Prince," starring Peter Palmer, at Mill Run Playhouse.

On the 27th, Linda Borst was feted at a family dinner celebration of her 11th birthday. That evening she took part in the May crowning procession at St. Joseph the worker.

Terry and Ray Elzer, with Donna, Mike and Eileen, 428 S. Park, tried camping again this weekend, this time in the house trailer of Lois and Andy Macchia at Lake Wisconsin. Though the rains came, the two families were snug inside for the holiday.

RAY ELZER WAS honored at a family dinner for his May 29th birthday. Wishing him well were his parents, the William Elzers, mother-in-law Mrs. Elizabeth Goggin, brother-in-law, Jerry Goggin, and aunts, Margaret Nyquist and Frances Ryan.

Five-year-old Patrick Wargo, 401 S. Wolf Road, continues his recuperation at home after a four-day stay in Holy Family Hospital. The son of Alice and Bob Wargo was injured in a fall in his home.

Meadowbrook Lane welcomes Nick and Pat Marshall, and son, Joey, new residents of 408. The move was a short one, from 117 Deborah Lane.

Sympathy is extended to Robie Johanson and her family on the recent death of her father, Mr. Adolph Bartels of Buffalo Grove.

700 To Graduate at Wheeling

Approximately 700 seniors will receive their diplomas at the fourth Wheeling High School commencement at 8 p.m., today, at the WHS football field. In the event of rain, the occasion will be observed in the gymnasium.

The three commencement speakers, all seniors, Melody Peterson, James Martin, and Tony Stavros, will speak on their feelings regarding WHS and graduation. They were selected from a field of seniors competing for this honor.

Seven valedictorians will represent the 1969 graduating class. They are Judy L. Clark, Kay C. France, Cynthia K. Haney, Patricia Harrison, Richard A. Jackson, Joseph M. Mangi, and Ilse M. Tursch. The salutatorian is Thomas J. Nelson.

GARY HEDBERG, president of the Class of 1969, will present the commencement speakers. At the conclusion of the speeches, Thomas W. Shirley, principal of Wheeling High School, will present the graduating seniors to the school board. The response will be made by Arthur E. Aronson, president of Dist. 214 School Board.

Arthur E. Aronson and Dr. Edward H. Gilbert, superintendent of Dist. 214, will present the diplomas.

Sypniewski Serving With Viet Squadron

Marine First Lt. Edward R. Sypniewski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Sypniewski of 506 W. Green Drive, Wheeling, is serving with Marine Fighter Attack Squadron 115, First Marine Aircraft Wing in Vietnam.

The squadron is active in bombing missions over South Vietnam and is based at the Chu Lai Marine Air Base, 55 miles south of Danang.

Navy ROTC Slated

A Naval Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (NJROTC) program will be implemented at Wheeling High School next fall. Official approval for the school to start the program was given this week by the U.S. Department of the Navy.

Wheeling High School will be the first in the area to implement the program. Only 55 NJROTC units are operating in the country at this time.

The program, which will be open to boys in the sophomore, junior and senior classes at Wheeling High School, will consist of one period of instruction each day during the school year. The students will receive one-half unit of academic credit for each year they successfully complete the program.

THE NAVAL JUNIOR ROTC lists as its five basic objectives in the program: To promote habits of orderliness and precision and to develop respect for constituted authority, to promote patriotism, to encourage a high degree of personal honor, self-reliance and individual discipline, to promote education for Civil Defense and to provide a means for students to become better informed citizens on matters of national security and to develop a knowledge and an appreciation of the Navy's role in the national defense structure.

The sophomore year program, Naval Science I, will consist of naval orientation, naval history, the importance of seapower and a discussion of the modern Navy. The junior year program, Naval Science II, will include the study of oceanography, meteorology, navigation, seamanship, drills, commands and ceremonies.

The senior year program, Naval Science III, will include astronomy, navigation, electronics, leadership and moral guidance, drills, commands and ceremonies.

THE INSTRUCTORS in the program will be a retired, commissioned or non-commissioned officer whose qualifications have been approved by the Secretary of the Navy.

The Department of the Navy will provide a Naval JROTC cadet uniform to each boy participating in the program at no cost to the individual.

The Board of Education for High School Dist. 214 approved the implementation of the program in 1968 but the school's application for the program was not approved by the Naval Department until this week.

GOOD MORNING!

TODAY FROM UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Labor Leader Dies

WASHINGTON — John L. Lewis, whose mighty voice and righteous wrath dominated the American labor movement for half a century, died last night in Doctors Hospital. He was 89.

Lewis had been hospitalized since Sunday with an "acute illness." The doctor said the exact nature of the illness was not known. An autopsy is planned.

Housing Resurrected

SPRINGFIELD — The open housing fight was resurrected yesterday in the Senate when the Republican majority voted 26-2 to send a series of bills to the committee most likely to kill them.

After an hour of debate, the measures which already passed the House were sent to the Registration and Miscellaneous Committee — perennial graveyard for such bills.

No Wage-Price Control

WASHINGTON — President Nixon will confer at 9 a.m. today with members of the House to consider alternative proposals to curb inflation if Congress does not extend the 10 per cent surtax, which appears will be the case.

It is believed that proposals under consideration are wage and price controls, although nothing is definite.

U.S. Is Back In Favor

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — After six years Cambodia has resumed diplomatic relations with the United States.

However, along with the agreement, the Cambodian government has demanded $8.6 million in reparations for damages caused by American planes using defoliant to search for Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

North Viets Repelled

SAIGON — About 100 North Vietnamese troops broke through the outer perimeter of a U.S. Army artillery base briefly yesterday and were driven out after the defenders lowered their artillery pieces to ground level and fired point-blank.

Fourteen Americans were killed, while the enemy lost at least 27 in the action at the 196th Infantry Brigade Artillery base, 60 miles north-northeast of Saigon, U.S. spokesmen said.

Peking, Soviets Clash

HONG KONG — Peking claimed yesterday Soviet troops provoked a border clash Tuesday and sent an armored column knifing into Communist China near the Lop Nor missile testing site, but the Russian version of the incident put the blame on the Chinese.

Red China, claiming that the Russians probed near one of her major oil fields, filed a protest with the Soviet embassy in Peking and the Soviet foreign ministry delivered a note rejecting the Chinese protest.

Policemen Acquitted

CHICAGO — A federal court jury yesterday found three Chicago policemen innocent in the beating of a newsman during the Democratic National Convention week disorders.

The jury acquitted the trio on the charge that they deprived a Chicago Daily News reporter of his civil rights by beating him. U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry said he was "in harmony" with the jury's decision.

Tax Hike Vote Is Hinted

PALATINE RESIDENT Mrs. Jerome Szczepaniak, of 1829 Laurel, boarding the bus, was one of many area residents who journeyed to Springfield this week to protest House Bill 1241 which allows municipalities to annex unincorporated areas by ordinance.

At its meeting last night, the Dist. 53 School Board told 75 teachers of the Educator's Association it would consider proposing a tax rate increase to voters in the fall to meet the salary schedule.

Deficit financing by the board and the lack of commitment for state funds for education have forced the issue of teachers salaries between the board and the association's salary committee.

Board Pres. Walter Sundling reiterated the board's promise to reopen the salary schedule if the state comes up with the educational funds of $550 per pupil.

SUNDLING ALSO told teachers that the board would reactivate the committee to consider the professional negotiating agreement the association has been seeking.

The committee is to meet before Aug. 1 but after the salary schedule is completed. Supt. E. F. Castor said he felt a negotiating contract between the association and the board was important and should have been finalized last fall.

Negotiations on a contract began last spring but were dropped and not resumed until this spring when the salary committee had already begun meeting.

Castor said that if the qualifying rate per pupil is not raised state aid funds in this district will be reduced.

The EA was placed on the agenda when George Yingst, EA salary committee chairman, read a letter to the board explaining the group's objections to the proposed salary schedule for next year.

At its May 21 meeting, the school board passed a pay schedule providing a $7,000 beginning salary and increment raises of 3.5 per cent. The EA is seeking a 4.5 per cent increment raise in order to keep experienced teachers in Dist. 15.

THE EA WANTS the board to call a referendum for a tax increase to obtain more salary money for experienced teachers if state aid is not increased to $550 per pupil by the state legislature. The board agreed in May to reevaluate the salary proposal if a large state aid increase in funds is passed. The legislature has not acted on any state aid to education funds proposals.

House Bill 1241 Delayed

by MARY DRESSER

As a result of extensive pressure from unincorporated areas, House Bill 1241 will be held up in the Senate to await further consideration this fall.

HB 1241 set up the mechanics to allow municipalities to annex contiguous unincorporated areas by ordinance.

Properly owners in unincorporated sections of Prospect Heights, Palatine, and Elk Grove, have been loud in their objections to HB 1241, contending the bill restricts their right to control the destiny of their own areas.

Opponents of the bill testified against it Tuesday.

Testimony for the bill was heard yesterday, but all indications are the Senate will ask for more time to consider the problem.

THE BILL WILL be referred to a senate subcommittee which will submit a final report to the senate committee in fall.

Meanwhile, the senate bill sponsor, Sen. Jack Knuepfer R-Elmhurst, will devote part of his summer to drafting an amendment to the bill that will satisfy irate property owners in unincorporated areas.

"Knuepfer will make a serious attempt to find out how to amend the bill to satisfy the legitimate concern of the people while preserving the heart and thrust of the bill," says State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, House sponsor of the bill.

"We hoped to pass the bill in the senate, but we just couldn't do it," Schlickman said.

TUESDAY, A busload of approximately 33 people from the incorporated area, lead by Mrs. Marie Caylor, arrived in Springfield to protest the bill before the Senate Municipal Corporations committee.

Besides residents of unincorporated areas, other opponents of the bill included a representative of Baxter Laboratories, speaking on behalf of the company, and also the Illinois Manufacturers Association of Lake County.

Other opponents were Troy Kost, executive secretary of the Township Officials of Illinois, Leyden Township officials, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, and the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

"I think the committee considered the opposition to the bill quite strong," Mrs. Caylor said.

MRS. CAYLOR SAYS committee chairman, Arthur Swanson, and committee members Arthur Bidwell, Bernard Neistein, and 13th Dist. Sen. John Graham, all said "they had never received so many letters of opposition to a bill as this."

The group, lead by Mrs. Caylor, delivered a petition signed by 5,316 people opposing the bill to Senators Russell Arrington and Graham.

She says signatures were obtained from 114 different communities in the northern section of Illinois.

"This included people in municipalities whom we felt were being disenfranchised by the bill," Mrs. Caylor told the Herald.

THE BUS CARRYING opponents of the bill left from Randhurst Shopping Center Tuesday at 10 a.m. and arrived in Springfield at 2 p.m. They spoke against the bill and left Springfield that evening.

"We were unaware until we got there that the committee would listen only to opponents of the bill yesterday," Mrs. Caylor said Wednesday. "We wanted to be there to hear proponents. We had expected the Senate committee's report to be heard."

Schlickman, who no longer has active control of the bill because it has gone to the senate, under Knuepfer's direction, says he met agreeably with the bill opponents.

SCHLICKMAN STILL expects passage of the bill after the summer cooling-off period.

When asked about the effects of the bill on his candidacy for the 13th Dist. House of Representatives seat, Schlickman said:

"I hope my stand will never be related to the candidacy. My record is my total approach used toward legislation. That is the thing to be considered."

Big Motel Complex Approved

It's official now that a 2,000 room motel on Algonquin Road near the tollway will be built in Rolling Meadows.

Tuesday night the city council formally approved annexation of the tract and necessary zoning in order to build the motel.

Total cost of the project, to be called the Royal Coach Motor Inn, is estimated to top $50 million and construction of the first stage with 600 rooms will be started within the next few weeks, according to representatives of the motel chain.

But one more bridge will have to be crossed before plans for the entire project gets a green light from the city.

AS THE THIRD phase, motel representatives would like to build a 20-story building containing 1,000 rooms. Approval of a height variation from the local zoning board of appeals is needed in order to do it.

The zoning board held a public hearing on the case Tuesday evening, but did not reach a final decision. It will be another couple of weeks before a vote is taken.

Royal Coach representatives said they believe there's a definite need for 2,000 more motel rooms in the area and is confident of the motel's success.

In addition to 600 rooms in a rambling three-story building, the first stage includes a dining room, gift shops, an indoor-outdoor swimming pool and a cabaret-type cocktail lounge.

THE SECOND STAGE will include 400 rooms and a large ballroom with a capacity for 1,400 people and will be started as soon as the first phase is completed.

About 1,000 more rooms will be added in the third phase.

Royal Coach representatives said they intend to include all 2,000 rooms in the project even if a height variation is not granted, but it would cause drastic changes in the existing plans.

Girl Scouts See Board in Action

Working toward a government badge, five Palatine girl scouts observed the board of trustees in action Monday night.

As part of the requirements for "My Government Badge," Carla Huth, Laurie Davis, Anne Wilson, Karen Yazel and Mary Hagan of Cadette Troop 612 watched the activities of their local government.

BADGE CONSULTANT Mrs. John Munson, president of the Palatine League of Women Voters accompanied the group.

In addition to their attendance at the board meeting, the girls have done extensive study on election and voting procedures, structure of government and taxing systems.

Leaders of the troop are Mrs. Joan Huth and Mrs. Jean Davis.

Parents View Sex Education

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

More than 200 parents were apparently happy with Dist. 15's sex education presentation Tuesday night.

Marion Omiatek, director of instruction for Dist. 15, conducted the presentation.

"We are trying to get the parents involved, we are glad to see a large turnout," he said. Only a few of the parents attending had seen the films at other meetings.

His program and talk impressed the parents, who then wanted him to speak to their children. Permission was granted by the parents and the board of education.

After 10 years, parents said they could no longer afford Fitch, and asked the board to pay for the presentation. This presentation had been shown to grades six and eight. The board agreed to pay for one year, but was not sure this was its role.

Then, Omiatek said, a pilot program was developed at Central School two years ago.

A parents committee investigated the need for sex education in the schools and met with consultants from professional groups and universities.

The study concluded the school feels prime responsibility for sex education is in the home. But as parents have difficulty talking to their children, the school could introduce the subject.

Omiatek stressed that the program was initiated by the parents.

He said that factual information is not enough. The program is concerned with developing attitudes and respect in the child for himself and others.

"The program wants the child to recognize the worth of each individual. You could call this the golden rule. Only in the frame work of realizing the worth and dignity of each individual, could the child handle the information," he said.

"RECOMMENDATIONS were made to write the curriculum and pilot the program in Central, Paddock, Winston Park and Salk schools," he said.

The family living curriculum includes human relations and responsibility, mental health and human growth and reproduction.

After the first year, the pilot was well accepted and was extended for another year. The first summer after implementa-

A Musical Parade

"Up With America" is the theme of the Palatine Jaycees' Fourth of July parade but it could just as well be "Music, Music, Music."

Spectators at the parade will learn that music will be plentiful.

"The noise quotient makes the parade," said chairman Al Sittaro, "and we're going to have plenty of noise."

Sittaro has 11 different music-making entries in the parade, ranging from the famous Fifth Army Marching band to the Northwest Ordinance Dixieland band.

Other music-makers will be a United States Marine Corps drum and bugle team, the Guardsmen Cadets drum and bugle corps, Singout Palatine, Delores Eiler School, Palatine High School band, Conant High School band, Sanborn-Wood School band, Plum Grove School band and the Palatine Village band.

IN ADDITION TO THE music, the parade also will have numerous floats, decorated cars and marching units such as scouts and YMCA youngsters and boys baseball players.

Three awards will be made this year: Grand Award, President's Award and Sweepstakes Award.

Parade judges will be Dr. Robert Lahti, president of Harper College; Charles E. Hayes, editor of Paddock Publications, and Robert Shepperd, of Leader Publications.

Sittaro said the parade will step off at 11:30 a.m. on July 4, rain or shine. It will assemble at Stuart Paddock School and march north on Greeley Street to Washington, east to Broadway Street, north to Wood Street and east to the Community Park.

FOLLOWING THE parade, the Jaycees day-long activities will be launched at Community Park.

Fourth of July speeches will be at a minimum, with Cook County Comm. Floyd Fuller making the major address.

Sittaro said parade entries will be closed June 20. Organizations interested in entering should write to the Palatine Jaycees, Box 344, Palatine, 60067.

A Herald Editorial

Help the YMCA

Countryside YMCA celebrated its first birthday this spring, and rarely has an organization that young enjoyed the kind of success Countryside has had.

Part of the success can be measured in terms of the number of persons who participated in YMCA programs.

More than 150 youngsters have participated or will participate this year in the YMCA's camping program.

About 700 fathers and sons participated in the Indian Guides program, an activity designed to foster better relationships between dads and their first, second and third grade sons.

More than 300 youngsters participated in learn-to-swim classes.

In addition, enrollment was at capacity in judo instruction, Scuba diving classes, men's physical fitness and numerous other programs.

The success of the new YMCA also can be measured in its plans for the future. Earlier this year, the board of directors agreed to purchase a 10-acre site on Northwest Highway, just north of Palatine, for future development for the YMCA. A timetable for building calls for the doors to open in 1972.

Unfortunately, the future success of the YMCA depends on the money available now. This year's sustaining membership drive has not met the goals set by the YMCA board and some of the programs are being threatened. The YMCA receives only 20 per cent of its operating costs from the fees it charges for programs. The major portion comes from memberships purchased by residents of the community the YMCA serves.

COUNTRYSIDE YMCA has been a welcome addition to Palatine, Rolling Meadows and the other communities it serves. We hope it can continue to serve without the threat of financial difficulties.

The YMCA will not allow donations larger than $100. It will accept anything smaller. We urge residents of the area to become members by calling the YMCA at 339-2400.

Sandburg to Graduate 300

More than 300 eighth graders will graduate from Carl Sandburg school Friday at 8 p.m. The commencement program will be held in the school gymnasium. Joel D. Meyer, board of education member, will deliver the address to the students and award diplomas.

Members of the graduating class are:

Scott Edward Meyer, David George Middleton, Jay Elzabeth Miller, John Ann Miller, William Joseph Miller, Susan Molar, Lynne E. NEA In Politics

In one more year, teachers in United States will have a political arm to lean on.

Dr. Donald Thomas, superintendent of School Dist. 59, told members of the Elk Grove Township Democratic organization that the National Education Association (NEA) will develop a political action arm and back candidates for office. Thomas, a director of the NEA, is part of a task force aimed at developing political action groups. Thomas told Elk Grove Democrats that his job on the task force is to develop the organization of a political arm of the NEA.

A recent three-day session in Washington, D.C., led NEA directors to follow guide lines already established by political arms of the AFL-CIO and the American Medical Association.

"TEACHERS HAVE never been effective on a national political scene. We feel it is time that a political arm be available to back candidates to support our goals," Thomas said.

The superintendent said money for the political group would be solicited from teachers across the country. The action group cannot be legally tied to the NEA as a professional organization. But NEA will control teacher's in politics through a board of directors. Thomas explained that teachers' although public employees, are exempt from the Hatch Act and so can participate politically.

"There are one million teachers not affiliated with any teachers organization," Thomas said. "Imagine what would have happened if those one million teachers had each donated one dollar and one million dollars would have gone in support of Hubert Humphrey."

Thomas told local Democrats that organized teachers could have made Hubert Humphrey president.

The political action group of the NEA will engage in politics at the national level. Its organization will also be available to some local candidates on an individual basis. To date, the organization will consist of a director and four lobbyists and a nationwide membership.

Thomas said the political action move may be approved by NEA directors at the Philadelphia convention this summer.

At the local level an organization such as the Illinois Citizens Committee, would be changed to a political action group by next year. The Illinois Citizens Committee has as one of its most active members Robert Haskell, principal of Elk Grove

Cheerleader Tryouts To Be Held Tomorrow

Palatine High School will hold tryouts for next year's cheerleading squad at 1 p.m. tomorrow, in the girl's gym. Any girl who will be attending the high school next year is eligible to try for a position on the squads. Two vacancies exist, and several freshman positions need to be filled. Jan Monier, sponsor of the cheerleading squad, said girls are asked to wear a dark skirt, white blouse and tennis shoes.

Demo Candidacy to Warman?

Three Democrat committeemen in the four-township area insisted Wednesday their candidate for 13th District congressman remains a question.

A reliable news source Tuesday night said Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie is a unanimous pick among the district's eight committeemen. None of the four area committeemen were at home Tuesday night for comment.

Following a Sunday screening session, the committeemen were to go back to their organizations for direction on selecting a candidate. Another meeting was set for June 19 for committeemen to decide their candidates.

The Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization met Tuesday night. Democrats in Palatine Township were to meet last night and Schaumburg Township is meeting Friday night.

James McCabe, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said his organization had authorized him to select a candidate even before initial screening began. McCabe said he knows who he will vote for, but will wait until the June 19 meeting to disclose his decision.

PETE GERLING, Palatine Township Democrat committeeman, said he has the field of 10 candidates narrowed down to "three or four." He specifically cited his preferences as Warman, Raymond S. True of Roselle and Milton Itakove, a political science professor. He said his party's executive board is also familiar with these candidates.

Elk Grove Township Democrat Committeeman Chester Chesney said his group is leaving the choice up to him. He favors two men — Warman and Itakove.

The Schaumburg township organization could not be reached for comment.

According to party leaders at the May 26 screening session, the question of a Democrat primary fight would depend on whether committeemen can agree on one candidate. Chesney said Wednesday he believes the committeemen will resolve the selection to only one man because there is little time and money and only six months before the next April election.

THE ELK GROVE Township committeeman said his fellow party leaders wanted an open primary but the regular organization wanted "to save all its ammunition for the general election."

"All organizations in the district are quite low on funds," Chesney said. "There are not as many fat cats when you're out of power as when you're in."

New Trier Township Committeeman Lynn Williams said Tuesday night that there is, among committeemen, "general indication of a favorable attitude toward Warman."

Williams also insisted, though, the question of a candidate and primary race is still open.

According to Williams, Warman's views on issues show: opposition to the Vietnam war to the point of unilateral withdrawal, if necessary, and opposition to excessive military spending and the ABM.

Warman blamed excessive military spending for inflation by pouring billions into the economy without putting any counterpart goods or services into the market to be bought with the money distributed, according to Williams.

"He also pointed out his record of independent voting in the state legislature and indicated his freedom of domination by machine politics," Williams said.

THE MAVERICK New Trier Democrat agreed with an analysis Warman is "not a Daley Democrat."

"It seemed to me that the positions he stated are very similar to those of Sen. Kennedy and Sen. McGovern."

Warman, 42, an attorney, is in his third term in the Illinois legislature, representing the 4th District. He serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees. He was named one of the best freshman legislators for his work in 1965 and 1966.

In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislators' award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

STRATEGY MEETING. Harper College coach Roy Kearns, center, meets with his two aces — Doug Mueller, left, and Bill Von Boeckmann — to discuss their chances in the National Tennis Finals of the NJCAA. Mueller, who is a graduate of Fremd High School, began gunning for the No.

2 singles crown last Wednesday at the Ocala, Fla. site. Von Boeckmann, who prepped at Arlington High School, is trying for the No. 1 singles title. The two also are entered in the doubles competition. See Monday's sports section for results on this meet.

23 Resigning From Dist. 15

The Dist. 15 School Board was expected to accept resignations from 23 staff members at last night's meeting.

Seven teachers are moving out of the area. They are Mrs. Ruth Mitchell, Carl Sandburg; Colette Woltering, Gray Sandburg; Laura Losie, Plum Grove; Mrs. Dixie Connor, Cardinal; Sharon Harris, Jane Addams; Mrs. Diane Kramer, Sandborn, and Mrs. Jacquelyn Feicht, Cardinal Drive.

Mrs. Lynn White, Sandburg; Mrs. Nancy Gengnagel, Salk, and Patricia Ann Beverly, Plum Grove, are accepting employment closer to home. Three resigning to work on advanced degrees are Margaret Hutchison, Marion Jordan, and Marilyn Baier, Sandburg.

SEVEN OTHERS resigning for other reasons are Catherine Corbett, Cardinal marriage; Mrs. Mary Ann Barnes, Pleasant Hill, maternity; Mrs. Penny Sternshein, Virginia Lake, leaving teaching; Mrs. Julia Martin, Winston Churchill, husband transferred; William Warner, Sandburg, accepting high school position; Ronald Coleman, Marion Jordan, service obligation, and Mrs. Marcella Lommen, Gray Sandborn, retiring by policy.

The board was also expected to accept four nonteacher staff resignations from Mrs. Corliss Ries, secretary to director of curriculum; Mrs. Louise Baker, worker in the business office; Robert Cook, Winston Churchill custodian, and Art Triebe, Winston Churchill night man.

ber and emotional and social development. Heredity, animal and plant growth are shown to the children. Plants are grown in the classroom and eggs are incubated and hatched.

It is stressed that humans are the highest form, they can love each other, "this then, is the true miracle of life," Omiatek said.

We seek to develop sensitivity for the good of others, not their exploitation, he said.

Our program gives the child insight into himself and enables him to set goals for himself, he added.

A film used in the third grade was shown, "Human and Animal Beginnings," and a fifth grade film, "Human Growth."

AFTER THE films, one parent asked what orientation is given to the teachers presenting the material.

Omiatek said there is no specific course taught, but consultants and other teachers talk to teachers about to begin the course. Pilot teachers prepare kits to help other teachers.

During orientation week, the program is presented to teachers new to the curriculum.

Asked results of the program, Omiatek suggested asking parents of children taking the course. One mother said the program had "gotten my daughter to come to me with her questions."

Another parent commented on the lack of fear the children made over the program. "They do not seem disturbed, the lack of comment shows they are sophisticated about this," she added. Children are exposed to much more now than before, they have more knowledge earlier.

Asked if there are Illinois approved films that would be shown, Omiatek said there are films existing that wouldn't be used. He said parents should ask the principals of their schools to see all films before their children do.

"IF YOU HAVE any objections, we want to know about them so we can change the program," he said.

A film used in the junior high classes, "Boy to Man," was shown.

Miss Juanita Swanson, a teacher at Winston park, said it has been shown to boys and girls together for the past two years. She said the children are not embarrassed, some girls in her class requested the class be shown it together.

Omiatek said one cause for controversy was the film's stating that masturbation is not harmful, and some religious groups feel this is not right. This is where the home comes in, he said. "We would refer a question on this to the home." One man said he would prefer to have a teacher inject a moral viewpoint on a question of this type. Omiatek said they try to present sex as something very special along with the values of human worth and dignity. He added if parents have any questions or objections they should talk to their principals or contact him.

Labor Leader Dies

WASHINGTON — John L. Lewis, whose mighty voice and righteous wrath dominated the American labor movement for half a century, died last night in Doctors Hospital. He was 89.

Lewis had been hospitalized since Sunday with an "acute illness." The doctor said the exact nature of the illness was not known. An autopsy is planned.

Decision Questioned

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Supreme Court was asked yesterday to investigate two of its members to determine whether "undue influence" was involved in the high court's ruling that blocked prosecution of former state revenue director Theodore Isaacs.

The court was petitioned to investigate the actions of Justice Ray Klingiel and Chief Justice Ray Solisburg Jr. The request was filed by Sherman Skolnick of Chicago.

Housing Resurrected

SPRINGFIELD — The open housing fight was resurrected yesterday in the Senate when the Republican majority voted 26-2 to send a series of bills to the committee most likely to kill them.

After an hour of debate, the measures which already passed the House were sent to the Registration and Miscellaneous Committee — perennial graveyard for such bills.

No Wage-Price Control

WASHINGTON — President Nixon will confer at 9 a.m. today with members of the House to consider alternative proposals to curb inflation if Congress does not extend the 10 per cent surtax, which appears will be the case.

It is believed that proposals under consideration are wage and price controls, although nothing is definite.

U.S. Is Back In Favor

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — After six years Cambodia has resumed diplomatic relations with the United States.

However, along with the agreement, the Cambodian government has demanded $8.5 million in reparations for damages caused by American planes using defoliants to search for Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

North Viets Repelled

SAIGON — About 100 North Vietnamese troops broke through the outer perimeter of a U.S. Army artillery base briefly yesterday and were driven out after the defenders lowered their artillery pieces to ground level and fired point-blank.

Fourteen Americans were killed, while the enemy lost at least 27 in the action at the 19th Infantry Brigade Artillery base, 340 miles north-northeast of Saigon, U.S. spokesmen said.

Policemen Acquitted

CHICAGO — A federal court jury yesterday found three Chicago policemen innocent in the beating of a newsman during the Democratic National Convention week disorders.

The jury acquitted the trio on the charge that they deprived a Chicago Daily News reporter of his civil rights by beating him. U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry said he was "in harmony" with the jury's decision.

Tax Hike Vote Is Hinted

At its meeting last night, the Dist. 33 School Board told 75 teachers of the Educator's Association it would consider proposing a tax rate increase to voters in the fall to meet the salary schedule.

Deficit financing by the board and the lack of commitment for state funds for education have forced the issue of teachers' salaries between the board and the association's salary committee.

Board Pres. Walter Sundling reiterated the board's promise to reopen the salary schedule if the state comes up with the educational funds of $550 per pupil.

SUNDLING ALSO told teachers that the board would reactivate the committee to consider the professional negotiating agreement the association has been seeking.

The committee is to meet before Aug. 1 but after the salary schedule is completed.

Supt. E. F. Castor said he felt a negotiating contract between the association and the board was important and should have been finalized last fall.

Negotiations on a contract began last spring but were dropped and not resumed until this spring when the salary committee had already begun meeting.

Castor said that if the qualifying rate per pupil is not raised state aid funds in this district will be reduced.

The EA was placed on the agenda when George Yingst, EA salary committee chairman, read a letter to the board explaining the group's objections to the proposed salary schedule for next year.

At its May 21 meeting, the school board passed a pay schedule providing a $7,000 beginning salary and increment raises of 3.5 per cent. The EA is seeking a 4.5 per cent increment raise in order to keep experienced teachers in Dist. 15.

THE EA WANTS the board to call a referendum for a tax increase to obtain more salary money for experienced teachers if state aid is not increased to $550 per pupil by the state legislature. The board agreed in May to reevaluate the salary proposal if a large state aid increase in funds is passed. The legislature has not acted on any state aid to education funds proposals.

Boundary Truce

Long-lasting boundary disputes between Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows was conditionally ended Tuesday night with the city's adoption of an official agreement, but nothing is final yet.

Rolling Meadows aldermen unanimously approved the agreement, but with reluctance.

They're hoping to gain the dismissal of two lawsuits concerning the Isenstein-Parker tract near Algonquin, Golf and the Tollway filed by Arlington Heights almost a year ago.

In official action June 2, the Arlington Heights Village Board agreed to drop the lawsuits, but it's not going to be easy.

ALONG WITH THE village are about 40 homeowners living north of Algonquin, who are co-defendants in the suit.

"If Arlington Heights drops suit and the homeowners don't, the agreement adopted Tuesday night will be rescinded," predicted Don Rose, Rolling Meadows City Attorney.

Withdrawal of the suits by Arlington Heights depends on what action the homeowners take, according to Jack Siegel, attorney for the village.

HOWEVER, ALDERMAN William Ahrens said Tuesday night he had heard from a resident in the area that if homeowners agreed to drop the suit against Rolling Meadows they probably would decide to sue Arlington Heights.

Siegel said he will be meeting with residents of the area in the near future. The village has agreed to use its influence to convince homeowners to drop suit, according to Rose.

In return, Rolling Meadows has agreed to certain conditions concerning land development at the city's southeastern edge.

Of primary significance is the city's willingness not to annex property east of new Wilke Road between Central Road and Kirchhoff which is the last remaining tract of unincorporated land between the two municipalities.

However, a petition for annexation of the 25-acre tract already has been filed and a public hearing will be held.

BUT IF ALL THE stipulations of the recently adopted agreement are met, city officials probably will be willing to give it up, according to Mayor Roland Meyer.

In other sections of the agreement, Rolling Meadows agrees to restrict development of the Isenstein-Park property emphasizing the screening of certain commercial property near Arlington Heights including gas stations, drive-ins, garages and other types of commercial property.

Also the agreement limits the heights of any buildings to 40 feet and construction is limited to masonry material.

Big Motel Approved

It's official now that a 2,000 room motel on Algonquin Road near the tollway will be built in Rolling Meadows.

Tuesday night the city council formally approved annexation of the tract and necessary zoning in order to build the motel.

Total cost of the project, to be called the Royal Coach Motor Inn, is estimated to top $50 million and construction of the first stage with 600 rooms will be started within the next few weeks, according to representatives of the motel chain.

But one more bridge will have to be crossed before plans for the entire project gets a green light from the city.

AS THE THIRD phase, motel representatives would like to build a 20-story building containing 1,000 rooms. Approval of a height variation from the local zoning board of appeals is needed in order to do it.

The zoning board held a public hearing on the case Tuesday evening, but did not reach a final decision. It will be another couple of weeks before a vote is taken.

Royal Coach representatives said they believe there's a definite need for 2,000 more motel rooms in the area and is confident of the motel's success.

In addition to 600 rooms in a rambling three-story building, the first stage includes a dining room, gift shops, an indoor-outdoor swimming pool and a cabaret-type cocktail lounge.

THE SECOND STAGE will include 400 rooms and a large ballroom with a capacity for 1,400 people and will be started as soon as the first phase is completed.

About 1,000 more rooms will be added in the third phase.

Royal Coach representatives said they intend to include all 2,000 rooms in the project even if a height variation is not granted, but it would cause drastic changes in the existing plans.

DONEGAL, THE DOG, seems as happy as owner Laura Keplinger (right) and Nancy Walker that proposed legislation regulating sale of pets was defeated. The girls, students at Oliver Wendell Holmes School, actively campaigned against the bills while they were pending before House and Senate.

Girls Help Defeat Pet Bills

by JOAN KLUSMAN

"If you give baby animals to a store and they sell them, you're never really sure what kind of a home they get," said 11-year-old Laura Keplinger, a successful campaigner against proposed legislation to prohibit the sale of pets by individuals.

When her father, William Keplinger, 306 W. Victoria Lane, Arlington Heights, brought home a copy of "The National Observer," Laura noticed an article about two bills in Springfield to limit pet sales. She immediately went into action.

She and classmates Nancy Walker and Linda Dreiling prepared signs informing residents that the bills would stop sales of mammals, fish, birds and reptiles by their owners. The posters read, "We need your help to defeat these bills."

Including their phone numbers on the signs, the girls posted them in local stores and businesses. One man, attracted by the sign, did call Laura and told her he was in sympathy with her fight.

THIS WEEK THE girls learned they fought a successful battle. State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, informed Laura that both bills were defeated in the legislature. Happy at the outcome, she said "Some people would really have been affected by the bills. Turtles have babies all the time."

A student at Oliver Wendell Holmes School, Laura has just one pet, a dog named Donegal.

Mrs. Keplinger, delighted with the girls' activity, said she and her husband were amazed that students of this age would take such an intense interest in legislation.

"Many adults sit around, argue and complain, but never do anything about it. We think this is a good sign," she said.

Parents View Sex Education

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

More than 200 parents were apparently happy with Dist. 15's sex education presentation Tuesday night.

Marion Omiatek, director of instruction for Dist. 15, conducted the presentation.

"We are trying to get the parents involved, we are glad to see a large turnout," he said. Only a few of the parents attending had seen the films at other meetings.

Omiatek had stated previously that most of the parents objecting to the sex education curriculum had not seen the films or the guidebooks.

HE SAID THE interest in sex education started 15 years ago when the PTA invited Dr. Franklin Fitch, executive director of the Illinois Hygiene League, to one of their meetings.

His program and talk impressed the parents, who then wanted him to speak to their children. Permission was granted by the parents and the board of education.

After 10 years, parents said they could no longer afford Fitch, and asked the board to pay for the presentation. This presentation had been shown to grades six and eight. The board agreed to pay for one year, but was not sure this was its role.

Then, Omiatek said, a pilot program was developed at Central School two years ago.

A parents committee investigated the need for sex education in the schools and met with consultants from professional groups and universities.

The study concluded the school feels prime responsibility for sex education is in the home. But as parents have difficulty talking to their children, the school could introduce the subject.

Omiatek stressed that the program was initiated by the parents.

He said that factual information is not enough. The program is concerned with developing attitudes and respect in the child for himself and others.

"The program wants the child to recognize the worth of each individual. You could call this the golden rule. Only in the frame work of realizing the worth and dignity of each individual, could the child handle the information," he said.

"RECOMMENDATIONS were made to write the curriculum and pilot the program in Central, Paddock, Winston Park and Salk schools," he said.

The family living curriculum includes human relations and responsibility, mental health and human growth and reproduction.

After the first year, the pilot was well accepted and was extended for another year. The first summer after implementation, a committee revised the curriculum.

After two years, it was recommended to the district to start the program in other schools, Omiatek said. "For the last year, we have been meeting with nonpilot schools," he said.

One of the most important points in this is the formation of two agencies, the building and parents committees, he said.

The building committee consists of a representative of each grade level and works with the principal to review objectives and how it will be introduced in the school, Omiatek explained.

The parents committee is a communications link between the home and school, it is not intended to be a "rubber stamp of the administration," he said.

The parents can help the administration know what is happening if it is in the wrong. "The curriculum has been revised twice, the family living program is trying to achieve noble purposes and can stand improvement," Omiatek said.

HE EXPLAINED the parents can help the schools know what specifics need revision. The building and parent committees can and have changed the curriculum.

The intent of the curriculum is to achieve a goal, if the majority of parents didn't want it, it wouldn't be there, he said. He added it is not a compulsory item in the curriculum, no child is compelled to go.

A slide series was shown, giving an outline of the family living program through the grades. It is designed to help the child understand himself, his growth and his feelings.

Omiatek said the family living section can be easily correlated with other studies. It stresses being a good family mem-

WHEN THE RADIO snaps and crackles the right code number, Ruth Brandow will pick you up at your doorstep. She drives a taxi for the Prospect Cab Company, and she's as comfortable behind the wheel as she is in a big armchair. Her day is all stop and go but she wouldn't have it any other way. "I love to drive, and I doubt if I could find another job that I'd enjoy as much as this one, despite the traffic and the suburban housewife who just learned to drive."

Women Enjoy Wheeling Fares

by GERRY DEZONNA

For two working girls in Mount Prospect, the day doesn't go smoothly unless they've got their wheels in motion.

Mrs. Ruth Brandow and Mrs. Sue Brown drive taxis for the Prospect Cab Co., and they both agree their jobs behind the wheel are more interesting than any job behind a desk.

"I've been driving a cab for one year, and I think it's one of the greatest jobs because every day is different. The job isn't routine, and I meet so many people who make my day interesting," said Mrs. Brandow, a bouncy brunette who's the mother of three children.

My kids think it's great their mother is a cab driver, especially my older boy. Not too many women drive taxis, but more and more are taking to the road every day. Anyway I'm always in the neighborhood and close to home which I like."

Mrs. Brown, whose children number five, is a petite blonde with a big smile and a way with people. "I really like working with the public. Regardless of how grumpy or unfriendly people are when they step into the cab, they always strike up a conversation with the driver. I think driving a taxi is easy. It's no different from an ordinary car, except you have to learn how to operate the meter and the radio, which aren't too complicated."

THE COMPANY RUNS a close tab on its girls to avoid any uncomfortable or unnecessary chances. Bob Burkes, the owner, has employed three girls, and it's a cardinal rule that his women drivers are off the streets by dark.

"We've never had any trouble, but it's a precaution. The dispatcher will never send a woman driver to claim a customer who has spent the day at a bar or cocktail lounge, especially if there's any doubt about his condition," Burkes said.

"I've never had any trouble with drinkers because we just don't pick them up. We'll radio for one of the men," Mrs. Brandow said. "But the other day, a college student from Iran gave me a bit of a scare."

"He was a little hostile when I picked him up at a gas station in Elk Grove. He was very polite, but he kept telling me how much he hated everyone. I held my breath all the way to the Des Plaines depot where I dropped him off. He told me he had been looking for a job, and the employers in the area hadn't been very friendly."

Both the women are accustomed to the

by EDITH FREUND

Saturday, Dist. 57 will hold a referendum seeking $20,000 for a stage addition to Fairview School and $500,000 toward a $1,017,000 addition at Lincoln Junior High School that will convert it to the only junior high school in the district.

The school board plans to use $400,000 plus that it will glean from one of the three bids it has in hand on Central School to add to the referendum funds in financing the Lincoln building.

This week, the Herald asked Richard Percy, new assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum, what the advantages might be for the student in a one-junior high educational program.

"You first must consider the junior high student. He is unique," Percy said. He is going through the period of his greatest growth and making some of his most difficult adjustments. It is necessary to have a staff that is attuned to his needs that understands his needs. This kid, and I say that with affection, may feel on top of the world today and at the bottom of it tomorrow. He may feel his head is too small or his nose too big. Somehow we have to teach around these feelings."

Percy said junior high is a time when students should sample a great many things so that later, when they are pressed to make choices in high school and college, they will have some basis for making a decision.

"We should offer him as much variety as we economically can in junior high," Percy said. "And in a junior high population of approximately 900 to 1,000 you will usually find 20 to 30 students who have like talents or needs."

By grouping students according to interests they may have or talents the school district feels should be developed, the district can afford to offer a class to them.

"In a smaller school you might have seven students who have talent in creative writing. Should you refuse to offer a class for them on the grounds that it isn't economically feasible, or should you dilute their talent with 12 others who are good students in language arts but have shown no writing talent? In a larger school population you will have the 20 writing students."

"I also think it is important that we teach these students to be flexible and to be able to accept change. Our society is changing so quickly it is almost impossible to establish a firm base and say 'This is it.' Students must learn to make their decisions on the basis of changing data," Percy said.

PERCY SAID SCHOOL library collections are expensive to build and one excellent library is more feasible than two. "We have a fine start toward the kind of library needed for a junior high, today. I think it is also important that we emphasize the type of help the student will receive from school librarians who are trained to help someone of his age level and who are familiar with the school curriculum," Percy said.

Modular scheduling in blocks of twenty minutes will allow greater flexibility in use of staff, classrooms and subject matter, Percy said. The modular plan also includes a closed lunch hour when the students will not return home for lunch. The district plans to offer a modified hot lunch program.

Students who live more than a mile and a half from Lincoln will be bused to the school at district expense. Pick-up will be arranged similar to high school busing, a board member said. The busing will include students who live south of Lincoln outside the mileage limit as well as north of the railroad.

Four polling places will be open Saturday — Lions Park, Lincoln, Busse and Fairview. Polls will be open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

RICHARD PERCY: "You must consider the junior high school student."

NOT ONLY CAN she pump gas and check the oil, but Ruth Brandow is tough to beat behind the wheel. She drives a taxi for the Prospect Cab Co., and come rain or shine she's on the job at 6 a.m. to give people a morning lift.

Women on Wheels

Strange looks they first receive from male passengers. They matter underneath their breath. "It's a woman," and then they make the sign of the cross and step into the cab reluctantly," said Mrs. Brown.

"BUT THE GREATEST compliment is from a man who's enjoyed his ride, and when he gets to his destination, he admits that you're a good driver," added Mrs. Brandow.

Driving passengers to O'Hare Airport is considered the best run, and Chicago-bound customers rank second. "I've driven a lot of businessmen to the airport, and some of them, if they have to catch an early morning flight, dress in the cab."

"One regular customer of mine is a young woman, his shirt, tying his shoe, and putting on his tie on the way to O'Hare. At 6 a.m. I expect to see him with a better-operated shaver," Mrs. Brandow said.

"One day I had a call to pick up a customer at the grocery store in Arlington Heights," Mrs. Brown said. "I was wearing a nice, ruffled blouse, and sunglasses. As I got out of the cab to help the lady, her four children, and the groceries into the car, a man on the sidewalk asked me, 'You're going to trust your kids with that driver?'"

"I DIDN'T SAY anything, and on the way to the woman's home she told me the man thought I was a fellow, a hippie to be more exact. See what I mean about meeting all kinds of people on this job?"

"I know what you mean," echoes Mrs. Brandow. "I drove a customer to one of

Debate Aid Issue

State aid to nonpublic schools, one of the hottest issues facing the legislature this session, will be debated at the Wheeling Township Republican Organization meeting at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be in the VFW Hall, York and Chicago Highway, Arlington Heights.

Debate participants will be State Rep. Edna and Copeland, D-Chicago, chief sponsor of the bill providing aid to nonpublic schools, and Mrs. Peggy Norton, state PTA leader, chairman and the PTA's lobbyist in Springfield.

COPLAND IS a two-term Republican legislator from Chicago's 19th District and a lawyer who was graduated from Carlton College and the Northwestern University law school. His bill HB 1116, is one of two bills in the Senate Education committee after having passed the House.

HB 1116 provides for grants of $60 per student, and $90 per private school student, payable to private schools at a rate of 100 percent.

Mrs. Norton, a Chicagoan, has been in Springfield all session testifying at committee hearings maintaining the PTA's strong stance against nonpublic school aid. Her organization's arguments center around the state's financial bind and its responsibility to meet the public school needs last.

MRS. NORTON HAS appeared in this area as a speaker at League of Women Voters' legislative workshops and at PTA press conferences focusing on legislative issues.

Demo Candidacy to Warman?

Three Democrat committeemen in the four-township area insisted Wednesday their candidate for 13th District congressman remains a question.

A reliable news source Tuesday night said Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie is a unanimous pick among the district's eight committeemen. None of the four area committeemen were at home Tuesday night for comment.

Following a Sunday screening session, the committeemen were to go back to their organizations for direction on selecting a candidate. Another meeting was set for June 19 for committeemen to decide their candidates.

The Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization met Tuesday night. Democrats in Palatine Township were to meet last night and Schaumburg Township is meeting Friday night.

James McCabe, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said his organization had authorized him to select a candidate even before initial screening began. McCabe said he knows who he will vote for, but will wait until the June 19 meeting to disclose his decision.

PETE GERLING, Palatine Township Democrat committeeman, said he has the field of 10 candidates narrowed down to "three or four." He specifically cited his preferences as Warman, Raymond S. True of Roselle and Milton Rakove, a political science professor. He said his party's executive board is also familiar with these candidates.

Elk Grove Township Democrat Committeeman Chester Chesney said his group is leaving the choice up to him. He favors two men — Warman and Rakove.

The Schaumburg township organization could not be reached for comment.

According to party leaders at the May 26 screening session, the question of a Democrat primary fight would depend on whether committeemen can agree on one candidate. Chesney said Wednesday he believes the committeemen will resolve the selection to only one man because there is little time and money and only six months before the next April election.

THE ELK GROVE Township committeeman said his fellow party leaders wanted an open primary but the regular organization wanted "to save all its ammunition for the general election."

"All organizations in the district are quite low on funds," Chesney said. "There are not as many fat cats when you're out of power as when you're in."

New Trier Township Committeeman

Lynn Williams said Tuesday night that there is, among committeemen, "general indication of a favorable attitude toward Warman."

Williams also insisted, though, the question of a candidate and primary race is still open.

According to Williams, Warman's views on issues show "opposition to the Vietnam war to the point of unilateral withdrawal, if necessary, and opposition to excessive military spending and the ABM."

Warman blamed excessive military spending for inflation by pouring billions into the economy without putting any counterpart goods or services into the market to be bought with the money distributed, according to Williams.

"He also pointed out his record of independent voting in the state legislature and indicated his freedom of domination by machine politics," Williams said.

THE MAVERICK New Trier Democrat agreed with an analysis Warman is "not a Daley Democrat."

"It seemed to me that the positions he stated are very similar to those of Sen. Kennedy and Sen. McGovern."

Warman, 42, an attorney, is in his third term in the Illinois legislature, representing the 4th District. He serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees. He was named one of the best freshman legislators for his work in 1965 and 1966.

In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislators' award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

House Bill 1241 Delayed

by MARY DRESSER

As a result of extensive pressure from unincorporated areas, House Bill 1241 will be held up in the Senate to await further consideration this fall.

HB 1241 set up the mechanics to allow municipalities to annex contiguous unincorporated areas by ordinance.

Property owners in unincorporated sections of Prospect Heights, Palatine, and Elk Grove, have been loud in their objections to HB 1241, contending the bill restricts their right to control the destiny of their own areas.

Opponents of the bill testified against it Tuesday.

Testimony for the bill was heard yesterday, but all indications are the Senate will ask for more time to consider the problem.

THE BILL WILL be referred to a senate subcommittee which will submit a final report to the senate committee in fall.

Meanwhile, the senate bill sponsor, Sen. Jack Kneuper R-Elmhurst, will devote part of his summer to drafting an amendment to the bill that will satisfy irate property owners in unincorporated areas.

"Kneuper will make a serious attempt to find out how to amend the bill to satisfy the legitimate concern of the people while preserving the heart and thrust of the bill," says State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, House sponsor of the bill.

"We hoped to pass the bill in the senate, but we just couldn't do it," Schlickman said.

TUESDAY, A busload of approximately 33 people from the incorporated area, lead by Mrs. Marie Caylor, arrived in Springfield to protest the bill before the Senate Municipal Corporations committee.

Besides residents of unincorporated areas, other opponents of the bill included a representative of Baxter Laboratories, speaking on behalf of the company, and also the Illinois Manufacturers Association of Lake County.

Other opponents were Troy Kost, executive secretary of the Township Officials of Illinois, Leyden Township officials, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, and the Illinois Manufacturers Association.

"I think the committee considered the opposition to the bill quite strong," Mrs. Caylor said.

MRS. CAYLOR SAYS committee chairman, Arthur Swanson, and committee members Arthur Bidwell, Bernard Neistein, and 13th Dist. Sen. John Graham, all said "they had never received so many letters of opposition to a bill as this."

The group, lead by Mrs. Caylor, delivered a petition signed by 5,916 people opposing the bill to Senators Russell Arrington and Graham.

She says signatures were obtained from 114 different communities in the northern section of Illinois.

"This included people in municipalities whom we felt were being disenfranchised by the bill," Mrs. Caylor told the Herald.

THE BUS CARRYING opponents of the bill left from Randhurst Shopping Center Tuesday at 10 a.m. and arrived in Springfield at 2 p.m. They spoke against the bill and left Springfield that evening.

"We were unaware until we got there that the committee would listen only to opponents of the bill yesterday," Mrs. Caylor said Wednesday. "We wanted to be there to hear proponents. We had expected the Senate committee's report to be heard."

Schlickman, who no longer has active control of the bill because it has gone to the senate, under Kneuper's direction, says he met agreeably with the bill opponents.

SCHLICKMAN STILL expects passage of the bill after the summer cooling-off period.

When asked about the effects of the bill on his candidacy for the 13th Dist. House of Representatives seat, Schlickman said: "I hope my stand will never be related to the candidacy. My record is my total approach used toward legislation. That is the thing to be considered."

He's six-foot tall, balding, and he prefers kangaroos.

Bill Gappert, president of the Young Republicans of Elk Grove Township, which now has 25 members, is an easy going fellow who believes world travel is broadening, and he's flown half-way around the world to prove it.

"I toured the states as a boy . . . San Francisco is still my favorite place . . . and now I'm touring the world."

"A few years ago I went to Hawaii, Tahiti and Australia. Last year I went to Europe, but I didn't enjoy it as much as Australia. It's too Americanized. So a few months ago I went back to Australia for a month."

"It's still in the distant future, but I'd like to make my next trek to the British Isles and tour the country by motorcycle," he said.

GAPPERT, 33 and single, is a purchasing agent for Fuze-On Products, 1620 W. Central Road, Mount Prospect. He lives in an unincorporated area near Arlington Heights with his parents.

A man who believes planning and organization are the keys to success, Gappert said he methodically plans both his work and his leisure time activities.

"I don't have any political ambitions, but I do want to stay and grow with my company. A man once told me if you think like a peanut, you'll be a peanut. I believe him. You have to think big."

Gappert wears a small kangaroo button in his lapel, instead of the traditional GOP elephant.

WHEN ASKED about it, he said, "I got it in Australia. It doesn't mean anything, but I believe in being an individual, so I wear it. Of course there's a limit to being an individual, too. I don't think it should go to the point of leading demonstrations against police or the war in Vietnam."

Gappert, who lived on the northwest side of Chicago until he was 11, graduated from Arlington High School in 1954 and earned a degree in geology from Colorado College in 1959. After graduation, he served a six month hitch in the Army and came back to work for Fuze-On, where he has been ever since.

he is now interested in learning to sail.

A golf and ski enthusiast, Gappert says "I'm going to take sailing lessons soon and after that, I hope to get a boat. Only trouble is finding a place to moor it. I checked on several places in Chicago and most of them have a three year waiting list. The nearest I can get is in Kenosha and that's too far to be convenient," he said.

GAPPERT said he believes in personal involvement and joining the Young Republicans is one way he gets it. "You should know what issues are important to your area, and who your representatives are. It's your duty as a citizen."

Then with a quick nod of his head, Gappert checked his wristwatch, which is attached to a thick leather band and said, "Time to get back to the office. I have a lot of work to do yet today." And the interview was over.

Dist. 59 Seeks Advance

A request for an advance on incoming tax money has been received by Elk Grove Township from School Dist. 59.

A letter to township officials from the district disclosed that Dist. 59 would like to have some money ahead of the normal distribution of the tax funds.

Lou Audi, Dist. 59 finance director, said the request is simply to keep the district apprised of the amount of delay expected in the disbursement of the money.

The district has never requested an advance before, but the tax bills "have never been this late before," Audi said.

ELK GROVE Township Collector Arnold Scharringhausen said he felt confident that the district may receive some $200,000 in advance money, but preferred to further study the matter before a definite commitment was made by his office.

In seeking an advance on incoming tax money, Dist. 59 shares the plight of many other local taxing districts. The money is coming in very late and some budgets are stretched to their limit.

Six Win Awards In Phy Ed Event

Six students from Mount Prospect and Des Plaines were awarded trophies for their achievements in St. Emily's Annual Physical Education Program this spring.

More than 1,000 students at St. Emily's School in Des Plaines competed in the program. In the boys' competition, James Bucaro won first place honors, while Terry Monahan and Donald Balas received second and third place awards.

In the girls' competition, Kathy LaPorte finished first, her sister Margaret placed, and Holly Norwick won the third place trophy.

Labor Leader Dies

WASHINGTON — John L. Lewis, whose mighty voice and righteous wrath dominated the American labor movement for half a century, died last night in Doctors Hospital. He was 89.

Lewis had been hospitalized since Sunday with an "acute illness." The doctor said the exact nature of the illness was not known. An autopsy is planned.

Decision Questioned

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Supreme Court was asked yesterday to investigate two of its members to determine whether "undue influence" was involved in the high court's ruling that blocked prosecution of former state revenue director Theodore Isaacs.

The court was petitioned to investigate the actions of Justice Ray Klingiel and Chief Justice Ray Solisburg Jr. The request was filed by Sherman Skolnick of Chicago.

Housing Resurrected

SPRINGFIELD — The open housing fight was resurrected yesterday in the Senate when the Republican majority voted 26-2 to send a series of bills to the committee most likely to kill them.

After an hour of debate, the measures which already passed the House were sent to the Registration and Miscellaneous Committee — perennial graveyard for such bills.

No Wage-Price Control

WASHINGTON — President Nixon will confer at 9 a.m. today with members of the House to consider alternative proposals to curb inflation if Congress does not extend the 10 per cent surtax, which appears will be the case.

It is believed that proposals under consideration are wage and price controls, although nothing is definite.

U.S. Is Back In Favor

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — After six years Cambodia has resumed diplomatic relations with the United States.

However, along with the agreement, the Cambodian government has demanded $8.6 million in reparations for damages caused by American planes using defoliants to search for Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

North Viets Repelled

SAIGON — About 100 North Vietnamese troops broke through the outer perimeter of a U.S. Army artillery base briefly yesterday and were driven out after the defenders lowered their artillery pieces to ground level and fired point-blank.

Fourteen Americans were killed, while the enemy lost at least 27 in the action at the 196th Infantry Brigade Artillery base, 340 miles north-northeast of Saigon, U.S. spokesmen said.

Policemen Acquitted

CHICAGO — A federal court jury yesterday found three Chicago policemen innocent in the beating of a newsman during the Democratic National Convention week disorders.

The jury acquitted the trio on the charge that they deprived a Chicago Daily News reporter of his civil rights by beating him. U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry said he was "in harmony" with the jury's decision.

WHEN THE RADIO snaps and crackles the right code number, Ruth Brandow will pick you up at your doorstep. She drives a taxi for the Prospect Cab Company, and she's as comfortable behind the wheel as she is in a big armchair. Her day is all stop and go but she wouldn't have it any other way. "I love to drive, and I doubt if I could find another job that I'd enjoy as much as this one, despite the traffic and the suburban housewife who just learned to drive."

Women Enjoy Wheeling Fares

by GERRY DEZONNA

For two working girls in Mount Prospect, the day doesn't go smoothly unless they've got their wheels in motion.

Mrs. Ruth Brandow and Mrs. Sue Brown drive taxis for the Prospect Cab Co., and they both agree their jobs behind the wheel are more interesting than any job behind a desk.

"I've been driving a cab for one year, and I think it's one of the greatest jobs because every day is different. The job isn't routine, and I meet so many people who make my day interesting," said Mrs. Brandow, a bouncy brunette who's the mother of three children.

"My kids think it's great their mother is a cab driver, especially my older boy. Not too many women drive taxis, but more and more are taking to the road every day. Anyway, I'm always in the neighborhood and close to home which I like."

Mrs. Brown, whose children number five, is a petite blonde with a big smile and a way with people. "I really like working with the public. Regardless of how grumpy or unfriendly people are when they step into the cab, they always strike up a conversation with the driver. I think driving a taxi is easy. It's no different from an ordinary car, except you have to learn how to operate the meter and the radio, which aren't too complicated."

THE COMPANY RUNS a close tab on its girls to avoid any uncomfortable or unnecessary chances. Bob Burkes, the owner, has employed three girls, and it's a cardinal rule that his women drivers are off the streets by dark.

"We've never had any trouble, but it's a precaution. The dispatcher will never send a woman driver to claim a customer who has spent the day at a bar or cocktail lounge, especially if there's any doubt about his condition," Burkes said.

"I've never had any trouble with drinkers because we just don't pick them up. We'll radio for one of the men," Mrs. Brandow said. "But the other day, a college student from Iran gave me a bit of a scare."

"He was a little hostile when I picked him up at a gas station in Elk Grove. He was very polite, but he kept telling me how much he hated everyone. I held my breath all the way to the Des Plaines depot where I dropped him off. He told me he had been looking for a job, and the employers in the area hadn't been very friendly."

by EDITH FREUND

Saturday, Dist. 57 will hold a referendum seeking $20,000 for a stage addition to Fairview School and $588,000 toward a $1,017,000 addition at Lincoln Junior High School that will convert it to the only junior high school in the district.

The school board plans to use $400,000 plus that it will glean from one of the three bids it has in hand on Central School to add to the referendum funds in financing the Lincoln building.

This week, the Herald asked Richard Percy, new assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum, what the advantages might be for the student in a one-junior high educational program.

"You first must consider the junior high student. He is unique," Percy said. "He is going through the period of his greatest growth and making some of his most difficult adjustments. It is necessary to have a staff that is attuned to his needs, that understands his needs. This kid, and I say that with affection, may feel on top of the world today and at the bottom of it tomorrow. He may feel his head is too small or his nose too big. Somehow, we have to teach around these feelings."

Percy said junior high is a time when students should sample a great many things so that later, when they are pressed to make choices in high school and college, they will have some basis for making a decision.

"We should offer him as much variety

as we economically can in junior high," Percy said. "And in a junior high population of approximately 900 to 1,000 you will usually find 20 to 30 students who have like talents or needs."

By grouping students according to interests they may have or talents the school district feels should be developed, the district can afford to offer a class to them.

"In a smaller school you might have seven students who have talent in creative writing. Should you refuse to offer a class for them on the grounds that it isn't economically feasible, or should you dilute their talent with 12 others who are good students in language arts, but have shown no writing talent? In a larger school population you will have the 20 writing students."

"I also think it is important that we teach these students to be flexible and to be able to accept change. Our society is changing so quickly it is almost impossible to establish a firm base and say 'This is it.' Students must learn to make their decisions on the basis of changing data," Percy said.

PERCY SAID SCHOOL library collections are expensive to build and one excellent library is more feasible than two. "We have a fine start toward the kind of library needed for a junior high, today. I think it is also important that we emphasize the type of help the student will receive from school librarians who are trained to help someone of his age level and who are familiar with the school curriculum," Percy said.

Modular scheduling in blocks of twenty minutes will allow greater flexibility in use of staff, classrooms and subject matter, Percy said. The modular plan also includes a closed lunch hour when the students will not return home for lunch. The district plans to offer a modified hot lunch program.

Students who live more than a mile and a half from Lincoln will be bused to the school at district expense. Pick-up will be arranged similar to high school busing, a board member said. The busing will include students who live south of Lincoln outside the mileage limit as well as north of the railroad.

Four polling places will be open Saturday — Lions Park, Lincoln, Busse and Fairview. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

RICHARD PERCY: "You must consider the junior high school student."

Boundary Fight Truce

Long-lasting boundary disputes between Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows were conditionally ended Tuesday night with the city's adoption of an official agreement, but nothing is final yet.

Rolling Meadows aldermen unanimously approved the agreement, but with reluctance.

They're hoping to gain the dismissal of two lawsuits concerning the Isenstein-Parker tract near Algonquin, Golf and the Tollway filed by Arlington Heights almost a year ago.

In official action June 2, the Arlington Heights Village Board agreed to drop the lawsuits, but it's not going to be easy.

ALONG WITH THE village are about 40 homeowners living north of Algonquin, who are co-defendants in the suit.

"If Arlington Heights drops suit and the homeowners don't, the agreement adopted Tuesday night will be rescinded," predicted Don Rose, Rolling Meadows City Attorney.

Withdrawal of the suits by Arlington Heights depends on what action the homeowners take, according to Jack Siegel, attorney for the village.

HOWEVER, ALDERMAN William Ahrens said Tuesday night he had heard from a resident in the area that if homeowners agreed to drop the suit against Rolling Meadows they probably would decide to sue Arlington Heights.

Siegel said he will be meeting with residents of the area in the near future. The village has agreed to use its influence to convince homeowners to drop suit, according to Rose.

In return, Rolling Meadows has agreed to certain conditions concerning land development at the city's southeastern edge.

Of primary significance is the city's willingness not to annex property east of new Wilke Road between Central Road and Kirchoff which is the last remaining tract of unincorporated land between the two municipalities.

However, a petition for annexation of the 25-acre tract already has been filed and a public hearing will be held.

BUT IF ALL THE stipulations of the recently adopted agreement are met, city officials probably will be willing to give it up, according to Mayor Roland Meyer.

In other sections of the agreement, Rolling Meadows agrees to restrict development of the Isenstein-Park property emphasizing the screening of certain commercial property near Arlington Heights including gas stations, drive-ins, garages and other types of commercial property.

Also the agreement limits the heights of any buildings to 40 feet and construction is limited to masonry material.

Study Ombudsman

The public relations committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board took two steps Tuesday night to research the village's need for an ombudsman.

The committee, headed by Dwight Walton, agreed to collect and study complaints received in the municipal building over a 30 day period.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson and department heads use complaint forms to register resident gripes. Walton's committee will work with Hanson to break down the complaints into categories to help determine if the village needs a full or part-time ombudsman.

Also, Hanson is drafting a note to be sent to residents seeking village aid on problems that require more than immediate action.

THE CARD, WHEN approved, will go to residents who, for example, complain about weed-filled vacant lots. Normally, cutting the weeds may require from 10 to 20 days, as the lot's owner must be notified, and if he won't clip the weeds, the village will do it and charge the owner.

The card, when finished by Hanson, will go back to the public relations committee for approval.

Finally, Trustee William Griffin is collecting a list of homeowners groups in Arlington Heights. Village trustees will be responsible individually for keeping in contact with the groups to check complaints that arise in subdivisions.

Trustees may drop by homeowners' meetings to keep tabs on concerns of village residents, Walton said.

Futurities

School Dist. 25 board members will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at the Administration Building, 301 W. South St.

The Wheeling Township Republican Organization will meet at 8:15 p.m. today at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, 811 N. Yale Ave.

Girls Help Defeat Pet Bills

by JOAN KLUSMANN

"If you give baby animals to a store and they sell them, you're never really sure what kind of a home they get," said 11-year-old Laura Keplinger, a successful campaigner against proposed legislation to prohibit the sale of pets by individuals.

When her father, William Keplinger, 306 W. Victoria Lane, Arlington Heights, brought home a copy of "The National Observer," Laura noticed an article about two bills in Springfield to limit pet sales. She immediately went into action.

She and classmates Nancy Walker and Linda Dreiling prepared signs informing residents that the bills would stop sales of mammals, fish, birds and reptiles by their owners. The posters read, "We need your help to defeat these bills."

Including their phone numbers on the signs, the girls posted them in local stores and businesses. One man, attracted by the sign, did call Laura and told her he was in sympathy with her fight.

THIS WEEK THE girls learned they fought a successful battle. State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, informed Laura that both bills were defeated in the legislature. Happy at the outcome, she said "Some people would really have been affected by the bills. Turtles have babies all the time."

A student at Oliver Wendell Holmes School, Laura has just one pet, a dog named Donegal.

Mrs. Keplinger, delighted with the girls' activity, said she and her husband were amazed that students of this age would take such an intense interest in legislation. "Many adults sit around, argue and complain, but never do anything about it. We think this is a good sign," she said.

Find Job Defects

by JOAN KLUSMANN

Trustees of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library decided Tuesday to notify the contractor for the library building that all deficiencies in work must be corrected immediately or the board will engage another firm and deduct the cost from the original contract.

Main cause of complaint is a defect in roof insulation on the edges of the building which causes water stains on the ceiling. The architect will prepare an itemized list of jobs not successfully completed and the builder will have three days to terminate the work. The list was slated to go in the mail today.

AT STAKE IN THE rapid job completion is the freeing of surplus construction funds for book purchases. Before making a final decision on the switch in funds, trustees must have a job completion certificate from the architect and an audit must be done by an independent firm.

Use of the surplus funds, estimated at $150,000, would help alleviate the current book shortage at the library. Well below the "two books per capita" standard recommended by the American Library Association, trustees estimate that it will take at least four years and over $650,000 to bring the library to the minimum standard.

Suspect Identified In Holdup

Arlington Heights police reported last night that the man wanted in connection with the theft of $1,500 worth of camera equipment from a local camera store April 29 is the same person who is being sought for the shooting of a state trooper in Volo, Ill., May 26.

State Police said they staked out the Williams Bay, Wis., home of Gerald D. Walker's wife, Edna Walker.

THEY REPORTED taking serial numbers from various items in the house, and Arlington Heights police said the numbers corresponded with the number on a camera reported stolen from the Community Camera Store, 114 N. Evergreen, Arlington Heights.

Arlington Heights Police said employees at the camera store were shown several photographs and made a positive identification of Walker.

Walker, who is wanted in the theft for armed robbery, is also charged with attempted murder, aggravated battery and auto theft in connection with the wounding of the state trooper.

CONSTRUCTION ON the Minneapolis Honeywell plant, located on the northern border of Arlington Heights just beyond Dundee Road, is rolling ahead quickly. The plant is the largest single facility in the Arlington Industrial and Research Center.

BILL GAPPERT, president of the Elk Grove Township Young Republicans, likes world travel and believes planning and organization are the keys to success, no matter what goals you hope to attain.

He's six foot tall, balding, and he prefers kangaroos.

Bill Gappert, president of the Young Republicans of Elk Grove Township, which now has 25 members, is an easy-going fellow who believes world travel is broadening, and he's flown half-way around the world to prove it.

"I toured the states as a boy. San Francisco is still my favorite place... and now I'm touring the world."

"A few years ago I went to Hawaii, Tahiti and Australia. Last year I went to Europe, but I didn't enjoy it as much as Australia. It's too Americanized. So a few months ago I went back to Australia for a month."

"It's still in the distant future, but I'd like to make my next trek to the British Isles and tour the country by motorcycle," he said.

GAPPERT, 33 and single, is a purchasing agent for Fuz-On Products, 1620 W. Central Road, Mount Prospect. He lives in an unincorporated area near Arlington Heights with his parents.

A man who believes planning and organization are the keys to success, Gappert said he methodically plans both his work and his leisure time activities.

"I don't have any political ambitions, but I do want to stay and grow with my company. A man once told me if you think like a peanut, you'll be a peanut. I believe him. You have to think big."

Gappert wears a small kangaroo button in his lapel, instead of the traditional GOP

elephant.

WHEN ASKED about it, he said, "I got it in Australia. It doesn't mean anything, but I believe in being an individual, so I wear it. Of course there's a limit to being an individual, too. I don't think it should go to the point of leading demonstrations against police or the war in Vietnam."

Gappert, who lived on the northwest side of Chicago until he was 11, graduated from Arlington High School in 1954 and earned a degree in geology from Colorado College in 1958. After graduation, he served a six month hitch in the Army and came back to work for Fuz-On, where he has been ever since.

he is now interested in learning to sail. A golf and ski enthusiast, Gappert says "I'm going to take sailing lessons soon and after that, I hope to get a boat. Only trouble is finding a place to moor it. I checked on several places in Chicago and most of them have a three year waiting list. The nearest I can get is in Kenosha and that's too far to be convenient," he said.

GAPPERT said he believes in personal involvement and joining the Young Republicans is one way he gets it. "You should know what issues are important to your area, and who your representatives are. It's your duty as a citizen."

Then with a quick nod of his head, Gappert checked his wristwatch, which is attached to a thick leather band and said, "Time to get back to the office. I have a lot of work to do yet today." And the interview was over.

Park Board Defers Brochure Payment

by SANDRA BROWNING

The Arlington Heights Park Board will not immediately pay its bill for delivering brochures describing summer activities.

Board members decided Tuesday night to defer payment of a bill for $262.55 until

Still Want Buses

Traffic lights at the Palatine-Buffalo Road intersection haven't made the crossing safe enough for teenage drivers, the High School District 213 Board was told Monday.

Hop Moul, vice president of the Arlington Heights Homeowners' Association, asked the board to provide busing for another year for the 14 teenagers attending Hershey High School.

Moul and parents in his neighborhood do not think the Palatine-Buffalo Road crossing is safe.

There are eight lanes of traffic moving at the intersection. Moul pointed out, with two of the lanes constantly moving at all times. "I tried to cross there and didn't feel confident about it," he said. "It is rather difficult to get across. You just don't know which way the traffic is going to go."

If the school district doesn't want to provide a bus, Moul suggested that the intersection might be manned by a crossing guard or the lights adjusted so pedestrians can cross when all the lights are red.

Moul noted that there are few sidewalks between the Vista subdivision and Hershey, a mile south on Thomas Road.

JOE SCHIFFHAUER of 307 Knob Hill Drive, Arlington Heights, told the Herald

he plans to make the same request for students from the Ivy Hill and Knob Hill subdivisions. Schiffhauer said he had hoped to speak at Monday's meeting but didn't call in time to get his name on the agenda.

"We have identical problems," Schiffhauer said. "There are few sidewalks, a crossing problem, and we are less than a mile and a half from the school, so student busing is not required."

Supt. Edward H. Gilbert told the school board he will ask business manager Robert Weber to make a report on busing required for student safety for all schools, not just for Hershey.

BUSING THE VISTA students requires year-round service of one bus at an approximate cost to the district of $7,200.

Most of the Hershey students were bused this year because traffic lights were missing both at Palatine Road and at the Rand-Thomas intersection west of the school.

The Palatine-Buffalo Road lights went in last fall at Gov. Sam Shapiro's order after two Wheeling High School students were killed there in a collision with a school bus.

Lights at the Rand-Thomas intersection were put into service in mid-May.

Demo Candidacy to Warman?

Three Democrat committeemen in the four-township area insisted Wednesday their candidate for 13th District congressional remains a question.

A reliable news source Tuesday night said Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie is a unanimous pick among the district's eight committeemen. None of the four area committeemen were at home Tuesday night for comment.

Following a Sunday screening session, the committeemen were to go back to their organizations for direction on selecting a candidate. Another meeting was set for June 19 for committeemen to decide their candidates.

The Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization met Tuesday night. Democrats in Palatine Township were to meet last night and Schaumburg Township is meeting Friday night.

James McCabe, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said his organization had authorized him to select a candidate even before initial screening began. McCabe said he knows who he will vote for, but will wait until the June 19 meeting to disclose his decision.

PETE GERLING, Palatine Township Democrat committeeman, said he has the field of 10 candidates narrowed down to "three or four." He specifically cited his preferences as Warman, Raymond S. True of Roselle and Milton Rakove, a political science professor. He said his party's executive board is also familiar with these candidates.

Elk Grove Township Democrat Committeeman Chester Chesney said his group is leaving the choice up to him. He favors two men — Warman and Rakove.

The Schaumburg township organization could not be reached for comment.

According to party leaders at the May 26 screening session, the question of a Democrat primary fight would depend on whether committeemen can agree on one candidate. Chesney said Wednesday he believes the committeemen will resolve the selection to only one man because there is little time and money and only six months before the next April election.

THE ELK GROVE Township committeeman said his fellow party leaders wanted an open primary but the regular organization wanted "to save all its ammunition for the general election."

"All organizations in the district are quite low on funds," Chesney said. "There are not as many fat cats when you're out of power as when you're in."

New Trier Township Committeeman Lynn Williams said Tuesday night that there is, among committeemen, "general indication of a favorable attitude toward Warman."

Williams also insisted, though, the question of a candidate and primary race is still open.

According to Williams, Warman's views on issues show: opposition to the Vietnam war to the point of unilateral withdrawal, if necessary, and opposition to excessive military spending and the ABM.

Warman blamed excessive military spending for inflation by pouring billions into the economy without putting any counterpart goods or services into the market to be bought with the money distributed, according to Williams.

"He also pointed out his record of independent voting in the state legislature and indicated his freedom of domination by machine politics," Williams said.

THE MAVERICK New Trier Democrat agreed with an analysis Warman is "not a Daley Democrat."

"It seemed to me that the positions he stated are very similar to those of Sen. Kennedy and Sen. McGovern."

Warman, 42, an attorney, is in his third term in the Illinois legislature, representing the 4th District. He serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees. He was named one of the best freshman legislators for his work in 1965 and 1966.

In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislators' award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

Present Field Day Awards

Award ribbons for the first Field Days at Edgar Allen Poe School in Arlington Heights were presented at a special awards assembly by Poe principal Donald Ghrist.

IN THE HIGH JUMP, Eric Claeys and Doris Wiedner won first in the sixth grade; Jim Weidner and Cathy Zaring, first in fifth grade and Hal Livermore and Kyle Bower won first in fourth grade.

First place tug-of-war winners from sixth grade were Howard Yundt, Kelly Bauer and Ron Martin; girls, Anne Fritchie, Karen LaBrie and Susan Fischer. Fifth grade, Tim McGovern, Terry Roberts and Mark Engelthaler; girls, Cathy Zaring, Carol Perley, Nancy Keys and Nancy Lendenbach. Fourth grade, Ray Langel, Tim Martineau, Don Wilke, Tom Rogers and Guy Gorius; girls, Kyle Bower, Diane Tieberg, Carol Gilbert and Donna Keesling.

IN THE 30-YARD shuttle relay, team winners were: fourth grade, George Oslovich, Greg Lathan, Kirk Wylie and Kevin Richardson; girls, Denise Dunn, Cathy Miller, Sue Jordan and Cathy McRaynolds. Fifth grade, Mark Karalus, Dave Kneec, Shawn Allen, Dave Castella; girls, Karen Hoeck, Pam Koif, Debbie Jensen and Chris Kile. Sixth grade, Marietta Chaney, Valerie Koif, Patty Hayes and Luanne Brendel; boys, Tom Litman, George Coe, Doug Jayes and Dan Clark.

The sixth graders held a 75-yard shuttle relay with the team of Barry Schuster, Mark Nicklas, Steve Wellbank and John Rose winning first for boys and in girls, Diana Thompson, Melinda West, Margaret Trausch and Christine Nelson.

Individual winners in the softball throw were Bob Thompson and Barbara Warner, sixth grade; Jeff Schuster and Lisa Ryan, fifth grade and David Dir and Myra Palmer, fourth grade.

Dist. 59 Seeks Advance

A request for an advance on incoming tax money has been received by Elk Grove Township from School Dist. 59.

A letter to township officials from the district disclosed that Dist. 59 would like to have some money ahead of the normal distribution of the tax funds.

Lou Audi, Dist. 59 finance director, said the request is simply to keep the district apprised of the amount of delay expected in the disbursement of the money.

The district has never requested an advance before, but the tax bills "have never been this late before," Audi said.

ELK GROVE Township Collector Arnold Scharringhausen said he felt confident that the district may receive some $200,000 in advance money, but preferred to further study the matter before a definite commitment was made by his office.

In seeking an advance on incoming tax money, Dist. 59 shares the plight of many other local taxing districts. The money is coming in very late and some budgets are stretched to their limit.

Choose New President

The Arlington Beautification Council's board of directors met recently and chose Robert Jacoby, 305 E. Talbot St., as their new president.

Board members were told of various contributions made to the council including a gift of $300 from the Arlington Heights Jaycees.

Mrs. Jaunita Reinhard, president of the Arlington Heights Garden Club, is chairman of the committee to select appropriate planting around a new Jaycee activities calendar which will be erected east of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway depot.

A donation of $400 will be given to the council by the Arlington Heights Garden Club. The gift will be donated in honor of Gilbert Krohn, past president of the garden club and the first president of the Arlington Beautification Council (ABC).

HAGENBRING'S, A LOCAL retail store at 105 W. Campbell St., has given $100 to ABC for the second year.

Arlington Heights Woman's Club conservation committee gave $100 to the council and has sponsored the council since it was organized in 1966.

The Council is incorporated with the state as a nonprofit, tax-free organization. Interested citizens have been urged by Council members to join the group and participate in the council's goal of cleaning up and beautifying the village. For further information call 392-3145.

Hetke in Honor Society

Richard Hetke was recently named a National Honor Society Scholar, becoming the first student at the Arlington High School to receive the honor.

A graduating senior, Richard is among 220 seniors in the country who received the award. This fall Richard will major in pre-law and finance at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N. H.

Richard has also been chosen as one of four valedictorians in the class of 1969 at Arlington. All valedictorians had a straight A average during their four years of high school.

THE BASES FOR the honorary scholarship are scores on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test, school records, activities, and recommendations by counselors and Arlington's National Honor Society sponsors. Richard was elected to the National Honor Society during his sophomore year at Arlington and was president of Arlington's chapter this year.

He is the son of Richard Hetke, principal at Ridge School in Arlington Heights. The family resides at 624 N. Hickory Ave.

Dist. 59 Meeting Place is Changed

The School Dist. 59 Board of Education meeting will be held at Grove Junior High School, 777 Elk Grove Blvd., Monday night instead of the original plan to meet at the Administration Center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Road.

Board officials announced the change in place because of an anticipated large turnout at Monday's meeting.

As previously scheduled, a meeting to conduct preliminary business will be held at the Administration Center at 8 p.m. and then the group will move to Grove Junior High School for the remainder of the agenda.

During the meeting, Jack Peleck and Dan McGuire, recently hired recreation supervisors, were introduced to the board members. Mary Lou Boden, center director of Recreation Park, was also introduced.

In other action, board members decided to write a letter to Arlington Heights concerning the land donations for the Three Lakes subdivision.

When the village approved the zoning for the 238 acre parcel of land in extreme northern Arlington Heights, the developer agreed to donate money instead of dedicating a school-park site.

The village has agreed to consider the needs of the school district in relation to the subdivision which could produce as many as 300 children when its apartment and single family dwellings are built.

The letter from the park board will advise the village of the park district's interest in having its needs considered also.
